PROSPECTS IN NEW MEXICO.

Resident of Fruitland Describes the Enticements to Homeseekers.

WATER SUPPLY EXCELLENT.

Coal Mines Within Two Miles of Town—Enormous Yield of Fruit and Potatoes.

J. R. Young, of Fruitland, New Mexico, writes the following bit of interesting information to his friend, C. E. Taylor, of this city:

Fruitland, N. M., March 23.—Fruitland is situated on the north side of the San Juan river, twelve miles below Farmington, which is the largest town in San Juan county, N. M. Our burg consists of about 30 families, scattered along the river for about four miles, or rather on a low level, beautiful bench, or mesa, that runs parallel with the river. The soil on the mesa is sandy, parts good for cultivation, some parts covered with cobble stones, but level and slightly for building purposes. The rocky land being centrally located, we purchased it, and laid out a town of 50 lots—one acre to the lot—four lots in the block, wide streets, Utah fashion. The bottom lands are heavy, sandy loam, usually covered with heavy growth of Rabbit brush, sage, squaw brush and cottonwoods. Usual crops here are wheat, oats, corn, alfalfa, onions, potatoes, squash, melon, and fruits of nearly all kinds, but alfalfa (alfalfa), beans and apples seem to do the best. I have apple trees that have yielded me 1,500 pounds of apples to the tree, yearly. We now have three respectable stores, and two postoffices. There is an abundance of water. Our Colorado, which is our nearest railroad point. Our water supply is furnished by the Animas and San Juan rivers. The San Juan will compare favorably with Green river. Our lands are watered by the Coolidge canal and Fruitland ditch. The Coolidge canal was constructed by eastern capitalists. It is 10 feet on bottom and three feet deep. Fruitland ditch is 7 feet on bottom, 2 feet deep. The latter is owned by the farmers, and gives satisfaction. There is a home market as we have here. Our coal is abundant; mines within two miles of town. Coal at the mines, $1 per ton.

The upper country is 4,800 feet, country open, being from 40 to 60 miles to mountains. General appearance of country desert and uninviting, but the oceans of water and the supply of coal and temperate climate, not hot in summer, nor very cold in winter, coupled with almost perpetual sunshine, overbalances the lightness, and in some places alfalfa and corn can be raised. I try to tell things as I see them, and I have never lived in any other place where there was so good a home market as we have here. The San Juan river divides us from 40,000 Navajos. Every year they exchange thousands of dollars' worth of blankets and other goods for our flour is worth $2.50 per 100 pounds, corn two cents, wheat two cents, and we have imported over 200,000 pounds of low grade flour as we have here. Our last twelve months. Should you wish to visit Fruitland, take the D. & R. G. to Durango; fare $22. Daily mail from Durango to Farmington, fare $5, or write me and I will meet our friends at Durango with outfit, and show them the country on reasonable rate.

A ranch in this country generally consists of 100 acres of land, with such is the Coolidge ranch, of 120 acres, with 2,000 bearing fruit trees, 40 acres of alfalfa, a paid up water right of $1,500. Price $5,000. Mines are abundant. Our ranches are near by, but the best opening near us is in Jewett valley, six miles below us on the same river. They have an excellent canal, plenty of water, and write me and I will meet our friends at Durango with outfit, and show them the country on reasonable rate.

Several of the ranches that I have referred to are adjoining our new town, such is the Coolidge ranch, of 120 acres, with 2,000 bearing fruit trees, 40 acres of alfalfa, a paid up water right of $1,500. Price $5,000. Mines are abundant. Our ranches are near by, but the best opening near us is in Jewett valley, six miles below us on the same river. They have an excellent canal, plenty of water, and write me and I will meet our friends at Durango with outfit, and show them the country on reasonable rate.

At Bloomfield, thirty miles above us, is another good opening, they have the same kind of land, about 1,500 acres of government land, and many ranches that can be bought. But it needs thirty families to take care of it as to have strength to take out new and higher priced land. This last noted place is an excellent one, good range for stock, handy to wood and coal, plenty of water and I repeat there is no better soil for all kinds of crops than can be found at Bloomfield.

CACHE COUNTY AFFAIRS.

Clarkston Incorporated—Stranger Dies in Jail.

Special Correspondence.

Bogan, Cache Co., April 3.—The session of the county commissioners continued today. James V. Allen, of Smithfield, the newly appointed commissioner, qualified for office and his bond was accepted. Allen then took the seat for a division of the Covelville school district was rejected, but the commissioners consented to hear an amended petition on April 9.

The commissioners set April 10th as time for looking over the proposed county road from Mt. Sterling on the south to Logan, a petition having been filed asking that the road be surveyed on the northern line, thereby reducing the distance to be traveled considerably.

The upper county farm was leased to Christian Hutz for the season for $3,000. The lower county farm was leased to R. N. Noyes for the season for $100. The matter of insuring the court house building was referred to commissioner Edwards.

JOHN MCCLANAHAN DEAD.

John McClanahan, a man who has been under the care of the county for a month past, died at the jail last night from consumption. He was sixty years of age and was from Brigham City to Cache Junction about a month ago in a sick condition. He was taken to Logan and died there.

John McClanahan would divide none of his history save that he had been a resident of Cache Junction for five years ago. His parents were dead and he had no relatives except one brother whom he had not seen for seven years, and knew nothing of his whereabouts.

THAWED OUT GIANT POWDER.

An employee of the Amazon mine, thirty miles up Logan canyon, Kidd by name, came nearly being blown into eternity at the mine the other day. He had a quantity of damp giant powder which he wished to dry and placed it near the fire. He stepped outside to call his companion when the powder exploded, demolishing the cabin. The shock stunned Kidd for a time but he soon recovered, and he now vows he will never attempt to thaw out giant powder again.

TRADE UNIONS CENSURED.

The limitation of the number of apprentices to be allowed in any trade is just in harmony with the general principle of modern trade unionism to limit the number of workers in the industry of every worker. In the case of the "Desert News" work with the vain intention of widening the distribution and prolonging the duration of employment, the trade unions have already dealt a severe blow at British industrial supremacy, and they are still engaged in policies and practices which threaten to throw Britain out of the industrial race altogether—Cassier's Magazine.

Houtz, charged with forging the name of her brother, Gus Streepser, to a check payable to him and which had been handed to her to send to him in Idaho.
