They are very much mistaken. The passage which Elder Lyman read here this afternoon would put to silence several very great controversies throughout Christendom if men would but accept that "fifth gospel." This remark, however, is merely by the way.

The Gentiles, in their pride, look upon him and despise him. They see his foot-steps hastening towards what they re-gard as utter extinction. But we arrest their sneers by proclaiming the word of God that there is hope even for this ap-parently helpless race, and Laman shall yet be remembered by the Lord; He is under covenant to do it. The fathers of old prayed in behalf of their poster-ity, and God heard and promised, and the children shall yet be blessed. We have a word of hope also for Ju-dah, the outcast, the one people against whom every man's hand has been rais-ed, and who have been persecuted in ages past and now by those who pre-tend to be followers of Jesus Christ, who Himself was of this same Jewish race. Does it not seem strange that those who have taken upon them the name of Christ should be the most bit-ter persecutors of His race! But we have a word of hope for Judah. We are authorized of God to say to our Jewish brethren, that Jerusalem shall be redeemed; that your people shall yet plant their feet in the land of promise; that God will guard your state, and at the last, in a splendid display of power and glory, will redeem you from the nations that now oppress you. We have a word of warning to the Gentile races upon this promised land of the western world. Honor the God of this land, says our Book of Mormon. If ye honor Him not, but steel your hearts against Him. however great our love may be for you, the Warning hoarts against Him, however great our love may be for you, the warning word of God is, that if you honor not the God of this land, who is Jesus Christ, you may read your fate in the calamities that have overtaken the for calamities that have overtaken the for-mer nations, who in pride and world-ly glory once occupied this land from north to south as you do. But we will not be doubtful of you, but hopeful, that you will honor the God of the land-Jesus Christ. We will proclaim peace, and the peaceable things of God's kingdom. We invite and exhort all men to accept these principles of di-vine truth, so burdened with knowledge all men to accept these principles of di-vine truth, so burdened with knowledge and with hope-giving life, and so pre-clous in ministering unto man's honor and glory. The Lord bless you in the name of Jesus. Amen.

"Mormonism" has a word to speak in this connection for all the children of men. For while the pre-existence of the spirit of the Lord Jesus Christ is a great truth, there is a still greater truth to proclaim, and that greater truth is part of the message that "Mor-monism" has to deliver to the world. In a revelation given in 1833 to the Prophet Joseph Smith the Lord Jesus "And now, verily I say unto you, I was in the beginning with the Father, and am the first-born;"

I am glad that there are so many millions this day rejoic-ing in this one great truth of the Christian religion—the fact of the resurrection of the dead; the hope of immortality, which it teaches to man-kind. kind. The various sects of Christendom may be in error in relation to many things, and in error concerning some matters pertaining to this fact of the resurrection; but I rejoice that through all the apostasy from the true religion of Jesus Christ this one part of the Gospel remains in the minds and hearts of so many people, and is with them a hope and an inspiration to higher and to better living. When the Church as an organization ceased to exist; when, as we may say, that glorious sun set "Ye" [meaning the Elders whom He addressed]—"ye were also in the beginning with the Father; that which is spirit, even the spirit of truth."... "Man was also in the beginning with God. Intelligence, or the light of truth, was not created or made, neither indeed can be truth, was not created or made, heither indeed can be. "All truth is independent in that sphere in which God has placed it, to act for itself, as all intelligence also, otherwise there is no existence. "Behold, here is the agency of man, and here is the condemnation of man, because that which was from the be-cimpting is plainly manifest unto them. an organization ceased to exist; when, as we may say, that glorious sun set behind the horizon of man's vision, it did leave, at least, some lights in the sky that reflected some portions of the truth of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The dispensation of the gospel, which we call the dispensation of the meridian of time, because that dispensation was given about midway between the com-mencement of the work of the Lord in ginning is plainly manifest unto them, and they receive not the light. "And every man whose spirit receiv-

"For man is spirit." Man is not so much lime, phosphate, and other gross materials, but man is spirit; and was, like Jesus, in the be-ginning with the Father. Intelligences are begotten spirits, and they partake of the nature of him who begets them. Paul says: "We have had fathers of our flesh which corrected us and we gave them reverence; shall we not much rather be in subjection to the Father of spirits and live?" There is this difference, I think, between a created thing and a begotten person-age: A created thing may not partake of the nature of him who creates it; as for instance, the vessel, constructed and put forth into the sea under the cunning hands of the shipwright, does not partake of the nature of its crea-tor; but if the shipwright shall beget a son, he imparts to him of his own complete the salvation of men and the redemption of the world-I say that that dispensation of the Gospel, oc-curring midway between these two great events, was glorious in many regreat events, was glorious in many re-spects. It was glorious in this for one thing—it brought forth a full and com-plete revelation of God through the per-son and character of the Lord Jesus Christ. For, in addition to the work of redemption that He wrought out for mankind, Jesus Christ stood forth as the revealed Deity, as God manifested in the fash, the revealed no of God to the revealed Deity, as God manifested in the flesh, the revelation of God to man; so that henceforth all the mists that befog philosophy, all the errors of science falsely so called, all the mys-tery that Paganism had interwoven with this theme, might stand removed from the vision of man, and henceforth God should be known not only as to the fact of His being, but also as to the a son, he imparts to him of his own nature, and the offspring in a general way is like him who begets it. So when we speak of God creating man we ought to make this distinction. God of the Lord that man henceforth should see divinity-God revealed through the person and character of Jesus Christ. ought to make this distinction. God begets intelligences, spirits, and these spirits, male and female, partake of the nature of God. Intelligence itself is uncreated, self-existent; and these spirits begotten in the world where God dwells are afterwards begotten men and women here in the flesh, to follow still further in the footsteps of their Father. person and character of Jesus Christ. And that truth remains in the earth; it is a standard by which we may meas-ure the teachings of any who shall come proclaiming Deity. Does he meas-ure up, and is He identical with Jesus of Nazareth, the revelation of God to man? If not, then we know that teach-er who so fails is in error; for as Jesus Christ is in His resurrected immortal body of flesh and bone—as Jesus Christ is in His mental, moral and spiritual their Father.

