

PREST. ROOSEVELT WANTS RESULTS

To Him Matter of Indifference
Whether State or Nation
Preserves Resources.

MR. BRYAN GIVES HIS VIEWS.

Quite As Important to See That Resources Are Not Monopolized
As Well as Conserved.

Washington, May 15.—The first conference of the governors of the states of the American Union ended today. Like many of the important events of history, time is needed to reveal the epoch which the president and the governors believe have been made. The accomplishments of the conference, which has been in session at the White House for three days, cannot be set forth with mathematical precision. That its immediate results are more than ample is the expression of President Roosevelt, who brought it about, and of the governors who participated.

The printed record of the conference, which will later be available to every American home, will be a compilation of facts, and the president's opinion of the governors, their universal conclusion that the states must act, and that the states and the nation must co-operate to the end that the people of the nation may secure the lasting benefit of its natural resources.

Besides the compilation of facts by the experts and the freely expressed opinion of the governors, the conference leaves as its permanent record a thousand words of "declaration," not a "declaration of independence," but a "declaration of co-operation." Perhaps greater in importance than all else was the determination of the governors of the states to perfect a permanent organization whereby a heretofore unknown intimacy may be developed among the executives of the sovereign states, made strong by common purpose and made potent by pronouncements which may not lightly be disregarded.

Today's session of the conference with feature climaxes. President Roosevelt declared himself emphatically as not caring whether action for the conservation of resources or the protection of the rights of the people be taken by the states or by the federal government, so long as action resulted.

William J. Bryan delivered an address in keeping with the purposes of the convention, which was cordially received. Governors of many states expressed their appreciation of the benefits of the conference. The president cordially thanked the governors for their presence and earnest participation.

The third and last day of the conference of governors began with every indication that important action would result. A full attendance was present when President Roosevelt called the conference to order this morning. Gov. Blanchard of Louisiana, chairman of the committee on resolutions, presented the report of his committee. This report, which is an extended document, embraces recommendations along general and broad lines, avoiding specific recommendations for national or state legislation. The report is prefaced by a reiteration of what has been said in the conference regarding the necessity for united action which will result in the preservation of the natural resources of the country.

ADDRESS OF MR. BRYAN.

After the platform had been adopted the president introduced Mr. Bryan who began a speech.

Mr. Bryan acknowledged his obligations to the president for the opportunity of participating in an historic event of this magnitude. The discussion had already, he said, helped define the proper sphere of national and state control. He said he was jealous of any encroachment upon the rights of the states, but it was entirely consistent with his theory to believe that it was just as imperative that the general government should discharge the duties delegated to it as it was that the states should exercise the powers reserved to them.

"There is no twilight zone between the nation and the states," continued

Mr. Bryan, "in which exploiting interests can take refuge both, and by observation is that most-not all, but most-of the contentions over the line between nation and state are traceable to predatory corporations, which are trying to shield themselves from deserved punishment or endeavoring to prevent needed restraining legislation."

Mr. Bryan said we should not only preserve the nation's resources for future generations, but should see to it that these were not monopolized by a few of the people, and future generations should not be fettered with perpetual franchises.

Coal, iron and timber on the free list would tend to reduce the waste and exploitation of our own resources. Mr. Bryan said Mr. Hill had rendered a real service in pointing out the impairment of the crop value of our soil, which should lead to a still further enlargement of the work of the department of agriculture. Irrigation was thoroughly justified, Mr. Bryan continued, by the transformation of a desert into field and garden, and the nation could there find a legitimate field for activity.

Drainage of the swamps, too, was legitimate, and no subject more fully justified the attention given by the department of the interior. The field was so large, he said, and the need for action so urgent, that both state and nation could exercise themselves to the full without doing too much.

Mr. Bryan said the development of water transportation was essentially a national project, yet the states might do a certain amount of developing if they were permitted to avail themselves of the water power that could be realized. In conclusion, he declared that money spent in these great projects was a bequest to those who are to come after us, and this gathering would be remembered by future generations, because they, as well as ourselves, would be the recipients of the benefits to follow.

GOV. COMER.

Gov. Comer of Alabama took the platform, and while heartily endorsing the objects of the conference, he remarked, turning to the president: "We are a little bit skeptical, Mr. President, about turning over our railroads to the president. We're not quite so with you there—but the waterways."

This seeming desire of Gov. Comer to get away quickly from his suggestion of opposition to the president caused a general laughter. Gov. Comer said that his state was anxious to develop the water power of the state, and he also made them navigable. His state wanted to know whether in building locks the nation would not permit them to be constructed so as to develop water power.

RESPONSE OF PRESIDENT.

