

CROWDS ARE AT TWIN FALLS TODAY

About 5,000 People Witness Ceremony of Turning Water Into Big Ditch.

THOUSAND MILES OF CANALS.

Opening of Big Irrigation Scheme for Reclamation of 270,000 Acres For State of Idaho.

(Special to the "News.")

Twin Falls City, Idaho, March 1.—At 11 o'clock this morning about 5,000 people assembled at the dam, two and one-half miles from here, to witness the ceremony of the closing of the gates of the Twin Falls Irrigation company prior to turning the water into the big canal and laterals. It is estimated that it will be about 4 o'clock before the work of effectually closing the gates is accomplished.

A big party of the officials of the company is on the ground from Salt Lake and people from all over the state have gathered to take part in the ceremonies that will mark the bringing under irrigation of 270,000 acres of some of the most fertile land in the country. A large delegation came in from Shoshone this morning and are now viewing the immense work accomplished by the company.

The Twin Falls canal system represents an initial expenditure of $2,500,000. The great dam at Milner raises the level of the river to a canal on the south side of the stream, the dimensions of which are 80 feet wide at the bottom and 120 feet wide at the top of the bank. The water at full flow in the canal will be 12 feet deep and 112 feet wide at the surface.

The dam is 1,300 feet long, 75 feet high, 400 feet through at the base, and has a margin of safety 5/8 to 1. It is built of loose lava rock with a wood and concrete core, the upper side being filled with puddled earth sluiced into the loose rock, the down-stream side being left without such filling to allow any seepage to run away freely without washing away any part of the dam. The construction is ideal and according to the best engineering advice.

The main canal, now complete, is 55 miles long, at the end of the twenty-sixth mile it is divided into the high-line and low-line canals, which continue nearly 60 miles farther westward. In the completed system there will be about 1,000 miles of main canals and laterals, making it the largest irrigated tract on the western hemisphere under one canal. The water supply is sufficient to cover the entire tract with one foot of water per month.

Milner, the location of the dam, is 75 miles west of Pocatello and 50 miles down stream from American Falls, where the Oregon Short Line railroad crosses the Snake river. The Twin Falls tract lies south of the Snake river, except about 20,000 acres which are irrigated from the north side of the dam. Along the tract are the famous Twin Falls in Snake river, 184 feet high; the Great Shoshone Falls, 210 feet high; Ausler, and Salmon Falls. These four great cataracts supply ample power for all purposes—railways, electric lighting and heating, and manufacturing. Already a plant developing 20,000 horse-power has been constructed at Shoshone Falls and will soon be ready.

DOG MAN DISAPPEARS.

City's Catcher of Stray Canine Quits Job and Also the City.

Salt Lake City now has no dog catcher and the canines of the city will have a free and easy time of it for the next few days or at least until some other person can be found who will undertake the onerous duties of the office.

Mr. Walker, the gentleman of color who for some time past has run the city dog wagon, has departed for his old home and has taken with him his famous bulldog, which rendered him such valuable assistance in capturing dogs upon which no tax had been paid. Walker and his dog left the city rather unceremoniously last evening, and headed for Denver. It is believed that he will undertake to show the citizens of Denver his up-to-date method of catching dogs.

Since the city council took a hand in the dog-catching business and forbade the use of the bulldog, money has not been coming quite so easy for Walker, and he probably came to the conclusion that this city does not appreciate "modern methods." The dog tax collector hopes to see a man to take charge of the dog wagon in a short time.

WRESTLERS EXCITED.

Thought Sato, Their Manager, Had Skipped With the Money.

The five Japs who participated in the wrestling contest at the Theater on Monday night, were somewhat excited yesterday afternoon because they had not been paid for their services, and because they could not locate Sato, their business manager.

The Japs called at the theater and held a session with Mr. Pyper, and later started out on a still hunt for Sato. They claimed to have something like $300 coming to them. They went to the police station and said they feared Sato had gone, but a few minutes later they discovered their mistake, as Sato was still here and had no intention whatever of leaving. The Japs found him and all the excitement was settled. It was during their visit to the station that Murayama had run with Officer Davies.

AMUSEMENTS.

With people who were new and scenery that was the same as that which was used in the first production, the "Silver Slipper" company returned to Salt Lake last night to bid for public favor once again. While the personnel was almost wholly different from what it was on its previous visit, and while interpolations calculated to benefit have been introduced, there is ample room for a difference of opinion as to the result in some instances. However, the "Silver Slipper" Co. is still a good one, and was greeted by a fair sized audience at the Salt Lake Theater last night. And considering that the libretto is one that will ring down through the ages as a masterpiece, both principals and support pleased their auditors not a little, and reference to the support is reminiscent of the fact that it is relatively much stronger than the so-called "big" with one or two notable exceptions. These latter are the inimitable Edith Johnson, as Henry Beatrice, the showman, card sharer, and general all-around faker, Beatrice Golden as Wrenne, and one or two others. The English dancing girls proved a quiet up to the average, among the best of the comic opera productions, but as to the solo parts—well, that much cannot be said for them. What the company decidedly lacks is two or three good solo singers. The English dancing girls provided a splendid new feature, and the famous champagne dance was as pretty and spectacular as ever, while the "Zander" number, in which a group of young girls, dressed and trained to look like and represent a collection of the most famous girls who really more resembled a bunch of little cinnamon cup bears, as they rolled over the half-dressed stage, moved to be one of the best of the recent interpolations. Altogether the "Silver Slipper" furnishes an excellent evening's entertainment. A matinee is on this afternoon, and the engagement closes tonight.

