

FRAGMENTS.

ANOTHER SUMMERY DAY.

The Jordan is higher to-day than for the last fortnight, or less.

The case of Dan Smith has gone over till to-morrow.

The railway case holds the attention of the District Court.

The U. C. Train from South was two hours and forty minutes late last evening.

About hundred people went to the Lake yesterday with the Opera House band excursion.

Box Office opens Saturday at 10 a. m. for sale of seats for "Devil's Auction." No advance prices.

C. W. STAYNER has been commissioned a Notary Public by Acting Governor Thomas for two years, commencing June 18th.

The advisability of celebrating the 4th of July will be discussed at a citizen's meeting, in the Federal Court room, this evening at 8 o'clock.

To-morrow the Z. C. M. I. Mutual Aid Society, embracing the Shoe Factory, Tannery and Clothing Factory employees, will have their Annual Picnic at Calder's Pleasure Grounds.

In the performance of the "Devil's Auction" Company the Theatre stage will be stripped clean of the stock scenery, to make room for two carloads of scenery carried by the company.

Mr. W. STEVENSON, of Studebaker's establishment, had a runaway last evening; his bug was smashed against a telephone pole, and he was violently thrown out and narrowly escaped injury. Cause: boys flying a kite in the road, which scared his horse. Boys, go somewhere else for such sports.

The postoffice has received a notice from the Postmaster general to the effect that the rate on postage on newspapers and periodicals, second class matter, when sent by others than publishers or news agents, has been reduced to one cent for each four ounces or less, the rate being exactly one-half of what was formerly. The postage on such matter must be fully prepaid.

LOCAL NEWS.

KILL THE COCOONS.—The leaves of the orchard trees are said to be now filled with cocoons of the Hawk-Moth caterpillar. The leaves will be found curled over, apparently with the heat, but inside is the germ that dieth not; and this occurs frequently where the gardens were comparatively free from them. They are also found in the fences and under the eaves of buildings. Let no guilty one escape.

The City Gravel Train.—The gravel railroad on Eighth East street, now that that street is finished as far as Tenth South, is being taken up below Fourth South, and extended up as far as Fourth East St. They will grade that far, and then turn the gravel train, in a day, does as much work as twenty five teams.

Quarrymen's Re-Union.—On the 18th and 19th inst., the employees of the Temple quarry, at Wasatch, will have a re-union to which they have invited a large number of their friends. The party of guests will leave the D. & R. G. depot in this city at 7.25 a. m. on the date first named and return the following day. Ample arrangements have been made for having an enjoyable time. The music will be supplied by the Sixteenth Ward brass and string bands.

Detained by Railroad Break.—This afternoon we had the pleasure of meeting Mr. John Smith and Mr. David Smith, from Orem, Utah. They came here on the second of June, on a visit to their niece, Mrs. Mary Ann Brockbank, wife of Brother Isaac Brockbank. They state that they never enjoyed themselves better than during their sojourn here, but the pleasure of their visit was somewhat marred by the fact that the time has arrived when they expected to return home, but are unable to proceed on account of having return tickets by the D. & R. G. line, which is not now operating on through traffic, there being a wide break by wasatch in the business of the two gentlemen, who are extensive farmers, is suffering in their absence. There is no prospect of their getting away inside of twenty days.

Two Fatalities.—From the Ogden Pilot of the 19th:

"News reached us of another accident on the Utah & Northern, at Cannonville, where Harry Laird, an employee, came to his death. It appears Laird was coaling an engine when he had carelessly stepped from the tank box of the engine, losing his balance and falling head first into the boiler, where he was killed. He was a native of Canada, aged 28, and unmarried.

Mrs. Edwards resides in this place, and her son John is well known here. He was in the employ of the Utah and Northern as brakeman, between Eagle Rock and Granger, and was one of the trainmen at the time of the accident, which happened on the Cole Circuit train somewhere between Dillon and Deer Lake. Whether the unfortunate man met his death at the hands of one of the circus men, or was shot by one of the tramps and hoodlums that are always following in the wake of a circus, is a mystery that will probably never be solved. Though it is clearly open to conjecture that Edwards received the fatal blow while in the act of putting some tramp into the train who was trying to steal a ride.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Geo. A. General Agent in Denver of the Passenger Department of the P. R. Railway, made us a pleasant call to-day.

