

COUNTY SCHOOL GRADUATES.

Brilliant Exercises at the Theater This Morning.

PROUD DAY FOR PUPILS.

The Children Under the Care of Superintendent Van Cott Have Happiest Day of Their Lives.

The Salt Lake Theater contained a most brilliant and happy group of children this morning, the occasion being the graduation exercises of the public schools of Salt Lake county. Proud parents were there to witness their children receive their certificates of graduation from the graded schools, and the sight of the one hundred and fifty children, dressed with pride, under the glamour of the first graduation was one that would make one's heart beat with joy. The auditorium was gayly decorated, and the wealth of flowers which were heaped at the feet of the children presented a most beautiful sight.

The exercises opened with a mandolin and guitar selection from thirty pupils from Sugar and Farmers ward. A graduate of the Mill Creek school delivered a paper on "Living in the Age of Progress." It was a splendid effort, and elicited rounds of applause. There were a number of excellent musical selections from the various classes, and the most wholesome advice and encouragement was already mentioned, an oration by a young man from the Union school, an essay on "Never Too Late to Learn" from a representative of the Granger school, an original story, by a young lady of the East Mill Creek class, and the "valedictory" delivered by Miss Mary Fuller of the Big Cottonwood school.

Prof. William M. Stewart of the University, delivered an excellent address to the graduates. He gave them much wholesome advice and encouraged them to continue to climb the ladder of the first round of which they had now reached. They were told that they had just begun, that the battle for an education was before them.

The singing was of a very fine order, and the educational talent displayed in the recitation, recitation and recitation, was a most interesting feature.

Many photographs were taken by all the parties at intervals, and especially of the exercises. Several telegrams were sent in congratulatory terms to the graduates, and the exercises were a most successful one.

AT WADSWORTH, N. C. The eclipse was viewed here this morning without a cloud to mar the spectacle. Observations were made by scientists from the Smithsonian Institute at Washington; the English astronomical society of London; Yerkes Observatory, Princeton University; and the C. Military Institute, and a representative from the Toronto, Ont., astronomical society was also at work.

The eclipse furnished a beautiful spectacle, and the observers were in excellent conditions. Prof. Barnard, of Yerkes Observatory, stated that the total period was slightly shorter than calculated, which was due to the fact that the moon was slightly out of the line of sight.

Many photographs were taken by all the parties at intervals, and especially of the exercises. Several telegrams were sent in congratulatory terms to the graduates, and the exercises were a most successful one.

AT BERKELEY, CAL. Berkeley, Cal., May 28.—The partial eclipse of the sun was observed this morning at the student's observatory of the University of California by Prof. Leuchner and his assistants. A large number of the partially eclipsed sun was projected in a screen by means of the six inch equatorial. The most gratifying feature of the observations was the exact coincidence of the time of last contact, the only one of the series with the time predicted on the basis of a lengthy calculation by two astronomers, Mr. E. C. Pickens and Mr. R. H. Baird. The observation was six hours, twenty-five minutes, forty seconds and twenty-five hundredths, Pacific standard time. Among the stations outside of the university, which depended on the Berkeley calculations, are the Chabot Observatory in Georgia, where Mr. Burkhart observed the total eclipse; the International Latitude Observatory at Utiak and the Davidson Observatory at San Francisco.

The verification of the calculations at Berkeley for the remaining stations.

THE DRUMS OF '61. A Memorial Day Poem BY JOE LINCOLN. Copyright, 1900, by Joe Lincoln.

A distant bugle, pealing Adown the village street, And, through the elm trees stealing, The tramp of ordered feet.

A flash of flags that flutter Like eagles in the sun, And then the throb and mutter— The drums of '61.

The battered brass, in glancing Beneath the sun's bright ray, The stiff old sticks are dancing In honor of the day.

For, in the thin, worn fingers, That oft those sticks have spun, The old fire lives and lingers— O drums of '61!

3. The battered brass, in glancing Beneath the sun's bright ray, The stiff old sticks are dancing In honor of the day.

4. For, in the thin, worn fingers, That oft those sticks have spun, The old fire lives and lingers— O drums of '61!

5. Hushed is the surging rattle, The war song fierce that rolled, And called the hosts to battle In those red days of old.

6. Now, in the ranks behind you The moss rose hides the gun, And love's green garlands bind you, Brave drums of '61.

7. But sound again, delighted That one fair banner waves, And North and South, united, Clasp hands across these graves.

8. With love that naught can sever While Time's long course shall run, Though years have hushed forever, The drums of '61.

