WASHINGTON, 13 .- Lowry of Indians Washington, 13.—Lowry of Indiana from the Committee on Expenditures in the Treasury Department reported back the resolution calling for intormation from the Secretary of the Treasury as to the reason for his failure to investigate the charges of fraud against R. D. Lancaster, at present Surveyor of the Port of St. Louis.

O'Neill of Missouri, said that so far as Lancaster was concerned, he had stat all times courted the fulfest investigation and that the judgment of the people of St. Louis was that that officer had been guilty of no intentional fraud.

Glover of Missouri, said that so far from Lancaster dealring an investiga-tion he had refused to make an am-davit purging himself of franci, for reasons that the House might well sur-mise. reasons that the House might well surmise.

Lowry hoped that the resolutions would be agreed to and oil poured upon the troubled waters of St. Lonis politics. The resolution was adopted. On motion of Ryan, of Kansas, the Senate bill was passed authorizing the Secretary of War to credit the State of Kansas with a certain sum of mony on her ordinance account with the General Government.

The House then resumed consideration of the Senate amendment to the

LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION BILL

The Senate amendment relative to the publication of the records of the rebellion was concurred in with the amendment reported from the commit-tee on appropriations for the publication of papers relating to the defense in the case of Fitz-Jean Porter. This concluded the consideration of the amendments and a conference was asked upon the amendments which had The floor was then accorded to the Committee on Ways and Means. He then proceeded to submit an argument in opposition to the resolution declaring it had been brought before declaring it had been brought before the House by the action of the demo-cratic Speaker, the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee and the democratic chairman of the democratic chairman of the democratic chairman of the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee and the democratic chairman of the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee and the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee democratic chairman of the democratic chai tween the two great political parties, and this was an attempt on the part of the leaders of the House to force the payment of the sational debt and oblipayment of the House to lorce the payment of the sational debt and obligations in silver; to force the government in its disancial transactions to a silver basis, which the administration carnestly and determinedly resisted. This was a deciaration that the U.S. bonds should be paid in silver dollars, and the world was to so understand it. Its was practically impossible to execute the joint resolution without using the silver dollars, all of them possibly, because all the surplus was in silver. He did not hesitate to say that it was repudiation. It was a violation of the spirit of the law to pay bonds in silver. They could not have been placed except on the assurance on the part of the administration that they would be paid in gold. What had induced the democratic party to satiagonize the party who had placed them in power?

Morrison suggested in reply that it was none of his (Hiscock's) business. Hiscock—Is that your only answer? Is that the only answer the democratic leaders can give why they have depart-adopting the resolution Congress would be trying a very dangerous experiment, one that might bring disaster and ruin to the people, and one that the administration felt justified in advising against and opposing. On alls question no one doubted the patriotism of the President and the Secretary of the Treasury, and he congratulated them for following so closely in the footsteps of their republican predecessors. On this great question President Cleveland was greater than the party which had elected him.

and denied the statement therein made that the effect of the resolution would be to shake public confidence.

Morrison admitted that he could conceive that it might be that for a very short time the $100,000,000 might be trenched upon. Suppose a call were made to day, when there was $100,000,000 in the Treasury, and to morrow $1,000,000 in the Treasury, and to might have to be trenched upon, but only to a very small amount and for a very short time. He argued that $100,000 was a sufficient redemption fund, and pointed out the fact that only $10,000,000 was held in the Treasury to enable government to relicen the National Bank notes in case of the fullure of the banks. And is conclusion he denied that the purpose or effect of the resolution was to place the country on a siven basis.
