Salt Lake Belle Enters Suit in Third District Court Against The Colonel.

FOR HE FAILED TO PROVIDE.

She Asks That Her Malden Name o Mary Shaughnessy Be Restored And Alimony be Granted. Fountain.

Mary Shaughnessy Trumbo is plaintiff in a suit filed in the Third district court for divorce from her husband, Isaac Trumbo, urging failure to provide as the ground upon which wishes a decree. In her complaint, Mrs. Trumbo sets forth that they were married in Salt Lake City, Nov. 6, 1900, and that for more than a year Inst past Trumbo, although alleged by plaintiff to be worth more than $50, 000, has falled to provide for her the common necessaries of life.

She therefore asks for a decree of divorce, that she be permitted to use again her former name of Mary Shaughnessy; for such alimony as the court may deem just; and for costs of sult.

Mrs. Trumbo is a daughter of Col. Shaughnessy of this city, and prior to her marriage with Col. Trumbo was numbered among the young belles of Salt Lake. Both she and her husband have resided in San Francisco during the past seven years.

Storage Shipments Will be Carried With Special Privileges to Shippers.

WILL SOON APPLY TO UTAH.

Tariff Already Arranged for States to The East and Within a Short Time Will Be in Effect Here.

Out of a multitude of "rumors," "reports" and "announcements" regarding wool matters in this state, there has at last arisen something of a definite nature and something which will be hailed with delight by those desirous of storing wool to create a better market, The railroads are arranging special tar. Infs on wool with an idea of adapting them to the storage system. The Union Pacific last Friday put in a tariff of incalculable benefit to wool growers east of Utah and is now working out a tariff for those in this state, and Idaho.

The new arrangement is this: When a grower ships his wool to Omaha to store it there until he sees fit to reload and send it on to the eastern markets, he will pay the rate between shipping point and final destination. When he is ready to ship to market he will simply have to load, for he nas already paid all charges. Thus it will be seen the scheme is not a new rate but a spe-cial privilege attached to old rates, the shipper is given the right to have his wool held along the route by paying the long distance haul charge. Local rates play no part in the transaction.

the long distance haul charge. Local rates play no part in the transaction. This means a saving to the growers, for the railroads have every right under the law to charge a local rate to storing point and again from storing point to ultimate destination. Some restrictions go with the ar-rangement. The wool must be moved from storing point to destination within a year and destination must be some point on or east of the Mississippi. Should the weight of shipment to destination be greater than the shipment to Omaha.

kets ire east of the Mississippi. Should the weight of shipment to destination be greater than the shipment to Omaha. excess charges will be of course levied at tariff carload rate, applying between Omaha and destination. Shipping charges will be paid upon arrival of the consignment at Omaha and all charges must be the minimum named in the rates covering wool movement. No switching charges upon wool shipped by the Union Pacific. This arrangement at the present lime applies to wool consignments in carload lots when originating in Wyoming Colorado, Nebraska and New Mexico Utah and Idaho will come within the circle just as soon as officials now working on the changes can complete their labors. In fact, wool from Drag-on, Utah, on the Unitah is now enjoy-ing the advantages of the scheme. The Burlington and Northwestern have put the latter line had to get permission of allied lines in Iowa and the Ore-gon Short Line. By the time the new arrangement is held out to Utah, this year's movement will have been com-pleted but next senson will open with glowing promise on account of the raliroads' move. The rate on wool from Utah common points to Mississippi river points is 1.55½ per 100 pounds and $1.65½ to Chicago.

The entire lower floor was thrown open and a most enjoy-able evening was in order. A number of the choruses of Mr. Orlob's opera were sung and dances induiged in and eventually Mr. Newhouse sped the part-ing guests in automobiles. Mr. Newhouse is apparently taking a great interest in the new opera and when he heard that Mr. Orlob had writ-ten a new Utah patriotic song entitled "Mr. Newhouse" he insisted that those responsible spend the evening at his house and demonstrate that the new lyric was not too libelious for public production.
