

DEMO-POPULISTIC TICKET NAMED.

In Nebraska the Two Parties Decide That Fusion is Better Than Going it Alone.

DEMOCRATS ENDORSE PLATFORM

Populists Reaffirm People's Party Principles but Recognize that Circumstances Alter Cases.

Columbus, Neb., Aug. 25.—The Democratic state convention, which met here tonight, nominated a fusion ticket headed by Judge J. J. Sullivan of this city for supreme justice (Democrat), and William O. Jones of Adams county (Populist), and Dr. E. O. Weber of Saunders (Populist), for regents of the state university. The platform reaffirms the national platform adopted at Kansas City and arraigns the present national administration. It also opposes asset currency legislation.

The Democratic state convention was called to order at 8:20 tonight by Chairman H. H. of the state central committee who, after a brief address, introduced George L. Loomis of Fremont as temporary chairman. Loomis was enthusiastically received and at once announced the nomination by the Populists at Grand Island of Judge John J. Sullivan for supreme justice.

Chairman Loomis then addressed the convention as follows: "In Democracy the individual man stands first and foremost, and his rights and interests are the matter of supreme consideration. No one must think from this, however, that there is no danger or purpose in Democracy inimical to capital, for such is not the case. The true spirit of Democracy urges every one to save and accumulate by all honorable means, and to enjoy the success and prosperity of all men. It is only when capital seeks to evade its just share of the burdens of government or when its owners undertake to use the power it gives them to oppress others, or to gain by illegal or questionable means, some inequitable advantage over the less fortunate that the voice of Democracy is raised in protest. No one can regret more than we the almost ceaseless conflict going on between capital and labor, for we recognize the fact that each is dependent on the other for its highest prosperity and good. Capital, without labor to use it, is unproductive, and all but useless while labor without capital to employ it is idle, hungry and clothed in rags. Neither can be to any extent profitable or productive without the other. To injure either is to do an injustice to the other; to attempt to seriously cripple either would be an unbecoming crime. The two should be the staunchest of friends, and would be if the right spirit always prevailed on both sides. But while human nature is so constituted that men will disagree, and are unable many times to settle the differences between themselves, and the disagreements between capital and labor are fraught with so much hardship and injury to both, and often to the people of the whole country, some means of adjusting such differences is of vital importance. We, therefore, favor voluntary arbitration as the means best intended to bring about a fair settlement of all differences between the two without injustice to either."

"We are now on the eve of another national campaign. Within a year the conventions will be held, and the parties will place in nomination their candidates for the offices of president and vice president of the United States. He who has been our leader in the last two campaigns, and has borne aloft the standard of Democracy with an energy and ability that has no parallel in the annals of this or any other country, and of whom it can be truthfully said, as of him, 'Defeated, but not conquered,' is not again to be our candidate. Let us, therefore, turn to the Democrats, that his mantle falls not on one unworthy to bear it. There are many able and consistent Democrats, who have shown themselves entitled to the confidence of the party and the people, and under the leadership of one of them the next battle will be fought. May it be one in whose election the true principles of Democracy will triumph, and in whose hands the rights of the people, and the great principles of our government, will be safe from all manner of assault, whether open or insidious."

"Conditions are fast ripening for a grand national victory. The party in power, evidently mistaking its success in the past few elections to mean an irrevocable vote of confidence on the part of the people, has become arrogant and corrupt, utterly regardless of personal rights, openly defiant of all law that stands in the way of party purposes, and shown itself unworthy to be longer entrusted with power. The government of the Philippines it has refused to extend to that people the protection of the Constitution, has denied the most sacred truths of the Declaration of Independence, suppressed the bill of rights and founded a government based on the un-American idea that the people have no natural rights and only such civil rights as are granted by act of Congress, or bestowed by grace of Republican officials."

"Its open and shameless alliance, offensive and defensive, with trusts and monopolies from which it receives and expects to receive large financial contributions, its determination not to permit the modification of a single provision of the present iniquitous tariff law that would bring relief to the people at the expense of some favored trust or monopoly; its now apparent design to fasten upon the country an asset currency for the benefit of the national banks, and the encouragement of wild speculation, and its many other sins of commission and omission, have set the people to thinking, and they are getting ready, when the time comes to administer a rebuke that will be as efficient as it is deserved."

The temporary organization was made permanent and W. R. Thompson, fusion candidate for governor in 1902, was made chairman of a committee of nine on resolutions.