When Gov. Comer had finished, the president carried the convention entirely off its feet with an unexpected and brief address, in which he placed himself squarely on record as his belief regarding the division of power between the states and the nation. He said:

"I want to say one word about the twilight land—the power between the federal and state governments. My aim in the legislation I have advocated is to get away from the twilight land. The federal government has been to provide a sound, effective, popular sovereign for each corporation. (Applause.) What I am trying to do is not negatively, but by decisions that a state cannot or federal decisions that the nation cannot act—where one or the other can act so that there shall always be some sovereign power on behalf of the people that they may hold over the big corporations, over the big individuals, to that an accountability regarding their acts shall be had for the benefit of the people. (Applause.)"

In matters that relate only to the people within the state, of course the state is to be sovereign, and it should have the power to act. If the matter is such that the state itself cannot act, then I wish on behalf of the state that the national government should act. (Applause.)

The president explained in detail his position relative to the use of water power and other concessions granted by the national government to corporations and individuals. He believed that none of these privileges should be granted without a reservation in the franchise limiting the time it should run and providing that compensation be paid for the privilege. This, he said, guaranteed to future generations the right to control the natural resources on which they would depend and make it possible for them to terminate any private control over such resources which might be granted now.

Where this policy can be carried out best by the state it ought to be done by the state. Where it can be best carried out by the nation, then the nation should enforce it. My concern is not in the academic discussion of either the principle of the state's right or the principle of national sovereignty, but it is what will best conserve

NERVOUS HEADACHES

Frequently Caused by Mental Overwork.

Can Be Cured Only by Toning up the Nervous System, the Treatment
Which Restored This Young
Ithaca Woman to Health.

One who has not endured the suffering caused by nervous headache cannot realize the awful agony of its victims.

Worst of all, the ordinary treatment cannot be relied upon to cure nor even to give relief that is permanent. Some doctors will say that if a person is subject to these headaches there is nothing that will prevent their recurrence.

Nervous headaches, as well as neuralgia, are caused by lack of nutrition—the nerves are starved. Feed the nerves by furnishing through the blood the elements which they require and the cause of these nervous troubles is removed. The only way to feed the nerves is through the blood and it is in this way that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have accomplished so many remarkable cures.

Miss P. Mae Markell, of 103 Huestis street, Ithaca, N. Y., says: "I had nervous headaches for several years. They began when I was a student in the high school. I was studying hard, grew pale and thin and my friends were afraid I was going into a decline. I had no appetite, my digestion was poor and I lost in weight. The headaches came on two or three times a week and sometimes every day. They were so severe that quite often I would have to go to bed when I came home from school. My blood was in such a bad condition that my hands were covered with a rash."

"Our family doctor benefited me for a time, but did not seem able to cure me. My grandfather told me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, saying they had helped him. I found that they were helping me and took them until cured. When school opened again I was strong and able to study and have never had the headaches since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists. Price will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. They are guaranteed to be free from opiates or any harmful drug and cannot injure the most delicate system.

the needs of the people as a whole."

The president's remarks were received with thunderous applause and, after a few moments, he turned to the conference and proceeded with other addresses.

Governors Hoch of Kansas, Meade of Washington and others spoke briefly. After Mr. Bryan's resolution of sympathy to former President Cleveland had been presented and adopted, and provided for the reading of the prepared papers had been made, Gov. Blanchard moved that the convention adjourn sine die, but before putting the motion, President Roosevelt said he wished to extend his thanks to those who had attended the conference.

"The White House," he said, "has held many distinguished gatherings in its day, but I do not believe it has ever held as distinguished a gathering as this, composed of governors and the representatives of executives of all the states of the Union."

"I thank you for coming and I can assure you that at least no body of guests here ever had more welcome than you have been to the White House."

The president then declared the conference adjourned sine die.

CHICAGO COLISEUM

IN PROHIBITION COLUMN

Chicago, May 15.—The sub-committee on arrangements of the Republican national committee passed a rule today which puts the Coliseum, where the convention is to be held, in the prohibited column. It decides that no liquor shall be sold, served or brought into the convention hall either at the committee meetings or during the convention week.

The committee also placed a ban on portraits as adornments for the walls of the hall and the decorations, according to the present plan, will be confined to flags and bunting. The reason given for the latter prohibition was the number of favorite sons whose pictures delegates might insist upon having placed and the jealousies and friction that might grow out of the placing of them.

The committee also decided to authorize Chairman New to arrange for a parade of the marching clubs, which are expected from all parts of the United States.