THE HAWORTH MURDER TRIAL.

Little Progress Made in the Work of Securing a Jury — May Take a Full Week to Obtain the Twelve Men — Three Only Are Chosen.

(SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS.") Farmington, May 28.—In the Haworth murder trial the entire day has been occupied in the examination of jurors and yet the situation is little changed. At this hour, nine of the twelve jurors called into the box on Saturday, are still there. Of course, nearly all of them will be excused by the time the examination is concluded.

The attorneys for the state and defense are conducting the examination of jurors with marked ability, but it now looks as though the prediction of the "News" that it will take a full week to secure the required number, will be verified.

Haworth is watching the proceedings with some show of interest today. He is apparently good humored and seems to enjoy the relief from the monotony of solitary confinement.

4:05 p. m.—Wm. J. Parkin, Jr., Willis Perkins of South precinct, and John Duncan of Centerville have been accepted and sworn.

NO INOCULATION FOR THE PLAGUE.

Federal Court Says Health Officers Cannot Discriminate Against Chinese in Using Anti-Plague Serum on Them, or Keeping Them in San Francisco.

San Francisco, May 28.—Federal Judge Morrow has granted an injunction to prevent the federal and local health authorities from discriminating against Chinese in the matter of prevention of the plague. This means that the Chinese cannot be forcibly inoculated with anti-plague serum, and that they cannot be prevented from entering or leaving San Francisco by the federal quarantine officers.

2 p. m.—The United States circuit court of appeals, Judge Morrow, Hawley and Dehaven sitting en banc today, issued the injunction prayed for by the Chinese residents of this city restraining the board of health and the federal authorities from interfering with the free movements of the Mongolian residents of San Francisco and their freedom in traveling to and from this city. The complaint of the Chinese stated that in enforcing the terms of a resolution adopted by the board of health, declaring that plague existed in this city, that they were restrained of their liberties granted them under the Constitution of the United States and the Chinese government; that the authorities discriminated against the Chinese and Mongolian race in singling out for the terms of the resolution; that the health officers refused to treat persons already infected with the plague, and that neither the board of health nor the federal authorities had proven that a single case of plague existed in this city or State.

The court sustained every contention in the complaint and granted the injunction. The decision was read by Judge Morrow and was concurred in by Judges Dehaven and Hawley.

LONE ROBBER HOLDS UP TRAIN.

Missouri Pacific Passengers Relieved of Their Valuables by a Thief.

SHOOTS AT ONE RESISTING.

Traveling Salesman Comes Near Being Killed — Auditor and Attorney of the Road Victimized.

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—A Star special from Falls City, Neb., says the passengers on the sleeping cars of train No. 1 on the Missouri Pacific which left Kansas City last night at 8:25 were robbed this morning between here and Stella by a lone highwayman, who compelled the porter at the point of a revolver to proceed and aid him.

He had to work fast, as he only had from ten to fifteen minutes before the train should slack up a mile east of Stella. There he jumped off, keeping the passengers back at the point of his revolver, and escaped. There were not many passengers in the sleeper and he did not get much. Traveling Auditor S. U. Sprague and Missouri Pacific Attorney J. W. Orr, gave up their watches, pocketbooks and papers. A J. Frederick, a Kansas City traveling salesman, resisted the robber's demand to surrender his valuables and the latter fired a shot at him. The bullet grazed Frederick's arm and was imbedded in the window frame.

The robber was a young man seemingly well educated, five feet four inches tall, weighing 150 pounds and wearing a white suit. He was evidently an amateur.

Special Agent John Delong is working on the case.

ALASKA'S MINERAL VALUE.

The United States paid $1,200,000 for Alaska, and last year it yielded $3,312,355 in gold and silver alone. These figures are given by the statistician of the mint. The increase over the previous product of 1898 was $3,187,988.

Until last year most of the gold and silver obtained in Alaska came from the quartz mines near Juneau, and most of the vast increase of last year came from the new gold fields of Cape Nome. It amounted to about $2,400,000.

From present indications the next three months will witness an increase of eighty thousand in the mining population of the territory. Most of them will go to the rich auriferous placers of Cape Nome, and miners of long experience say that the gold output of the present year from Alaska will equal that of California, and likely that of the Klondike, during 1898.

But gold and silver are not the only minerals. The enormous deposits of copper and coal which Alaska contains will receive attention from the army of adventurers entering the Territory this spring and coming summer, and it will not be at all surprising if they add more to the mineral output of the Territory than the gold quartz veins and placer deposits.