William J. Bryan addressed the convention at length. He eulogized the young men of the country and said that the hope of Democracy rested in them. Chairman Loomis then announced that nominations for justice of the supreme court and two university regents were in order and a delegate named Judge John J. Sullivan for supreme justice. Mr. Bryan seconded the nomination in a brief speech and Sullivan was named by acclamation and much enthusiasm.

POPLISTS NAME A DEMOCRAT.

Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 25.—The Populist state convention was called to order at 8 o'clock tonight by Chairman W. R. Weber of the state central committee. Ex-Gov. Poynter nominated Judge Parsons of North Platte for temporary chairman, and he was elected. On taking the chair Judge Parsons addressed the convention briefly, paying a compliment to the Denver conference.

The temporary organization was made permanent and the convention at once proceeded to the nomination of a ticket. T. T. Tibbles nominated Judge John J. Sullivan, present chief justice of the supreme court, for the office of supreme justice, and he was chosen by acclamation.

A lively discussion of the convention decided to nominate for the office of supreme justice Judge John J. Sullivan, present chief justice of the supreme court, for the office of supreme justice, and he was chosen by acclamation.

The convention then nominated with opposition Prof. W. A. Jones of Adams county, and Dr. E. O. Weber of Adams county, for regents of the state university. Both nominations were made by acclamation.

The platform reaffirms allegiance to the principles of the People's party, expressed in its national platform, but recognizes that the election this year involves no national politics. It does, however, involve the right of the people to have the supreme control of the state kept free from the control of any evil influence.

It condemns the action of the Republican state convention in its selection of a candidate for supreme justice, "selected months in advance by the railroad lobby," and protests against the "domination of corporate interests in the court, which finally determines the rights of the citizen in his life, property and liberty and the redress of his wrongs," urging the people to "prevent these selfish interests from subverting our highest judiciary."

It also indorses the efforts towards higher education and advocates the interests of the state university and the agricultural department of that institution.

GROOM KILLED HIMSELF.

At Time Was Walking with Girl He Was to Marry.

Berkeley, Cal., Aug. 25.—Wayne McCleod, 26 years old, a copywriter for the San Francisco newspaper, who was to have married Margaret Matthews tonight, shot and instantly killed himself while walking in front of the home of Miss Matthews' parents, Miss Matthews was walking with him at the time, and caught McCleod as he fell. Death was instantaneous.

While Woods sat in the barber's chair yesterday, a few minutes before his capture, a man, now believed to have been Theron, entered the shop, whispered in his ear and then walked out. Woods made no attempt to follow and almost immediately afterward was taken into custody by Constable Wilson and another officer.

SENATOR HANNA ILL.

CITY OF KRUSHEVO A HEAP OF RUINS.

Place Uninhabitable by Reason of Odor of Corpses, Which Are Gnawed by Pigs and Dogs.

Work of Destruction Was Planned and Completed by Order and Direction of Turkish Authorities.

Monastir, European Turkey, Aug. 23.—The once beautiful city of Krushevo is a heap of ruins. The women and children are homeless, exposed to the weather and famine. The town is rendered uninhabitable by the odor of corpses which are being gnawed by dogs and pigs. The Turkish authorities refusing to allow them to be removed under the pretext that an inquest will be held.

Krushevo is situated on a hill southwest and eight hours distant from Monastir. It contained 250 houses and 1,000 inhabitants, mostly Vlachs, calling themselves Greeks. There were also 100 Bulgarian houses. The Vlachs are prosperous merchants who travel abroad on business, leaving their families in Krushevo.

After making fortunes abroad by their diligence and economy they return to spend their wealth in Krushevo, where they own fine houses, furniture and jewels. The Turkish inhabitants of the surrounding villages have long envied the prosperity of Krushevo. The Macedonian committee in concert with Bulgarian bands, had been completing arrangements during several months with a view to occupying the town. In July last the authorities of Krushevo, observing the threatening movement, begged the val of Monastir to send reinforcements, as the garrison of 20 soldiers was insufficient to cope with an insurrection.

On Aug. 2 the day fixed for the Bulgarian attack on Krushevo, while four marriages were being celebrated in the Greek church, a number of Koraitias, by prearrangement, rushed upon the church and were locked in by the sultan on the conclusion of the ceremonies. At 10 o'clock at night they sounded an alarm by ringing the church bells. Simultaneously a band of 300 insurgents headed by Peteroff, entered the town, discharging their rifles.

The terrified inhabitants remained indoors. The following morning the Komitias established a provisional government and instituted a new police and municipality. They killed 10 Christians who, they believed, had betrayed the plans of the commission. The right of the citizen to his life, property and liberty and the redress of his wrongs, urging the people to "prevent these selfish interests from subverting our highest judiciary."