W. C. Borland, Esq., the genial U. P. agent in this city, called to-day with our other railroad visitors. Mr. J. M. Chesborough, assistant general passenger agent of the Vandalia line at St. Louis, and Messrs. Roper and Brown, traveling agents for the same, are in town.

Mr. J. W. Morse, general passenger agent of the U. P. Railway, is in the city.

C. S. Stebbins, Esq., general ticket agent of the Union Pacific Railway, is here from Omaha, and remembered the News with a pleasant call this morning.

Mr. C. W. Adams, of the Pennsylvania Railway, got in here last night, and leaves for Chicago this evening. Apostles Brigham Young and F. M. Young returned this morning.

"JANE EYRE."

A POOR HOUSE BUT A SPECTACULAR PERFORMANCE.

Now that Langtry and the circus have come and gone, and the public have willingly parted with their dollars for being "taken in" or treated to shows of a more or less inferior character, it is time, since something really legitimate and meritorious has appeared on the dramatic horizon, to tighten the purse-strings, cry "dull times" and shun the shrine of Thespis as if it were a contamination.

At least one would be led to think so, after being present at the Theatre last evening, contrasting the diminutive audience and superior quality of the entertainment—one of the best we have seen on the Salt Lake stage—with the jammed houses so often seen at shows of far inferior merit. But it was so with "Jane Eyre," and had been with others equally worthy; Miss Thompson cannot therefore complain of anything invidious in this respect. In fact she ought to take it as a compliment, for certain it is that some of the best performances we have had lately have been the poorest received, and while the reverse has been true in many cases where the entertainment has been less well worth.

"Jane Eyre," a dramatization as nearly as may be of the well known novel of the same name, is a play which is irresistible in its fascination because from first to last it appeals to the heart as well as to the intellect, and exhibits some of the most eccentric, noble and refreshing traits, as well as some of the most despicable, in human nature. These opposites are placed in such striking contrast, that the plot from prologue to sequel sustains the interest of the auditor and vindicates poetical justice. The injured orphan, trampled on by cruelty, avarice and ingratitude, becomes the noble-minded woman, the champion of her own rights, the forgiver of her own wrongs, and is rewarded finally as her merit deserves, while disappointment, defeat and chagrin are the portion of those who have sought to work her ill. Nor is the play lacking in comedy; the dialogue is as humorous and witty in places as it is full of romance and pathos in others.

Miss Thompson fairly shines in the character of "Jane Eyre." She is the same careful, painstaking actress as ever, and plays so earnestly, so un- Langtry-like, in fact, so much with her heart instead of her head and shapeliness—that she wins the sympathy of her audience at once and keeps it. Mr. Craig makes an excellent "Lord Rochester," not strictly the hero of the book, but very acceptable as a dramatic character. They are all supported in every respect; the company, as a whole, being one of the best we have seen in a long time. "Professor Brocklehurst," "Lady Ingham (by Miss Adams)," "Jacob," "Mrs. Fairfax," "Col. Dent," "Achille," "Little Adele," "Mrs. Reed," "Barney" and "John Reed," were all well personated. The audience, though small, was wide awake, and the applause was liberal and sincere. To-night "Miss Milton" takes the boards; all lovers of good acting should take what's left.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Yesterday at noon Brother David Briggs, of East Bountiful, Davis County, was engaged in hauling a load of hay, when his wagon got "stuck." He went to where his brother-in-law was engaged in cutting hay with a view to get his team to help him move his load. When in the act of unhitching this team he stepped over the sickle-bar. At the same instant one of the animals, which was young and fractious, sprang forward, causing the knives to work. The blades caught the limb of the unfortunate man above the ankle, sawed through the lower leg and one bone, and nearly severed the other bone, the injured part being also fearfully lacerated and torn.

He was conveyed to his home and a surgeon from Salt Lake telephoned for Dr. McFar was on the spot as soon as possible and immediately decided after an examination, that the foot could not be saved. Dr. Benedict was then summoned and he decided similarly, and the result was that the amputation of the member was performed by the surgeons at 4 p.m. The accident caused a feeling of gloom in the community where it occurred, by whom Brother Briggs is much respected.

The Turner Testimonial.—The following explains itself:

SALT LAKE CITY, June 19th, 1884. JOHN W. TURNER, Esq., Provo Utah.