This is the great truth which I re-ferred to a moment since that Mor-monism has to offer to the world. It is is in His mental, moral and spiritual nature, so God is. principle that was unknown to our g neration until it was through God's chosen servant in these last days, the Prophet Joseph Smith. We carry this message in our right hand to the world. We not only tell men of the immortality that shall be men of the immortality that shall be after the resurrection, but we tell them of the immortality that existed before their earth-life began. The mists that shroud the origin of man and that per-plex the philosophers are pushed away, and behold! we look into a beginning-less past, as we look forward into an endless future. Beginnings can only be of a local nature, and this beginning spoken of here when Jesus was "in the beginning with the Father," and when your spirits and mine were "in the be-ginning with the Father." has refer-ence only to things pertaining to this mortal life of ours, and this earth upon which we live, and does not refer to which we live, and does not refer to duration apart from these local events about which we talk; and concerning which, in order to be understood, we have to speak of in terms that are sometimes in themselves paradoxical. As Brother Lyman taught us this after-noon, duration itself is beginningless noon, duration itself is beginningless and endless, just as matter is exhaust-less, and cannot be created and can-not be annihilated. It can only be changed in form to meet the purposes of God as He designs the development and growth of His universe. We take then this truth to the world, the truth of the eternal existence of man's intelligence. And what will be the moral effect of the announcement of such a doctrine? A spiritual awak-ening. We had not known, neither had our fathers known, until it pleased God

Now, that truth came forth in its fuliness in the dispensation of the meridian of time, and also this splendid truth which is having such an influence in the hearts of men-the resurrection of the dead. The great truth that man must live, and live eternally; that he is must live, and live eternally; that he is and will be, in his resurrected person-age, an indestructible being. Running parallel with that great truth is this other truth, that he must school him-self to live in harmony with truth as God reveals it. The sconer he learns that lesson the sconer will he be in the way of perpetual and eternal happiness. He must conform to law, for it is uni-versal and infinite. It is everywhere op-erating. Man cannot escape it. Ob-versal and infinite. It is everywhere op-erating. Man cannot escape it. Ob-servance of the law will bring him hap-piness and peace, and he will find him-self in harmony with all the infinities through obsdience to law. These are some of the splendid truths of our common Christian heritage, and I am very happy that there are so many millions who participate with us, in part at least, in a knowledge of these great things. great things.

During the remarks of our President this morning I was reflecting upon the subject of the resurrection of the Sa-vior, and of the many congregations vior, and of the many congregations that would assemble to do Him honor that would assemble to do Him honor this day, and I thought, what is it that we have to offer the world that they do not now possess? For, in their mis-conception of this latter-day work, men have narrowed it down until they miss-the really fundamental truths upon which the Church of Christ in these last days is based, and fail to grasp the genius of this great work, just as it has been explained to us by Elder Ly-man, that they misconceive the bond that unites us, the force that impels us to united action and makes us, by way of pre-eminence the united people. And this thought came to my mind in connection with the resurrection, nameour fathers known, until it pleased God to reveal it, whence man's origin; but now we begin to recognize man's im-portance in the world. We begin to realize that his intelligence, the spirit, realize that his intelligence, the spirit, exists upon the self same principle upon which God exists. We speak of God as a self-existent being and the doctrine is true. The Prophet Joseph Smith taught that man also was a self-existent being, of the same nature as his Father. I say the moral effect of that truth in the world will yet beget a spiritual up-lifting the like of which has not been known in the ages that are past.

of pre-eminence the united people. And this thought came to my mind in connection with the resurrection, name-ly, that we bave such a fullness of the truth, that we believe not only in the immortality of man after his resurrec-tion, but we believe in the absolute im-mortality of the intelligence that is within him. That is to say, we be-lieve in an immortality that has no be-ginning, just as we believe in an im-mortality that has no end. Any thing short of this is not immortality. John begins his Gospel with a very beauti-ful preface, which I will read to you. I think, by the way, that he wrote it because when he composed his gospel pagan ideas had begun to creep into the Church. The philosophy of Plato, which was the rage in that day, had taken possession of the minds of the people. Plato, by the way, had selzed upon some great truths, and anong oth-ers he had grasped, at least in part, the meaning of man's immortality, the pre-existence and the indestructibility of man's spirit. So I think, with this in mind, and in order to state the truth exactly to the followers of Jesus, John started this beautiful preface of his Gospel by saying: known in the ages that are past. I was pleased to hear the hopeful notes in the words of our Brother Ly-man, whom we are as glad to see among us as he is to see us, and it is with warm hearts and welcome hands that we hall his return. After being faithful, sturdy, and true as he has been while abroad, he now returns to us, and we bid him a hearty welcome in this general conference. Let me be your mouthplece in saying to him, Welcome, Brother Lyman! I say I am pleased to see the hopeful note to him, Welcome, Brother Lyman: I say I am pleased to see the hopeful note in his words concerning the acceptance of this people and their doctrines by the world. Many tens of thousands will yet receive these truths, perhaps not di-rectly from your hands nor from mine; but already, as leaven in measures of meal are these withcomes working, and
