FITZ IN GOOD SHAPE FOR FIGHT

The Memory of Jim Corbett Seems To Trouble the Old Man.

HE WANTS TO GET AT HIM.

Bob Says: "I'll Not Hurt Myself on This Fellow"—Big T. Van Ruskirk Wants to Fight.

When Bob Fitzsimmons first arrived at his training camp in Alameda he impressed the natives with the idea that he was a lazy fellow. He would not work, and the secret of it was that the camp was previously occupied by Jim Corbett in preparation for his "go" with Jim Jeffries.

That fact preyed on Fitz's mind. He removed every evidence of Corbett ever having been there, and now the lanky fellow is down to real hard work. About the only time the name of Corbett ever flashes across his mind is when he is boxing with one of his partners. Then there is a visionary Corbett, and the old man goes at his partners with a sort of "I'll-kill-you-this-Corbett" dash.

Fitz's trainers may not be Corbett's equals in the matter of pugilistic ability, but they are fellows who give Fitz a lot to do. One is named Casey, sur-

Casey is forever figuring the distance between him and the championship between rounds.

When Casey is "all in," Big Joe Kennedy is called on to act as the old man's punching bag. Three rounds is his limit, too. He's all but out, and Fitz is just as fresh as at the beginning.

Casey gets the next call to do a wrestling stunt, and for five minutes he tugs and pulls at the Irishman. Then he gets a rub-down, and usually winds up the day's business with a tirade on Jim Corbett, who, he says, he must fight in great form now for the meeting with Gardner on Thanksgiving eve. The old fellow is making no predictions of how far the fight will go.

"I'll be quick enough," he says. "I won't hurt myself any, for I am going to show that Corbett that I am by no means a 'has been,' such as he has been telling folks east I am."

The latest addition to the pugilistic stable is T. Van Ruskirk of San Francisco. The new comer is an old-time fighter, who has some against James Jeffries, Bob Fitz and Tom Sharkey and fought creditable fights with all of them.

In his battle with Jeffries, Van Ruskirk was getting all the best of the milling when Jeff landed a terrific blow below the belt that put Van Ruskirk on the shelf for a year and necessitated an operation.

Since that time he has won hard fought battles, and now says he is in the best of condition. He holds two decisions over Jack Monroe and has knocked out Jack Johnson, Joe Choyinski, Joe Goldard and Thunderbolt Smith.

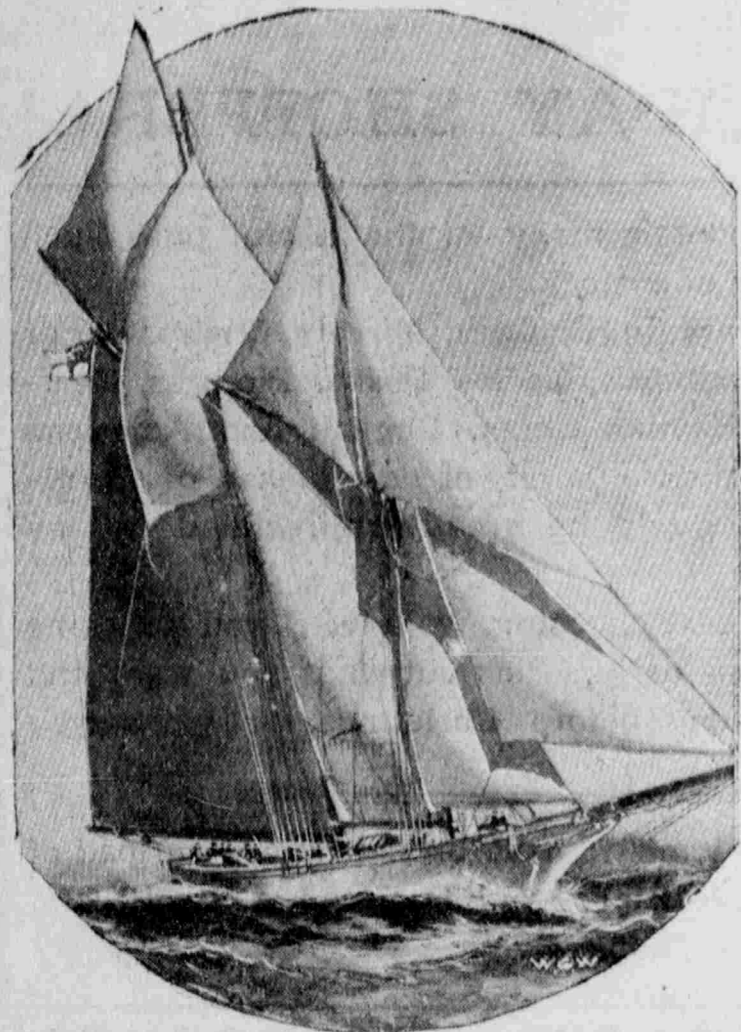

He would like to go against Jeffries, Gus Ruhlin, Bob Fitzsimmons, Tom Sharkey, Sandy Ferguson or Kid Carter.

