

ARE ONLY TWO MILLION RATES

ASTONISHING PROPORTIONS OF THE RAILROAD BUSINESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

AVERAGE 500 CHANCES A DAY.

STUPENDOUS TASK OF ADJUSTING SCHEDULES—212,000 MILES OF ROAD AND 1,350,000 EMPLOYEES.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Chicago, March 23.—"This building seems to be loaded with railroad presidents," said the visitor in the Railway Exchange to the man in uniform who was clicking his castanets, the Chicago way of signalling the men in charge of the elevators.

"Yes; but even a railroad president won't cut much of a figure compared to commissioners if the senate accepts the house plan of increasing the powers of the interstate commerce commission," was the reply.

On this observation was wasted on one who did not comprehend its full significance. A little investigation, however, showed that it was not an exaggeration, for it is safe to say that if the commission had been given power which the lower branch of Congress would have granted to it, members would have been given control over vested interests which no dreamed of managing. The most eminent man who had served upon the commission, Judge Cooley, once said that it would be a "superhuman" task for anybody to attempt to regulate the railroad rates.

But it has recently been proposed to give this commission power to prescribe not merely regulations and practices which affect rates, but also regulations and practices which affect transportation of property. Thus every rule and custom of every railroad as to the number of its trains, their speed, the number of stops, the methods employed to prevent accidents, and all the other countless and bewildering questions connected with passenger or freight transportation would be put in control of a tribunal of seven men.

The gigantic proportions of this responsibility can be imagined if it is borne in mind that there are in this country 212,000 miles of railroad with outstanding securities of more than $12,000,000,000.

Railroad property amounts to at least $10,000,000,000. There are 1,350,000 railroad employees, and their wages amount to more than $800,000,000 a year.

Such staggering figures can be given without number. For instance, these railroads used last year 45,000 locomotives and 800,000 cars, carried more than 100,000,000 passengers and 1,300,000 tons of freight valued probably at $200,000,000,000.

The virtual management of companies doing this tremendous business would be undoubtedly a Herculean responsibility for any commission. The last man selected for this body by the president of the United States was over 70 years old and one who did not accept the popular interpretation of Dr. Oiler's pleasant about chloroforming men who have reached threescore to feel that such an extraordinary responsibility might overtax his power.

A few more figures about railroad rates may be quoted to convey a fair idea of the powers which it is proposed to give these seven men. A president of Harvard once remarked that there are three kinds of lies, "Lies—lies and statistics." But these figures are not the statistics which are tabulated by experts for the sake of befogging an issue. They are simple and direct. It is estimated that there are 2,000,000 scheduled railroad rates in force in this country today. Without considering whether some or many of these are extortionate or unjust or too low one can appreciate the full significance of Judge Cooley's observation, that for one body of men to adjust them all would indeed be a "superhuman" task.

On an average about 500 changes in rates occur every day. There were 162,428 rates filed last year. Here is a list of some of the changes reported during that period:

Pennsylvania Railroad 4,123
New York Central & Hudson River Railroad 1,561
Illinois Central Railroad 6,344
Chicago & Northwestern Railway, 2,175
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad 8,375
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway 2,891
Baltimore & Ohio Railroad 9,925
Louisville & Nashville Railroad 3,330
Northern Pacific Railroad 774
Union Pacific Railroad 789
Wabash Railroad 1,135

In a recent speech in the house of representatives Congressman Stevens of Minnesota appended to his remarks this list of changes filed in one week of last month in the state of Minnesota, Illinois and Missouri in which the Chicago Great Western Railroad operates:

Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway 46
Chicago & Alton Railway 9
Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad 30
Chicago & Northwestern Railway, 2,175
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad 84
Chicago Great Western Railway 15
Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway 58
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad 86
Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway 27
Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway 13
Great Northern Railway 19
Illinois Central Railway 92
Iowa Central Railway 1
Minneapolis & St. Louis Railway 5
Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway 7
Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railway 20
Missouri Pacific Railway 65
Northern Pacific Railroad 10
Quincy, Omaha & Kansas City Railway 6
St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad 100
Toledo, St. Louis & Western Railway 7
Terre Haute & Indiana Railroad 8
Wabash Railroad 18
Wisconsin Central Railway 19

Secret rebate, private car lines and other inequalities of modern railroading may need more rigid investigation, but when one ponders such figures as these he is inclined to agree with the remark of the man in the Railway Exchange and to appreciate that even a railroad president would indeed be an unimportant person compared with a commissioner who, with his associates, had the authority of Congress to pass upon the justice and injustice of so many varied and constantly changing rates.

HARRIMAN AND U. P.
Wall Street Hears He Has Lost Control and Still Selling.

The following dispatch from New York throws some light upon the prevailing tory in Union Pacific stocks:

There was talk today of a protective committee of Union Pacific stockholders to investigate the property and the Harriman management. Not that it is believed anything illegal has been done, but it is felt the stockholders have more rights than the officials are allowing them. Besides, it is believed the investigation will show that control rests elsewhere than in the hands of either Harriman or his friends, and an appeal may be made to the laws of the state.

The Morgan and Rockefeller brothers quietly absorbed the Union Pacific stock thrown over by Harriman brokers. It is beginning to dawn on the street that Harriman no longer represents the Rockefeller as intimately as he once did.

The first public indication that he was not pleasing the Rockefeller was when Harriman Sielken made war against him in the Kansas City Southern voting trust matter. Sielken is considered as a Rockefeller agent. The speedy surrender of the road when Sielken began to ask questions about the $100,000 of bonds voted for salary was a surprise to Wall Street. The last has not been heard of these bonds.

General Manager George W. Valley of the Union Pacific has been voting and public explanations by the voting trustees will undoubtedly be made soon, either voluntarily or otherwise.
