HEROIC DEED OF THOMAS HARRIS.

He Jumped Into the Weber River And Saved a Girl From Drowning.

McLAIN HELD TO GRAND JURY.

Funeral of Thomas Keogh—Brothers Arrived for Fast Driving.

Ogden, March 25.—For the second time within a year Thomas Harris, aged 16, proved himself a hero, and now has a record of saving two lives. The last act of heroism was performed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he leaped into the icy waters of the Weber river and rescued Miss Ivy Blair, a girl about his own age, who had accidentally fallen into the stream. The girl was unconscious when taken from the river, but was resuscitated by willing hands that watched the boy struggle in the water.

Thomas Harris is the son of J. D. Harris, president of the state board of examiners for barbers, with whom he resides at 125 Patterson avenue. Yesterday afternoon he went for a stroll with his parents, which took them to the Weber river near Thirtieth street. At this point the tracks of the Oregon short line will cross the stream when the new Sand Ridge cut-off has been completed and at the present time a bridge is being constructed for that purpose. While the main bridge is being erected a footbridge made of heavy planks, laid end to end, for the use of footmen, has been temporarily set up.

Young Harris crossed over the temporary bridge to the center of the stream, where an abutment more than 100 feet in height stands. A short time afterward Miss Blair attempted to cross, and when near the center, in some way, missed her foothold and fell backwards into the water. The weight of her clothes carried her beneath the surface before she had time to utter more than one scream. Without waiting to throw aside any of his clothing, Harris leaped from the abutment to the water. He soon swam to the point where the girl had disappeared and when she came to the surface he grasped her by the hand. He then began to battle with the waves in an effort to steer the now unconscious form to the banks. The current at this point is strong and a short distance below is a deep hole full of whirlpools. Harris knew that in order to save the girl's life he must not drift to this part of the stream, and struggled all the time, his efforts he fought his way against the currents and finally when his strength was all but gone he succeeded in reaching the shore, where William News assisted in dragging the body from the water. After working over the girl for about a half hour he was brought back to life and taken to her home.

About a year ago young Harris, while walking near the railroad tracks, saw a two-year-old child playing on the tracks as the Overland Limited was approaching at a rapid rate. Realizing that the child's life was in danger, he rushed toward the approaching train, frantically waving his cap. The signal was seen by the engineer, who succeeded in bringing the train to a stop just as it struck the child, inflicting only a slight injury.

The boy is a modest hero and stated yesterday that he did only that which anyone else would have done under similar circumstances.

deputy United States Marshal H. S. Page came up from Salt Lake Saturday and yesterday served them on the defendants. Later in the day the two prisoners were taken before United States Commissioner Thomas Maloney, where after waiving preliminary examination they were bound over to the grand jury, which convenes in Salt Lake, April 3. McLain was held under $500 bail in lieu of which he was taken to Salt Lake and lodged in the county jail, while Mrs. McLain was allowed to go on her own recognizance.

The complaint filed against the McLains sets forth that on Feb. 24, 1906, they sent letters to a resident of this city, threatening to expose certain alleged immoralities if he did not produce $100 hundred money. The case was turned over to the police and postal authorities for investigation. After a month's work by the authorities the McLains were arrested, bringing the affair to an end.

When in the commissioner's office yesterday McLain took all the blame upon himself, and said that "whisky" was the cause of all his troubles.

'PHONE LINEMEN WALK OUT.
Object to Work With Non-Union Man—James Clayton Assaulted.

Special Correspondence.

Provo, Utah Co., March 2.—Last Monday E. H. Darling, local manager of the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company, discharged Line Foreman Don C. Gee. Mr. Gee objected to the discharge of George Lett as one of the linemen, and refused to put him to work when directed by the manager, who thereupon discharged Mr. Gee. The other linemen hired to take the place of Lett, among them James Clayton of this city. Friday afternoon, while Mr. Clayton was at work back of the telephone office, W. A. Edwards, a lineman in the employ of the Independent company, came to Clayton and asked him if he knew he was "scabbing." Clayton replied that he did not, and that he was not. Not much more conversation took place, but Edwards began a hostile argument, striking a vicious blow on Clayton's forehead over the right eye, and then went away. Mr. Clayton swore out a complaint in Justice Noon's court, charging Edwards with assault and battery, and Edwards was arrested and taken before the court. He took till today to plead, and was released on $75 bonds. The reason given by Mr. Gee for refusing to put Mr. Lett to work was that he is an unsafe man to work with, from lack of experience. Manager Darling says this is not so, and that Mr. Gee does not know anything about that. Mr. Darling has reasons to believe Mr. Lett is a safe man and states if he had proved not to be safe he would not have retained him; but he did not choose to be dictated to as to whom he should employ. One of the linemen told the "News" representative that the reason they quit was that they were trying to get a raise in wages. Mr. Darling says that was not mentioned by the men. They were getting $70 a month and one of them $25.00 a day for eight hours work, and only a short time ago they asked for an increase in wages and got it. The real reason is believed to be that Mr. Lett is not a member of the union and Mr. Gee and the others are. It is reported that the matter will be taken up by the union in Salt Lake.

Gun Cotton as Fuel.

"Light another hundred-foot candle of condensed gun cotton! We must make the next mile in less than a mile!"

That command, or something like it, will be given by the commander of a United States torpedo-boat in the next war in which this country may be unhappily engaged, writes Mr. W. R. Stewart in Technical World magazine for April. It will not mean that, finding his ship in a desperate situation, the captain has decided to blow himself and his whole command out of the water. It will signify only the adoption as emergency fuel of the wonderful new compound, "motorite," a secret composition of gun cotton and nitro-glycerine, invented by Hiram Maxim, whose "Maximite" is the high explosive used now by the government in submarine torpedoes.

Motorite for fuel use is packed in long steel tubes and under forced air pressure furnishes an almost unlimited amount of power for a short distance.

Tumors Conquered Without Operations

Unqualified Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Cases of Mrs. Fox and Miss Adams.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

So-called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages, or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain extending from the abdomen through the groin and thighs.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait for time to confirm your fears and go through the horrors of a hospital operation; secure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once and begin its use and write Mrs. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., for advice.

Read these strong letters from grateful women who have been cured:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(First Letter.)—In looking over your book I see that your medicine cures Tumors. I have been to a doctor and he tells me I have a tumor. I will be more than grateful if you can help me, as I do dread an operation.—Fannie D. Fox, Bradford, Pa.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—(Second Letter.)—I take the liberty to congratulate you on the success I have had with your wonderful medicine.

Eighteen months ago my periods stopped. Shortly after I felt so badly I submitted to a thorough examination by a physician, and was told that I had a tumor and would have to undergo an operation.

I soon after read one of your advertisements and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. After taking five bottles as directed, the tumor is entirely gone. I have again been examined.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; a Woman's Remedy for Women's ills.

Such an unquestioned testimony proves the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and should give confidence and hope to every sick woman.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all ailing women to write to her at Lynn, Mass., for advice.