At the Grand this afternoon Harry Corson Clarke, after a presentation of "The Haystack," will hold one of his old time popular matinee recitals upon the stage, when he will meet the audience in a friendly and pleasant way. The performance continues throughout the week.

The great sale for the Joseph Murphy engagement of "Kerry Gow" and "Shawn Thane," which will hold the boards at the Salt Lake Theater, beginning Friday night, commenced at 10 o'clock this morning.

Prospective patrons of the "Mother Goose" production have created a stir about the production, and the fact that it has been found necessary to cut out the telephone entirely, so many in the audience have been conversing at locations, etc. Persons who desire to buy tickets will have to arrange for the same in advance, as the seats are being sold to representatives. The sale commences tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

NEW ORDER.

Street Cars Will in Future Wait for Passengers at Depot.

An order is posted at the car barn directing conductors to wait at the railroad depot when they see trains pulling in, and not skip out leaving passengers to "wait until the next car." This will be a great convenience to the traveling public, and relieve the carmen from any blame for being late, if they wait for an incoming train. Heretofore, conductors have not hesitated to skip out with their cars from terminals promptly on time, with a string of infuriated passengers rushing from trains, just arrived, for the streetcars; and the recording angel has had more than one occasion to weep at the provocation of travelers who have been obliged to lose streetcar connections just because the conductor was afraid of being hauled over the coals by the starter at Main street for being late.

The rails are to be used in connection with the extension of the line to Ogden from Farmington the coming season.

SECRET CAUCUS OF REPUBLICANS.

House Members Held it Today And Left Democrats and Newspapermen Out.

CONSIDER THE ELECTION BILL.

Meeting Was Still Under Way at a Late Hour This Afternoon—After A General Consolidation.

The Republican members of the house caucused at 1:30 this afternoon on H. R. 111, by Mr. Plumb, extending the terms of city officers one year, or until Dec. 31, 1906. This mode of procedure was agreed upon in order to spare members the "embarrassing necessity of discussing the matter in open session," many of them being rather averse to publicly legislating Democrats into office another year, as would be the case in this city and elsewhere, should the bill pass. It is known that so far as the representatives are concerned, not a few are in favor of the measure, as they argue that a uniform election law, would save the city from the expense of a new election every year, and at the same time cut down such expenses very materially.

The caucus was called to order by Rep. Austin, who kindly asked all who had not been specially invited to retire from the room. This caused quite a number of members of the newspaper men, not one of whom had received such an invitation. It was noticed that when the caucus was called to order, there were many prominent Republicans in the room, among them State Chairman Spry, Col. Tatrock and James Devine. A question was raised as to their right to remain, whereupon the gentlemen retired, some of them claiming, respectively, that they were invited to the caucus, and that they were invited to the caucus.

Representative Curtis, for reasons best known to himself, refused to take part in the caucus.

At press time the caucus is still in session.

FISH AND GAME BILL.

The house committee on fish and game had before it this morning, senate bill 55 by Callister, providing for the protection of fish and game. The bill seeks to amend the present law by prohibiting spring shooting; also the sale of ducks, geese, etc., by those who kill them. It provides that the "bag" shall be limited to one bird per day, but this, it is believed, will be cut down to perhaps 20 before it comes up for consideration in the house. Naturally, restaurateurs are much opposed to the anti-spring shooting clause, as it is a goodly part of their stock in trade, and hurt business. However, sportsmen generally are in favor of this provision, and request its passage. It will be allowed to remain as a standing feature of the bill. The measure provides that the state fish and game commissioner shall issue permits to all who wish to hunt or fish, and that the state capital fund, raising duties, see to the enforcement of the law in all its bearings. The committee will meet in executive session tomorrow morning and will likely report on the measure at the session in the afternoon.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The committee on Capitol and Capitol grounds recommended the passage of H. R. 117, by Marks, "An act creating a state capital fund, raising duties, and providing for the investment thereof."

The committee on private corporations recommended the non-passage of H. R. 129, by Joseph, providing for the payment of interest on all deposits for matters made by patrons of electric light and water companies.

The committee on education and art recommended the non-passage of S. B. 49, by Williams, providing for the purchase of works of art; also the non-passage of S. B. 59, by Bennett, providing for the establishment of a school of art in the city of Salt Lake.

The committee on banks and banking recommended the passage of H. R. 175, by Marks, relating to the raising of reports to the secretary of state by banking corporations and private bankers, and providing for the publication thereof.

