all the weather rapidly grew bad and an the weather raphicy grow bad and our compass became deranged. There-was nothing to no but to permit the airship to drift back from over the Arctic ocean to land, and then to make a descent and save ournelves. We had an opportunity to test our refarder, as well as our guide rope of leather is done who for d. Hato prove of staffed with food, Both proved ef-ficient, leading us to believe that if we can start from our base, as we expect to do, in a souterly wind, and get over the pack ice where we have a chance to use these devices, there's a reash to use these devices, there is a reason-able probability that a voyage to and from the pole will be made. I left three men up on Spitzbergen in charge of our headquarters, and thus I have a plant and a ship ready for the renewal of the campaign either next year or the year following. No important changes in the airstip will be necessary, though of course, some slight modifications will be made in the machinery." Mr. Wellman is enthusiast c over the possibilities of the airship in warfare. Lut he believes as at present develop-ed its field of utility is limited to war-fare and to exploration.

At is a matter for congratulation to note that the American government is at last moving in the direction of the war balloon," he said. "What has since been done in France and Germany proves that the motor balloon can be for torpedoboats or for reconnoisanto, over hand, but also as a terrible engine for attack upon an electry's camp, for-tifications of strategic points, such as bridges. An acrial scout ship, costing $100,000 and manned by a crew of from three to five men, could inflict millions of collinest deriver more as dollars' damage upon an enemy. Au for three or four hundred miles and still be able to drop two tens of ex-plosives upon an enemy."

Ask if there be another that measures up to the KNABE standard. The KNABE is known as THE PIANO, wherever civilization finds foothold.

C The name has been established for three generations, each generation working and striving to make the b-e-s-t, and leading in the process of piano improvement.

The KNABE is as good as it looks, inside as well as outside. There is nothing false about it, and nothing that will go wrong after it is in your home for years. C Our custom has always been to buy the most satisfactory pianos that can be made at certain prices and then mark as small a profit on them as this big business will stand, and upon this principle we have built our large and ever-growing trade.
