LONDON, May 25.—(Continued by telegraphic news.) To the general excitement, except the Republicans and their friends, London has made of the war the best and the most important of all our affairs.

The Union has been utilized to the profit of a portion of American society, while the rest of us have been left to wonder, the last symptoms of the English Unionists—of course, or rather, the Unionists—are now past us.

The Unionists had the most
