

SALT LAKERS IN GOTHAM.

Miss Hattie Young and Dr. Ralph Richards Among the Week's Graduates—A Society for the Promotion of Everything American in the Drama.

Special Correspondence.

New York, June 8.—Under an immense canopy of green, banked on each side with roses of every shade and size, a group of young girls, ranging in age from 10 to 18 years, clad in white with yellow ribbons on the left arm, (the Ely school colors) slowly marched to their places on the raised platform, to receive their rolls of honor on Commencement day, June 3. First in line to take her seat, and first to be called out from among her associates, was Miss Hattie Young, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Willard Young. Very beautifully did Miss Ely in her speech refer to Miss Young as a graduate, who had worked so intelligently for a place in today's exercises, that would secure her a position at Vassar College, which institute she enters October 1; very charming did Miss

Young look in her dainty dress of lace and muslin, as she stood up to receive her basket and bouquets of flowers from relatives and friends; she was well supported on the occasion, Prest. Wellings, Elders Woods and Knowlton, Doctors Ralph Richards and John Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Spicer, Mr. and Mrs. Logan and Miss Thatcher of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Easton, her uncle and aunt, being among those who applauded the young graduate. The commencement address was delivered by Prof. Edward S. Origer, of Harvard, the lecturer who has spoken before the most brilliant audiences in Boston and at the Waldorf and Cooper Institute of New York, his talks on Dante, being quoted as the most classic that are given to the public. The music was furnished by the school members, who did excellent work throughout. At the conclusion of the exercises, which were held in the large lecture room, facing the Hudson, every one was invited to the dining room, where tables were loaded with delicious salads and food, and two hours were spent in social visiting and disposing of the many good things heaped in profusion everywhere.

A genuine London fog has enveloped New York for three days past; it would be called a yellow fog by our British friends, and owes its appearance and color to the great fires that have been raging in the Adirondacks for the past week. It is suggestive of rain, but our weather prophet says we shall have no shower for several days yet. In the meantime, citizens are groping their way about in the crowded districts, ferry and steamboat travel in the bay is being cautiously managed, and traffic in all directions is carefully guarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Snow and their little son, who have been at the "Collingwood" 44 West 35th street for some months, are about to take their departure for Salt Lake to spend the summer. Their daughter, Miss Luvera Snow, is a student of the Ely school, Riverside Drive; she will accompany her parents home, returning in September to her school.

Thursday, June 4, at the New York university, University Heights, commencement exercises were held, and 500 students, 100 of whom were women, assembled in the regulation cap and gown to receive their degrees. Doctor Ralph Richards, of Salt Lake, was among the number. His record stands among the first, and all the other Utah boys in the medical school have made good records; close application to study, and exemplary conduct, have given Mr. Richards a place of merit with his professors, and the record he takes home to Utah is one of which any young man might be proud.

Just before Mrs. Oatman departed on a visit to her mother in Denver, she gave a theater party at the Terrace Gardens, to a number of her friends, which was followed by an elaborate supper. Among those invited were Mrs. Roach, Miss Annie Marble, a cousin of Joseph Jefferson, Miss Ada Patterson, Dr. Dinklespiel and Alexander Pollock. Mrs. Oatman will be absent in the west about a month.

Elder Reuben W. Alford, of Spring City, Sanpete county, has completed a mission to the eastern states, his field of labor having extended over Pennsylvania, principally. He has been released, and will return home in a day or two in company with several friends from the east. Miss May Ward, who has completed her course at Columbia, will go with Elder Alford's party to Utah.

Mr. James D. Frank, representing a big commercial house of Albany, N. Y., came down to the metropolis this week, and has been visiting with friends; at his home in Albany, he always has a welcome for Utah people.

Mr. Ned Banister has accepted a railroad proposition with Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, and left for home last Tuesday to take up work at once.

Miss Gladys Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Ferguson, (Jimmie Harrier) graduated May 26, from the Short Hand Business college of New York. Before entering the college, she was an expert telegraph operator, having finished a course at the Cooper Institute three years ago. She has now combined stenography with telegraphy; her speed may be judged, when it is known she takes with ease, 125 words a minute, which is considered excellent, by professionals in stenography. Good positions always await these clever graduates.

At the New York College of Music, on East 58th street, Thursday, June 4, the Woman's Auxiliary of the National Art Theater Society, held their second meeting. Mrs. Sidney Rosenfeld, acted as chairman. Many celebrities of the profession were present, including Viola Allen, who was chosen chairman of the entertainment committee, with Blanche Walsh and Clara Bloodgood, who were also present, as assistants, Martha McCulloch Williams, the writer, was made a member of this committee. Miss Ada Patterson, chairman of the Press committee, in a short and interesting speech, gave an account of the work done by that important body. Miss Patterson is a strong factor in this worthy association, and her pretty remarks were warmly received. Grace Gaylor Clark, read a letter relative to the work to be done the coming year, making special mention of the stock company that will be organized and composed of American talent; she was proposed as chairman of the religion committee, which position seemed difficult to fill, each member trying to steer clear of it, no one having sufficient faith in themselves to believe that they would be able to carry it off with honor. Every prominent actress in the city was present, but many of them were forced to decline offices, owing to their professional duties, which take them out of town so many months of the year. As readers of the "News" are doubtless aware, the object of this great enterprise, is not alone for the benefit of New York City. Every American citizen has a claim upon it. Its object is to foster and encourage American talent, and American plays will be the order of the stock company, during its long season of work. It will be in close imitation of the Theater Francaise of Paris—that perfect combination of amusement and education, in which the French people so greatly excel.

Elder George Cole, of Rexburg, Idaho, has arrived in the city on his way to fill a mission in the eastern states; he will labor in the West Pennsylvania conference, but for a few days he will visit with friends in Brooklyn, and leave Monday for Allegheny City.

After an absence of many weeks, almost merging into months, Prest. McQuarrie has returned from his tour of the different conferences, to New York, where he will remain for some time. Occasionally he has given us a brief call of a day or two, during the period of his wanderings, but his stay with us now will be for some time, possibly for the entire summer. Saturday evening, President and Mrs. McQuarrie, entertained at their home a number of their Salt Lake friends, who are making their home in New York for the present; among others were Mrs. Luna Y. Thatcher and daughter, Mrs. Nettie Sloan, Col. and Mrs. Willard Young, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Easton, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cummings, and Mrs. Holcomb Davis. A very delightful evening was spent in singing and social chat, and in discussing dainty refreshments.

Miss Blanche Thomas had a stroke of good fortune Monday. Hearing that several places in the "Bonnie Brier" cast were vacant for the coming season, she applied to Mr. Stapleton, the manager, for the part of "Annie," the opposite to "Jimmie"; the original "Annie," Miss Baldwin, goes out with another company next season; she had played the part for two years, and she decided to make a change. Miss Thomas had an interview with Kirke La Shelle, who pronounced her Scotch accent good, and she was accordingly engaged for all next year. "Annie" is one of the leading parts, and Miss Thomas may be congratulated in having secured it, especially in view of the fact that dozens of applicants were seeking for a place in the company.