Here is his challenge:

"I can lick any of the heavies. Would prefer to fight Gus Ruhlin and am confident I could knock him out. Come one, come all!"

named Jim, and dubbed the "Irish Giant." This Casey is the latest big man to be dug up in this part of the country having aspirations to wearing the championship laurels of Jeffries. He is over six feet in height, and Fitz is one who says he is the "goods." But he's only the makings, judging by what Fitz does to him in training.

Like leading a lamb to slaughter, Fitz first calls on Casey for the beginning of a day's work. He boxes three rounds with him at express train speed, and know Van Ruskirk and who regard him as being a huge joke.

Van Ruskirk is the man who helped to pull off the Herrera-Downey fake in this city several months ago.

FOOTBALL IS NOT NEW.

An Old Game of Ups and Downs but Always Popular.

While the history of football is a little cloudy, there is mention made of it by Shakespeare, who calls it a low game. The Twelfth Century English literature calls it a sport played with enthusiasm by the lower classes. The historian speaks of the Greeks and Romans having a kind of game or sport which consisted of kicking around a kind of ball, the game being played under certain rules and this may be taken in a wide sense to be the forerunner of the present game.

At all events it was a popular game in England several centuries before the Puritans put a serious check to it in the seventeenth century. The game, as played at that time, was very rough, if not brutal. The object at that time as now, was to kick the ball over the opponent's goal line, and to prevent such score being made against yourself. At that time the distance between goals sometimes reached two or three miles, extending from village to village.

As played at that time it was thought so brutal that the game was suppressed and laws were passed making it punishable by heavy penalties to engage in play, or to witness a game of football. In the nineteenth century it again became popular, in spite of the opposition made by parents of children who did not like the risk to clothing and limbs of their children.

In forming rules to govern the game several styles were adopted, as it was necessary for those schools to consider the size and nature of their playing grounds. On Rugby, there was sufficient room to allow kicking and tackling game. This could not be done at Charterhouse and Westminster, and there the "dribbling" game came to life. At Harrow there was plenty of free kicking and catching, but no tackling. At Eton the grounds were small and the players enjoyed the "wall game."

JOE CORBETT TRIED.

Story that He Has Been Landed by Pittsburgh is Denied.

A dispatch from Los Angeles says: The eastern papers have been springing a sensation in the shape of a story that Joe Corbett had signed for next year with Pittsburgh. Joe was tired yesterday afternoon and consented to talk the matter over.

"It's rather funny that I should be signed with Pittsburgh when as yet I know nothing about it. You may say for me that this coast looks like home to me, and as far as I know at present I will stay here with my friends. This story came to get ground, except that Ned Hanlon may have turned over his claim to me to the Pittsburgh people. Hanlon knows that I will never play ball with him again."

"When I was up north on the last trip he sent a man to talk the matter over with me. They wanted to know what I would sign with Pittsburgh for and I told them that Hanlon would have to offer me more money than had ever been paid to a ball player before. I would talk with him all right, but that would hold him for a while."

"I will not say there is no chance for me to go back east next season, as I do not know what offers they may make. I have had several very flattering propositions made to me this year, but I have accepted none of them and I may say that I have not even considered them. There may come something which I could not in reason overlook, and then it will be up to me to decide. That will be about all, I guess, except that this Pittsburgh yarn is all to the bad. Some eastern newspaper man has got his dope mixed, that's all."

OLDFIELD AFTER RECORD.

Great Interest Centered in Automobile Races on the Coast.

The Los Angeles Times says: King Barney the First, king of all the chauffeurs, will probably be in Los Angeles by Tuesday at the outside, as he wishes to get thoroughly familiar with the track conditions at Agricultural Park before his trips against time. Oldfield means to make a new world's record here, if he can, and if he fails it will not be through lack of trying.

At Inglewood last week he gave excellent satisfaction to enormous crowds of spectators. Thousands were thrilled and pleased with the one of the most unique sights ever put on at that track, the scene of so many fast and exciting horse races.

Oldfield will bring several machines, and will be on the track daily from his arrival until the races are over. The course was opened to the seething throng yesterday, and several fast machines were out warming up. Repairs all over town have been fitting on small sprockets and fast speed gears to the high-powered machines for a week.

H. C. Turner of the racing committee of the Southern California Automobile association stated yesterday that a heavy northern entry may be expected. He has already received several slips filled out with the names of leading San Francisco automobilists who will have their speed wagons here.

Enterprising local enthusiasts have laid plans to annex a few of the cups. George Stamm has built a likely-looking gas-devil which will be driven by G. M. Snyder. It contains four motive two two-cylinder two-cycle engines, rated at twelve horse power each, and Mr. Stamm expects to call it the "Speed Wolf" from its sprightly abilities. This machine bears the unique distinction of being the first two-cycle racer ever built on the coast. Engines of the type used in it have proved a decided success, and Stamm, who built his in the shop from castings to assembling, is very proud of it.

The trophies are on exhibition in Christopher's window on Spring street. There are twenty-five cups, and a finer collection never was offered for an occasion of the kind. They are massive, elaborate in workmanship and graceful in appearance.

