Chicago & Alton.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Chicago & Alton directors today elected Vice-President McMullen a member of the executive board, vice George Stroud, deceased. The annual report for 1887 was approved.

Pacific Mail.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Pacific Mail directors met yesterday but transacted only routine business. A statement was presented showing earnings of $72,000 in one month from traffic, added to the subsidy from the Pacific railroads of $65,000, which made the revenue reach $137,000 for the month. The company during the last quarter received more than seven per cent on the stock, including both subsidy and earnings, but it was decided to use the money in improvements and additions and not declare a dividend.

A Denial.

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—Nash, Spaulding & Co., of the Revere Sugar Refinery, deny the truth of the reports of the alleged sale of their property.

Editors' Convention.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 16.—A convention of Indiana republican editors was held here today. The general sentiment favored making a campaign in favor of protection, free ballot and a free count. While no official expression was given, it was plain there was a strong feeling in favor of pushing ex-Senator Harrison as Indiana's candidate for the Presidency. Speeches were made by ex-Senator Harrison, ex-Governor Porter, Lieutenant Governor Robertson, Hon. Richard Smith of Cincinnati and others.

Foster and the Treaty.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16.—Foster, minister of marine and fisheries, says that the reports sent from Washington regarding the terms of the settlement of the fisheries question are specimens of bad guesswork. Although Foster does not speak warmly of Canada's luck, he says that the settlement reached will, if endorsed by the Senate, promote better relations between the two countries.

Cited to Show Cause.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Justice Patterson in the Supreme Court, today, upon an application made by Dr. McGlynn, granted an order requiring Croasdale, Post and associates, representing the Henry George side in the Anti-Poverty Society split, to show cause why they should not be restrained from being organized or incorporated as the Anti-Poverty Society.

The Convention Building.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—At a meeting of the executive committee of arrangements for the Republican National Convention today Fred W. Peck, representing the Auditorium management, stated that the building would be ready before June 19th, the day of the convention, so much so that he had made a definite proffer of it to the National Democratic Convention as early as June if required. Peck also said the seating capacity of the hall would be greater than had been generally stated. The number of chairs would be 8,000, which by actual count was but 500 less than the highest ever provided in an exposition building. It was decided by the committee to raise $30,000 locally to expend wholly on decorations and conveniences for delegates, the hall having been tendered by the Auditorium Association rent free.

Childs and the Nomination.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—The Public Ledger will publish an editorial tomorrow regarding the present rumors that Mr. Childs would accept the republican nomination for the Presidency. It will say, in substance, that his mind is not changed. He repeats his refusal to be a candidate, to be voted for, and says that he would be compelled to decline the office, honorable and exalted as it is, if by any chance in the chapter of unforeseen events he should happen to be selected Raid on a Chinese Lottery.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—The police today raided what is known as the American Lottery Company, but which is conducted by Chinese. The entire operating force of the company was secured. The company is estimated to be worth from $100,000 to $500,000, and does a business estimated at from $10,000 to $20,000 per day.

Gen. Sheridan's Birthplace.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Times' Somerset, Ohio, special says that the mother of General Philip Sheridan was visited today to learn what she had to say in regard to where Philip was born. She said positively that he was born in Somerset, March 6, 1831.

Two Killed.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 16.—A passenger train on the Grand Trunk Railroad from Toronto this afternoon, collided with a freight train, killing the fireman and engineer of the express.

American Shippers' Convention.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 16.—Over 150 delegates from the various States to the American Shipping and Industrial League Convention met at the Produce Exchange this morning.

Hon. B. F. Jones welcomed the visitors and advised that the people generally take a hand in the stirring up of Congress on the shipping question.

Ex-Governor O. E. Stannard of Missouri was elected permanent chairman. Resolutions appealing to the whole country to aid in the work, were passed. Papers on "Shipbuilding as a Great National Industry" and "Trade with Liberia and the West African Coast" were read.

Judge Murphy, ex-congressman of Iowa, made a short address, advocating water transportation. The railroads, he said, wanted neither long nor short haul, but all haul. He was a member of the committee on rivers and harbors in Congress, and if it had been left with him he would have given fifty million dollars for the improvement of rivers and harbors, and fifty millions more for building ships.

The Merchant Marine.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Chamber of Commerce this afternoon endorsed the resolutions adopted by the American Shipping and Industrial Congress at Washington, looking to the revival of the merchant marine through the aid of the government, and ordered that they be laid before Congress as the sense of the Chamber.

GRAND JURY INQUIRY.

Attempt to Have Gould and Sage Indicted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The charges against Jay Gould and Russell Sage made on behalf of the stockholders of the Kansas Pacific Railroad Company of appropriating to their own use $3,000,000 of the company's bonds, were laid before the grand jury this morning. The jury was given all the documents bearing on the case and, on Monday next, witnesses will be summoned.

These will include the complainant security holders, about twenty in number. Among the documents submitted to the grand jury was a pamphlet containing the printed arguments of counsel for complainants and defendants, heard by District Attorney Fellows with closed doors about the first of this month, when considering the question whether or not to lay the matter before the grand jury. This pamphlet was given to the press to-night. Edward L. Andrews, who presented the case on behalf of the complainants, said: "The essential attributes of the case do not differ from an ordinary case of embezzlement. There is the same entrusting of property, the same appropriation, the same discovery of the secretion, the same demand and the same withholding of the embezzled property that ensues in an ordinary case when an employe takes what is entrusted to him by his employer. Counsel went on to say that the only difference which the case presented from that of an ordinary embezzlement was that it was done under the apparent form of law, one of the courts of this state being made to become an unwilling participant in their acts."