MRS. METSKER ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF MURDER

Cassopolis, Mich., May 15.—The acquittal of Mrs. Christina Metsker, of South Bend, Ind., of the charge of murdering Carleton Morgan of South Bend at 3 o'clock on the morning of April 10 outside the home of Mrs. Mae Green in this city, was the occasion of an unprecedented demonstration in court late today. Deaf to warnings and threats of arrest the crowd cheered and clapped happily and sang. Several hundred people escorted Mrs. Metsker to the jail where she picked up her personal belongings and from there to the station where she took a train for South Bend. Mrs. Metsker's husband had already left for home on an afternoon train.

During the trial Mrs. Metsker testified that the shooting of Morgan was an accident. She said that she followed her husband and Morgan to Cassopolis upon discovering a letter signed "The Merry Widow," and making an appointment for her husband to join a party at Mrs. Green's. She carried the revolver, she said, only for self-protection. The fatal shot was fired, she said, accidentally in the struggle that ensued when her husband, encountering her as he emerged from Mrs. Green's home, with Morgan, struggled with her for possession of the revolver.

METHODISTS WILL NOT

ELECT MANY BISHOPS

Baltimore, May 15.—There are indications today that the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church now in session will not elect as many new bishops as had been expected. It has been thought that the number elected would be eight, but it now seems certain that the committee having charge of the election will recommend that the total number of bishops be made less than it has been hitherto, but that there be no reduction in the foreign field. The decision does not mean that there will be no bishops elected for service in the United States, but simply that the number elected will not be as had been anticipated. Economy is said to be the actuating idea.

A favorable report from the committee on revision of the proposition to drop fasting as one of the requirements of the candidates for ordination to the ministry, was defeated today by 240 to 280.

To the committee on temperance was sent without discussion a resolution calling upon every member of the Methodist Episcopal communion to give financial and moral support to the anti-saloon league in its work and warfare against the liquor traffic in this country.

INNOCENT PURCHASERS.

House Public Lands Committee Against Resolution for Protection.

Washington, May 15.—An unfavorable report was ordered today by the public lands committee of the house on the senate resolution providing for the protection of innocent purchasers in connection with prosecutions authorized by this Congress and about to be begun to recover for the government some millions of acres of public lands in far western states which it is alleged have been illegally administered by railroad companies to whom they were granted.

The committee based its adverse action on a letter from the attorney general promising to preserve without special legislation the rights of innocent parties.

"IN GOD WE TRUST."

Philadelphia Mint All Ready to Strike Coins With It On.

Washington, May 15.—The passage by Congress of an act restoring to United States coins the words, "In God We Trust," has been anticipated to some extent by the treasury department, and although the act does not go into effect for 30 days the mint at Philadelphia already has made the necessary changes in its dies so that if required it could at once begin to turn out the new coins. It is stated that within the 30 days' limitation, the mints at San Francisco, Denver and New Orleans will be similarly equipped.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK.

Washington, May 15.—Bills were today passed by the senate to establish the Glacier national park west of the summit of the Rocky mountains and south of the international boundary line in Montana, comprising 1,000,000 acres.

GUNNERS' TROPHY.

Will be Transferred from the Illinois
To the Maryland.

San Francisco, May 16.—The Pacific fleet, instead of leaving port yesterday morning as has been the schedule in the program changed its plans at the last moment on orders from Washington, and it was announced yesterday that the reason for this delay was the desire of the authorities of the navy department to have the gunners' trophy, recently won by the Maryland, transferred from the Illinois while both vessels were in the harbor. That ceremony will, therefore, take place this morning.

The trophy is a beautiful bronze tablet engraved to represent fighting ships, rushing through the sea at a swift pace, and bearing on its surface the names of the Oregon, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois, the previous winners of the prize. President Roosevelt offered this trophy to the best gunners of the navy.

S.S.S. PURIFIES S.S.S. THE BLOOD

Bad blood is responsible for most of the ailments of mankind. When from any cause this vital fluid becomes infected with impurities, humors or poisons, disease in some form is sure to follow. Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Boils, Pimples, etc., while they show on the skin, have an underlying cause which is far deeper—an impure, humor-infected blood supply, and until this is corrected, and the blood purified, the distressing itching and burning symptoms will remain. Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Blood Poison and all other blood disorders, are the result of a vitiated, polluted circulation, and will continue to grow worse unless the poison is removed from the blood. In all blood and skin diseases S. S. S. has proved itself a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all waste matter, humors or poisons, and makes the blood pure and health-sustaining. Nothing reaches inherited taints and old chronic troubles like S. S. S.; it cures because it purifies the blood and restores lost properties to the impoverished circulation. Not only is S. S. S. a blood purifier of the highest order, but a tonic and appetizer without an equal. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.