Several fast and powerful machines have come in, one a forty-horse-power Mercedes belonging to a Pasadena man; another, a big Mors which belongs to a horseman whose stable is at Ascot Park. The Southern California Automobile association believes the meeting will prove a great stimulus to the sport.

GREAT HORSES MAY YET RACE.

Match Between Waterboy and McChesney is Again Talked Of.

INJURED ANIMAL RECOVERING.

Match Would Mean a Race Between Eastern and Western Champions—Waterboy to Stay at Sheepshead

The long talked of match between Waterboy and McChesney, the respective champion thoroughbreds of the East and West, may come together in a race after all. They have been matched a couple of times, but in each case something occurred to prevent the race. Word now comes from New York to the effect that Waterboy will not be sent to the farm this year, but will remain at Sheepshead and will be put in training again next season.

J. B. Haggins' champion is recovering speedily from the injury he received while in training for the Brighton cup. While galloping slowly a week before the event, Waterboy suddenly went lame. "Jack" Joyner, his trainer, immediately stopped him in his bottom to the sore parts relieved the lameness gradually disappeared. He is now practically well, and with a winter's rest will be in grand shape again to try for the turf honors of next year.

Speaking about the plans mapped out for his horses next season, Joyner said: "Waterboy will not be sent to the farm near Bay all winter. When the time comes he will be entered in all the important stakes and handicaps for next season. He will not be entered extensively, only among the most important fixtures."

"If he starts training he will certainly start in some, if not all, of them. One thing is certain, however, he will not race unless he is physically perfect. I would not care to have him beaten by an inferior horse just because he was not up to his best mark. He is a grand horse and when at his best is the equal of any thoroughbred in the country."

As E. E. Smathers has signified his intention of entering McChesney in all the big spring handicaps and weight-for-age stakes, the chances are bright for a meeting between the champions—the two best race horses in America to-day.

TWO SIGNALS.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1—Comes from the kidney secretions. The experienced physician knows at once the kidneys are sick when he examines the urine. You can tell for yourself. Urine that is pale and foamy—that is highly colored, reddish, blood-like—that contains sediment or "brick-dust like" deposit on standing, points to sick kidneys. Infrequent or too frequent urination and all urinary difficulties are danger signals which call for prompt use of Doan's Kidney Pills.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2—Comes from the back. Backache pains—in many forms—signal sick kidneys tell of overworked, congested kidneys; warn you of impending danger. A "bad back" is misery enough of itself, but far worse is in store, for those who neglect its warning—nervous conditions—sleepless nights—dependency—failing eyesight—muscular soreness—Rheumatic pains and many exhaustive aches. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all ills of kidneys and bladder, and are endorsed by people you know.

H. Staden, Plumber employed at the Salt Lake Hardware Co., residence 222 West Fourth South street, says: "Twenty-one years ago I was run over by a team and since then my back has been weak and my kidneys caused me no end of annoyance. In the following of my occupation fitting furnaces, heaters, etc., I have to stoop a great deal and most of the work necessitates strain on the muscles of the back. This, of course, aggravates the cause, and when in the acute stage I frequently suffer. Knowing from the irregular action of the kidney secretions that the kidneys were responsible for the annoyances led me to try remedies when the attacks were very pronounced. None of them ever brought such lasting relief as Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at the F. J. Hill Co.'s store. Satisfied that one box did its work thoroughly and well I purchased a second, and when I had completed it the attack stopped."

Never Too Late to Be Cured.

No. 125 Hennessy Street, NEW ORLEANS, LA., June 8, 1903.

Wine of Cardui is indeed an ideal woman's medicine and by far the best I have known to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for twelve years, being troubled with menorrhagia. My back ached and I had frequent bearing down pains and headaches. I would often wake from my sleep in such pain and suffering that it would be hours before I would close my weary eyes again. I dreaded the long nights as well as the weary days. I consulted several different physicians hoping to get relief, but finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me, I tried Wine of Cardui as a friend had recommended it so strongly. I am glad that I followed her advice for it was the only medicine for me, every ache and pain has gone and not only this, but my general health has improved. I feel well and strong, have a fine appetite, have gained in flesh and never looked better. My advice to suffering women is to take Wine of Cardui and they will never be disappointed in the result.

Louise Fine
TEACHING, "THE HAPPY WORKERS."

WINE of CARDUI

Twelve years of suffering? Few persons could stand any kind of sickness that length of time. But Wine of Cardui which has rescued so many sick women from chronic and so-called incurable diseases restored Miss Fine to the full enjoyment of health, when doctors could do nothing for her.

IT IS NEVER TOO LATE TO TAKE WINE OF CARDUI.

This is the message that this letter brings to every suffering woman in this country. No matter how severe your case may be, no matter how many doctors say your case is hopeless, remember that thousands of women who have been given up to die have taken Wine of Cardui and have found complete relief.

Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow, starting that important function properly when it is suppressed and checking the flow when it is profuse. It removes the weakness and inflammation which cause bearing down pains and leucorrhoea. If you are suffering you cannot do better than take this great remedy today. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