The committee on military affairs recommended the passage of S. B. 80, creating an armory board for the national guard; also the passage of S. B. 68, by Johnson, providing for the carrying of concealed weapons.

The committee on ways and means recommended the passage of S. B. 42, by Hollingsworth, creating a commission to provide for a display of Utah's resources at the Lewis and Clark exposition.

AFTERNOON ON 'CHANGE.

May Day and New York were both in better tone this afternoon and stiffened. The sales were:

May Day, 3,000 at 14 1/2; 1,000 at 14 1/2. New York, 400 at 58 1/2; 100 at 58; 200 at 58 1/2.

COMES FROM SPOKANE.

George H. Bradley May Engage in Mining Machinery Business Here.

G. H. Bradley, formerly of this city, but now at the head of the Bradley Mining Machinery company of Spokane, arrived in the city last night and was greeted by many friends during the day.

Mr. Bradley, it was learned this afternoon, is here for the purpose of looking over the field with a view of entering into the mining machinery business here. Whether his purpose is to establish a branch or make Salt Lake his headquarters again was not learned.

NUMBER OF FISH IN THE SEA.

To determine the number of fish in the sea and how they locate their settlements are obviously problems not easy to settle. The study has been begun for the benefit of the fisheries in the Irish sea. The first experiments are made to learn the extent and nature of the migrations of soles and plaice, and how great an effect fishing has in reducing the marine life over a given section of the sea. About 1,000 fishes—mostly plaice and soles—are returned to the water after being marked with brass labels held by silver wires. Researches are offered for the marked fishes that are captured—particulars concerning location, etc., to be given—and the investigating commission expects to hear again from about 25 per cent of these specimens.

PRIVATE BANK BILL IS KILLED.

Unanimous in Senate Against Passage of Such a Measure.

BAD NEWS FOR THE HOUSE.

Many Members of the Lower Branch Of the Legislature Will Weep Over Matter.

The efforts of the house of representatives to include private banks among those to be examined annually by the state came to an end today by the death of Anderson's Bill No. 3, at the hands of the committee on banks and banking. Chairman Lewis submitted a report, recommending that the bill be not passed. The report was unanimously adopted.

The senate this afternoon again handled a large batch of routine bills, which it is trying to get off its hands before the reports of its special committees come in to absorb its attention, six bills of its own and four from the house were up for final reading. The committee reports kept up the record of slaughter established yesterday and Monday. However there was no tendency to favor house bills in decorating the scrap heap as senate bills were conspicuous among those given an official quietus.

The conference committee on the school problem will hold a special meeting tonight at 7:30 to further hear the evidence of interested parties, after which it will report to the house. The horticultural conflict kept the committee considering it busy till midnight last night, and the question is still a live one. A conclusion is looked for any day on that matter. Another committee, that investigating the Carbon county "war" expenditures, has its report ready, and will probably file it tomorrow.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

A majority and minority report came in on Rasmussen's S. B. 74, providing for an inspector of metallic mines. Bamberger signed for its death in conference with the majority, while Rasmussen, its author, dissented in a minority report. The mining committee consists of Lawrence, Loomis and Lewis, in addition to Bamberger and Rasmussen.

Senator Bamberger explained his objection, by declaring that the bill is identical with the same as a house bill that has already met defeat in the senate, and that it is opposed to wasting time discussing a bill the house is certain to kill.

The agriculture committee killed Hollingsworth's trespass bill (S. B. 67). It provides that county commissioners may compel at their discretion the fencing of lands, with the privilege of allowing cattle to run loose.

Joseph came to the chopping block at the hands of the public institutions committee. It adversely reported his bill, which is such as are used in New York and Chicago on the boulevards, and make a fine appearance.

The architecture committee handed in a unique report on S. B. 120 by Gardner, on the matter of a reclamation commission. It strikes out every provision of the bill except the last one repealing the present commission. It passed it will wipe all traces of the arid land legislation off the statutes.

The committee on livestock reported favorably Dean's H. B. 51, establishing a board of poultry commissioners. The same committee acted favorably on Luther's H. B. No. 173, providing for the selling of horses and sheep on the public range.

The committee on the punishment of persons guilty of altering brands and marks or marks, was favorably reported.

Bamberger's garnishment bill, (S. B. 82), was favorably reported by the judiciary committee, with several minor amendments.

The case against Mrs. W. H. Cromer for throwing pepper into the faces of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell possesses some elements of sadness and misfortune, with which the public is not familiar, but which accounts of her apparently unquenchable conduct. According to her attorney, the woman is decidedly more sinned against than sinning, and her assault upon the people named came as the result of a nervous condition which she inherited from her father, which had, it is alleged, strong acting causes. The hope of her friends is that the affair will soon blow over, and that circumstances will be more favorable in the future for her complete and ultimate recovery. In the meantime there is much friendly sympathy for her among persons who are familiar with the details of the case.