It also indorses the efforts towards higher education and advocates the interests of the state university and the agricultural department of that institution.

The Turks entered the town and, guided by Turkish villagers from the neighborhood, attacked the houses of the Greek notables and ordered the inmates to be searched and stripped. They seized the money and jewels and ravished the women, those who resisted being killed. A Greek priest who sought to protect his daughter was killed. The girl's earrings were torn out and her hand was chopped off to secure a bracelet.

When the houses had been pillaged the Turkish peasants looted their horses with whatever was left and the residences were burned. The sack of Krushevo lasted three days, during which time the women and children remained without food and shelter, and at the mercy of the soldiers and the Bashibazouks.

INSURGENTS TAKE A FORT.

On Departure of Russian Squadron They Attacked Inigida.

Sofia, Aug. 25.—Following the departure of the Russian squadron from Inigida the insurgents attacked and captured a fort there. The bands are especially active around Lozengrad, where a number of villages have been burned. Revolutionists at Mahla attacked 250 Bashibazouks, who entrenched themselves in a stone tower. The revolutionists blew up the tower with dynamite at night and killed all the Bashibazouks.

The Turkish population along the Bulgarian frontier is greatly alarmed. The people have left their houses and retreated into the interior. The insurgents attacked a Turkish frontier post at Kotebas and killed 30 soldiers.

Many Turks are attempting to cross the frontier, but the Bulgarian guards have turned them back. The insurrectionary movement is reported to have gained strength particularly in the districts of Kukush, Gergelie, Entle, Vardar, Voden and the environs of Salonika. All sides are reported to have lost heavily. At Salonika, the Turkish troops have been ordered to retire in the face of bombs which were thrown among them.

JOHNSON BEAT ZIMMERMAN.

Cleveland's Mayor Will Get gubernatorial Nomination.

Columbus, O., Aug. 25.—The preliminary meetings this afternoon and evening of the Democratic state convention resulted in favor of Mayor Tom L. Johnson of Cleveland, in his contest with John L. Zimmerman of Springfield, for the gubernatorial nomination.

Mayor Johnson, who controlled the Democratic state committee last year at Sandusky and the committee selected then, in its call for this convention, provided that the credentials from all the counties were to be first submitted to the state central committee.

Pursuant to this new requirement, the state central committee, which was selected at Sandusky last year met today and passed upon the credentials that affect 145 of the 690 delegates in favor of the Johnson men, who thus had the odds in the favor of the delegates met later by congressional districts to select members of the committees on credentials, resolutions, etc.

The new state central committee organized tonight with W. L. Finley of Kenton as chairman and E. C. Madigan of Cleveland as secretary, both Johnson men. The Johnson men controlled the preliminary meeting and they firmly as the afternoon meetings, but the Zimmerman men fought at every point and will present minority reports to the convention tomorrow on everything.

While Johnson still advocates John H. Clarke of Cleveland for senator, it is believed that the names of G. M. Saltsberger, the temporary chairman of the convention, former Congressman Lentz and others will be presented, and there is much talk about nominating Bookwalter, notwithstanding his withdrawal from the contest. Zimmerman, the close friend of Bookwalter, late tonight issued another statement that Bookwalter would decline if he was named for senator.

C. C. Philbrick, one of the close counselors of Johnson, called on Zimmerman tonight and offered him the endorsement for senator if he would withdraw his name. Zimmerman, who is Johnson's opponent, would not entertain the proposition.

CHEYENNE SUN DANCE.

Mr. Mooney Denies that It Was Paid for by Him.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Prof. Mooney of the bureau of ethnology has made a statement to Prof. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institute in regard to the Cheyenne sun dance, which he is said to have encouraged. He denies that the dance was paid for by him in whole or in part, but says that it was the regular tribal ceremony enacted by numerous tribes on various reservations every year.

Within the past 10 years, Mr. Mooney says, he has witnessed four of these dances, which were held with the full knowledge and sanction of the agent. He denies that in the last night of the dance with cords and that of the 129 Indians who participated in the dance lately held one was anxious to undergo the peculiar form of torture in a public dance with a view of sacrifice.

Prof. Mooney says that a council of chiefs was held and he advised against anything in the nature of torture, although he learned afterward that the man referred to had two slits made in his breast with a knife, each cut being about half an inch in length. He declared that he was not present and did not know of the occurrence until the next day.
