

International Money Orders—A Useful Article.

The Postoffice in New York issues, by virtue of a Postal Convention between the Government of the United States and Switzerland, money orders to any amount on every place of the Swiss Confederation. Through the same channel money can also be remitted to every village, town and city of all the European countries with which Switzerland has a money order system, viz: Italy, France, Belgium, all states of the German Empire, including the Duchy of Luxembourg, the Netherlands (Holland).

For the above named European countries the rates of exchange are fixed as follows, until further notice:

South German guilders, 41 1-5 cents gold; guilders of the Netherlands, 41 1-10 cents gold; Prussian thalers, 72 cents gold; five francs fifteen centimes of France, Belgium, and Switzerland, $1 gold; five francs fifteen centimes of Italy, $1 gold.

Certain money order offices (a list of which will be found at the foot of this bill) are designated to issue International Postal orders, and to pay orders issued by the Postmaster in New York, for sums certified by the Swiss Post Department, for payment in the United States; but any one who can not conveniently apply at either of those offices, can send money to Europe by buying a Domestic Money Order, payable to the Postmaster in New York.

This domestic order must then be sent to the Postmaster, New York, with the remitter's full address, together with the accurate address of the payee, or the party who is to receive the money, giving, if possible, name of street and number of house, or other destination; on receipt of which the New York office will issue the order and send a certificate for the money to the remitter.

The fees which are charged in Europe to the payee can be included, if desired, in the order, so that the amount thereof is delivered into the payee's hands without further expense.

These taxes are as follows:

For Italy, 75 centesimis or 15 cents gold, for every 100 francs, or fraction; for France, 75 centimes or 15 cents gold, for every 100 francs, or fraction; for Switzerland, 20 centimes or four cents on orders not exceeding 100 francs; for Switzerland, 30 centimes or 3 cents, for over 100 francs, but not exceeding 200 francs; for Switzerland, 40 centimes or 8 cents, for over 200 francs, but not exceeding 257 1/2 francs; for Holland, 4 cents for every fl., 4, 72 cents; for Belgium, 50 centimes or ten cents, not exceeding 100 francs; for Belgium, 100 centimes or 20 cents, over 100, but not exceeding 200 francs; States of the German Empire, 14 kr, 48 gr., or ten cents for every 43 1/2 fl., or 25 thll.

The amount received in United States Treasury or national bank notes at the New York post office will be reduced to coin at the current rate of premium of gold, on the day of receipt at New York, and the following rates for exchange deducted therefrom:

On orders not exceeding $20 currency, 20 cents gold. Over $20 and not exceeding $30 currency, 30 cents gold. Over $30 and not exceeding $40 currency, 40 cents gold. Over $40 and not exceeding $50 currency, 50 cents gold.

A single order cannot be higher than $50 United States currency, when a larger sum than $50 is required, additional orders must be obtained.

Remittances can also be made by international money orders via Switzerland to all the principal towns and cities of Austria, Hungary, Spain, Russia, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Turkey, Greece, Egypt, the East Indies, China, Japan, Australia, and South America.

The money will be sent to the above mentioned countries from Basle, Switzerland, in coin or current bank notes by the postal express, under the same guarantee as all other international money orders.

Parties who are to receive money from Europe may cause the same to be sent to the money order office in Basle, Switzerland, from whence it will be transmitted to the payee in New York by an international postal order.

A convention has just been concluded between the Postoffice Department of the United States and Great Britain, establishing a direct money order system between these two countries, to take effect on the 1st of October, 1871.

The rate of exchange has been fixed at $4 86 gold per £, and the following rates of commission, payable in currency, will be charged for issuing money orders on the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland: On orders not exceeding $10 currency, 25 cents; on orders over $10 and not exceeding $20 currency, 50 cents; on orders over $20 and not exceeding $30 currency, 75 cents; on orders over $30 and not exceeding $40 currency, $1, on orders over $40, and not exceeding $50 currency, $1 25.

For further information apply by prepaid letter (inclosing three-cent stamp for reply) to the postmaster in New York.

One of the most successful gardeners informs us that the terrible pest, the "cabbage louse," can be prevented from doing damage to garden stuff by following his directions: Boil the leaves and stalk of the elderberry bush, and sprinkle your plants with the water. Commence early, before the lice get a start, and don't be fearful of getting on too much. It is well known that the lice will not touch this bush, there being something about it, particularly offensive to them, and as it does not injure the plants in the least, it is well worth the trial.—Es.

Religion, since the word etymologically signifies obligation, means properly the whole duty of a human being; that is, not only towards God but man, not only towards the church but the world. Religion is a fabric not merely for ecclesiastical or ethical use, but runs with equal thread through the whole texture of civil, social, and individual life. It is the motive power which impels the worshipper to the temple, and leads the laborer to his toil. If a man kneels and prays, and that is called religion, so if he buys and sells, that equally should be called religion. Some sentiments are more spiritual than others, and some duties more devout than others; but to speak of a man's religion, if we speak of it in any large, just and grand sense, we mean the sum-total of all that concerns his obligations as an intelligent and accountable being—his worship of God, his love of his kind, his dealing with his neighbors, his spirit in his household, his manners in society, his methods of business, his attitude towards the state, his studies, his pleasures, his everything. The wide range of a man's whole duty—spiritual, moral, political, social, and individual—this and nothing less than this is religion.—Golden Age.

Clerical Anecdotes.—There is a minister in Vermont who, as one old lady said of him, is particularly neat at funerals. It is not unusual for people in the neighboring towns to send for him for such occasions. In one instance he went several miles on an uncomfortable day to attend the funeral of the wife of a man of some prominence. As he was about starting for home, the bereaved husband took him by the hand and said: "I am very grateful to you for this day's service, and hope I may be able sometime to do as much for you." One day, in passing along the street, the same minister overtook a Quaker lady, and politely assisted her in opening a gate. As she was a comparative stranger in town he said: "You do not know me, perhaps; I am Mr. —. Haven't you heard me preach?" "I have heard thee try!" was her quick and witty rejoinder.—Congregationalist.

A Berlin correspondent of the New York Nation relates the following: "On the entry of one of the Metz regiments (the Eighty-seventh, which is recruited in Nassau), I witnessed a little incident which is worthy of being narrated here. The regiment was on its way to the Schlossplatz, when a stout, resolute peasant woman broke through the ranks, put away the officer at the head of the squad, and embraced her husband, loudly crying, 'He has belonged to you long enough, now he is mine once more, and you will never get hold of him again!' When the other women standing along the street, and eagerly watching for their turn, noticed this unceremonious procedure, there was no longer any restraint; then all broke into the lines, and each of them seized her son, husband or sweetheart. The captain could not defend himself against this invasion, good-naturedly suffered to pass what he could not stop, and led his men and women to the Schlossplatz, where amid the cheering of the people the women assisted the soldiers in unstrapping their knapsacks, or held their needle-guns, while in the other hand each carried a bundle of modest citizen's clothes, and afterward all ate and drank merrily together."