Dear Sir: In behalf of an appreciative and sympathetic public, I herewith present you certificate No. 13,232 of the Desert Magazine, published at Provo, Utah, payable to your order, for $1,000, the result of a subscription started by me a few days since for a testimonial to you, to show the appreciation of the public of your recent course as an officer and citizen.

Brave and true as you have shown yourself you will not misunderstand the purpose of this testimonial. First and foremost it means that the public heart beats in the warmest sympathy with you and your family in your great affliction. It also means that in honoring you they honor manliness and courage to duty, and are opposed to mob violence in any form.

Knowing you as I do I can safely say that you will appreciate the fact that has prompted this testimonial more than the gold we give you. And if you could have heard, as I have, the hearty expressions of sympathy and commendations of your course during the recent miscarriage of justice, coming through all classes whom I approached, the memory of it would have remained with you through life as one of your dearest treasures.

The enthusiastic response this movement met with from the public made my self and caused me to feel proud at my trouble in connection with it. I am under many obligations to Mr. Abram Gould, James A. Little and Moore Allen & Co., each of whom kept a subscription list and obtained large amounts of money in addition to the amount enclosed.

The sum thus voluntarily given for your benefit may be used as you see fit, and may yet enjoy all the blessings the worthy and true desire. I am sure the wish of the subscribers to this testimonial and the public at large, as it is. Yours sincerely, JOHN W. LOWELL.

A Trying Adventure.

One day last week Robert Thornley of Smithfield, accompanied by seven other men, went up Smithfield Canyon to slide timber. About eight miles up the canyon they came to a snow slide, which it was necessary to cross with their teams. The creek flowed under the slide forming a tunnel and at one point the roof of the tunnel had fallen in, forming a chasm about eight feet deep and making the slide seem unsafe for teams. In order to investigate Mr. Thornley went to the edge of the chasm, laid down and peered over into it. Suddenly the hard snow beneath him gave way and he fell into the tunnel. The stream instantly swept him down out of sight. The slide was about six rods wide and the tunnel extended several rods from the point where Mr. Thornley fell into it, to its outlet. The slide had come down over a bridge that spanned the stream, and had broken it down in the centre in such a manner as to divide the stream in three parts, one flowing under each end of the bridge and one over the depressed centre of it. Mr. Thornley was swept by the current against the bridge and for some moments struggled hard to get through the centre stream passing over the bridge in which he at length succeeded, only to find himself quickly swept against a bank caused by a sharp turn in the bed of the stream. He passed this point with some difficulty, and after being plunged down once fell for six and another of three feet, at last emerged into the open air. He was carried on down, however, until he lodged against a boulder, and was rescued by his son John who was one of the party that accompanied him. He was thoroughly exhausted, but soon recovered himself and continued on up the canyon. He lost his hat during his adventure, and Solon Barber, who was returning to town from the canyon, handed him his, and tied a handkerchief on his own head. Mr. Thornley and party remained in the canyon a week.—Logan Journal.

"The Devil's Auction."—The following is what the Detroit Free Press says of this gorgeous spectacular piece:

"If 'The Devil's Auction,' as produced at White's Grand Theatre, is a forecast of what Gallagher, Gilmore & Gardner propose to do in the spectacular line, then the Kluge's have good cause to be envious of the firm with the three 'G's.' The audience was the largest ever seen in the theatre, and the 'show' was one of the best ever seen in Detroit. That is to say, the gorgeous spectacle, the wonderful mechanical effects and the beautiful and bewitching ballet makes a scene that is delightful in its magnificence. There is a little of plot in 'The Devil's Auction'—there is no need for plot when pretty faces with the figures of elegant apparitions about in haunted dolls' and 'golden palaces' to animated music. The play last night moved as smoothly as if the company had been located at the theatre for a month, and the specialties were received with enthusiastic applause.

Red Book.—The B. & O. Red Book for the Democratic National Convention is out, and a capital compendium of political information it is. About everything one can seek for in becoming thoroughly posted as regards the presidential contest is embraced within the sixty odd pages, while in point of typography the little book is a gem of clean, clear-cut work. The Red Books have become indispensable in campaigns, and in their different forms and editions are the most popular political text books of the day. No charge is made for them by the B. & O., and the only requisite is the inclosing of a two-cent stamp to C. K. Lord, Baltimore, with the application for a copy.
