HEBER. IRRIGATION LECTURE.

State Engineer Doremus Discusses Local And State Water Problems.

Special Correspondence.

Heber City, Wasatch Co., July 20,-State Engineer A. F. Doremus discuss-ed problems on irrigation with a large ed problems on irrigation with a large and appreciative audience of business men and farmers, at Heber last night, at a meeting presided over by Mayor Joseph A. Rasband. Mr. Doremus was enthusiastically received and the in-formation he gave out will be invalu-able to the people of this valley. He explained in considerable detail the difficulties resulting from the old com-mon law principle of obtaining and maintaining water rights, with special reference to the conditions in Utah. reference to the conditions in Utah. Under the old system it is practically impossible for a farmer to define his true rights in the stream which he is using, owing to the innumerable other claims of parties in the same stream.

This condition has not been particular-ly detrimental to our past interests when the water supply was adequate for the land usage, but now that seri-ous disputes are arising causing end-less and expensive litigation the peo-ple naturally look to a remedy not pro-vided for in the old law.

The speaker maintained that land values are governed by the water title, the latter increasing the value of real estate, in instances, almost fabulously; that reason demands as much care, at least, in defining and establishing a title to the water as to the land.

Sheriff Harman of Provo was an Og-den visitor yesterday afternoon and Peter Young was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Al Herrick on the water. There is still an abundance of range grass in mountain guiches and in irrigated pastur.s, and both range and domestic stock are in exceland in ent condition. Vegetables and Melons-There is prospect for a good yield of potatoes in most sections, though the crop will ma-ture later than usual, owing to damage by frost; sugar beets are thriving and promise good returns; melons have made excellent growth, and will prob-ably begin to come into market by Aug. I. Garden vegetables are gen-erally doing well.

HOW TO MARKET FRUIT. Few farmers realize the importance

Few farmers realize the importance of proper marketing of fruit and vege-tables. The fruit is the harvest, the reward of long and laborious efforts. Institute speakers and some of our ag-ricultural journals go into the details of explaining how to prepare the soil, to plant, cultivate, combat insects and fungous pests are the unfortunately fungous pests, etc., but unfortunately they do not tell what is the most lu-crative way for farmers to market their they grow the crop is important-in To grow the crop is important-in fact, indispensable, but I believe the marketing is quite as important, and is a co-equal factor with it when it comes to the question of dollars and cents gained. Therefore I urge my brother farmers to give this end of the business more attention. Study the markets more, and learn their requirements. It is unbill business selling people what is uphill business selling people what they don't like. It is much easier to sell them the amount of vegetables they want and done up in a package which pleases them, and in the end will be found more remunerative. The majority of farmers know there are two markets, general and special, but they do not know what each re-quires. There is a sharp line of divi-sion between the two, and a man must adapt himself to whichever one he is catering. The gameral catering. The general or wholesale market handles produce in large quan-titles, the special or retail in small. The producer when he sells in quantities sells through a middleman or commis-sion agent, but when he sells in small quantities he is his own salesman. If he be a fruit man and sells to the genhe be a fruit man and sells to the gen-eral market, he should have few vari-eties and these should be the standard ones, whereas if his market be special various varieties are desired as they are more api to suit the different fan-cies of different people. Then again, the wholesale market cares little for quality, but goese almost entirely by quality, but goese almost entirely by appearance. The opposite is true of the retail or special market. Many make handsome sums in growing fruit and vegetables out of season. The special market gives extra prices for such cial market gives extra prices for such produce, while the general market wouldn't look at the stuff out of sea-son at all. These questions confront every grower, and he must decide for himself which market he can best adapt himself to and work to that end. Do one or the other; have an end in view, and make all your steps lead to that end.

that end. The picking counts for much in mar-The picking counts for much in mar-keting a crop succasfully. With fruits, the general tendency is to pick too late. When allowed to become too far ad-vanced, the fruit will bruise easier, will go bad sconer, and is in no way desira-ble to put on the market. Apples and pears are always taken from the tree before they are fully ripe, and plums

PEACH BORERS.

Mr. C. C. Newman of South Carolina where peach borers are common and very destructive, recommends the fol-lowing wash to be used after digging out the larvae: Quick lime, 20 pounds; whale-oil soap, 3 pounds; sulphur, four gal. The directions say to dissolve the soap in three galons of hot water. Mak, a thin paste of the subpur and of the Paris green, and add to the soap solu-tion. While the lime is being slaked in a half barred the mixture is coursed tion. While the time is being staked in a half barrel the mixture is poured over it and the whole gradually diluted to 25 gallons. It is applied warm with a stiff broom or brush. It is cheap and easy to make. Mr. Newman's ex-perience shows it to be effective.

. The Best of its kind--

- BECAUSE it is used as the standard by the United States Supreme Court and by nearly all of the Federal and State Courts.
- BECAUSE it is the standard in the United States Government Printing Office at Washington, and in the executive departments generally.
- BECAUSE the schoolbooks of the country are based upon it,-25,000,000 issued annually-so that the children are educated in accordance with its principles.
- BECAUSE in every instance where State purchases have been made for the supply of public schools, Webster has been selected.
- BECAUSE it is heartily recommended by nearly all the Presidents of Universities, Colleges, and Seminaries, and by every State Superintendent of Schools now in office.
- BECAUSE it is warmly indorsed and commended by men and women of recognized authority in literature, education, and science, all over the world.
- BECAUSE of its adoption by the English Government as the standard in the Postal Telegraph Department,-the only department having an absolute standard.
- BECAUSE its sale in Canada and other English Colonies is largely in excess of the sale of all other dictionaries of similar scope.
- BECAUSE it is used as the standard by a vast majority of the newspapers. Thousands of statements to this effect are on file with the publishers.
- BECAUSE of its very wide use in Great Britain, on the Continent of Europe, in Turkey, India, Australasia, South Africa, China, Japan, South America, etc., etc., etc.
- BECAUSE it has wider acceptance and is more generally adopted in actual use as a standard authority than any other lexicon in the world.