A. H. Holmes, on behalf of the respondents, argued that there was no criminality in the proceedings, nor were they carried on in secrecy. All the proceedings were reported to the Secretary of the Interior in 1880, and subsequently presented in a report to Congress. The mortgage under which Messrs. Gould and Sage were appointed trustees contained clauses which could very properly be construed so as to allow the release of the Denver Pacific stock.

John F. Dillon argued further in behalf of the respondents. He went into the proceedings with great detail, contending that the decree of the Supreme Court of New York was valid, and properly obtained in person. If there was any living soul who would make complaint of this consolidation it would be the original Union Pacific shareholders. The purpose of the consolidation, he contended, was not to pay the trust property to the debtor company in order that that company might immediately hand it over to Gould and Sage, but that the object was to restore the property to the debtor company in order that through it the consolidated company might have the means of purchasing, as it did purchase the properties necessary to protect itself from competition, and to promote to its interests and those of its bondholders.

Judge Dillon next argued at great length that the laws of limitation debarred all original proceedings.

Bourke Cochrane next spoke in opposition to the complaint being received, contending in an elaborate argument that the prosecution had been barred by the lapse of time.

Andrews closed the hearing with an argument and citations to show that the statute of limitations does not apply under such circumstances.

What France Wants.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—M. Flourens, in an address to the electors of Gap yesterday said: France desires the progress of democracy, which can only be realized by peace. We desire all Europe to do justice to our loyalty, our institutions and firmness. Our attitude everywhere should be recognized. The consolidation of the republic is the best guarantee of the correctness of the relations of France with all the other nations.

Forty Persons Killed.

MUNICH, Feb. 16.—An explosion, which occurred in the Kreuzgraben coal mine near Kaiserstantern, Bavaria, killed forty persons. Thirty-six men were rescued.

Uncertain Diagnoses.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The Lancet says: Dr. McKenzie's report will not do much to allay the anxiety concerning the crown prince's condition. It is impossible to find in the report a distinct expression of opinion that the disease is certainly not cancer. The diagnoses have been uncertain since May and continue to be uncertain.

The Regency.

There is much excitement in the lobby of the Reichstag owing to rumors that a bill is to be submitted for the purpose of transferring the regency to Prince William, eldest son of the Crown Prince, in case the Emperor relinquishes the throne.

The Crown Prince Cheerful.

SAN REMO, Feb. 16.—The Crown Prince felt much better tonight, and was in a very cheerful mood. He was fully dressed but did not leave his room. A new tube has been inserted in his throat, and he is quite comfortable, but is not allowed to talk.

Isabella's Intrigues.

MADRID, Feb. 16.—In the Chamber of Deputies today Prime Minister Sagasta admitted that he had written to the Duke of Montpensier privately, giving him certain advice, not because he feared the intrigues of ex-Queen Isabella, but with the object of dispelling rumors. Had the government thought the measures necessary, it would have adopted them. Any attempt to renew the intrigues would be speedily checked.

Minister Puigcerver announced that the government would introduce a bill imposing from 80 to 100 pesetas per hectolitre, according to its strength, on alcohol, domestic or imported.

Unruly Students.

VIENNA, Feb. 16.—Several hundred students clamored for admittance to the galleries of the Parliament House here today during the debate on the government bill placing certain restrictions upon the students' clubs. They demolished the railing about the ticket offices and made their way into the conservation rooms of the House. Deputy Pattai then went out and admitted a number of them, although they were unprovided with tickets. But during the debate the students who gained admittance were so noisy that the presiding officer threatened to clear the galleries.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Has There Been War Correspondence?—O'Brien Defiant.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—In the Commons, Labouchere asked further questions regarding England's position toward other nations.

Under Secretary Ferguson again declined to produce the correspondence between the government and foreign powers.

Labouchere then gave notice to offer an amendment to the address to the effect that the House be informed definitely that no correspondence was exchanged with Italy, resulting in binding the action of the British Government in the event of war between Italy and France, or if any assurance has been given it may be communicated to the House.

Ferguson further said he was happy to inform the House that the fishery treaty had been signed in Washington. The government believed it satisfactory, although yet unaware of the precise terms.

Wm. O'Brien resumed the debate on the addresses in reply to the Queen's speech. He said Balfour had failed to smash the Irish organization, weaken the spirit of the Irish people or degrade them in the eyes of the world. Abject discomfiture and disgrace attended the crimes act, the operation of which proved it one of the most horrible measures ever directed against human liberties. He did not feel wounded nor in the least disgraced by his own imprisonment. While in prison, he resented and felt keenly Balfour's stealthy, loathsome insinuations that he (O'Brien) sheltered himself under the plea of illness. Now they were and he challenged the government to produce the prison doctors to prove the truth of the insinuations. [Parnellite cheers.] It has been asserted that an imprisoned Leaguer tried to secure a distinction between the treatment given him and the imprisoned peasants, but there was no foundation for the assertion. When the government asked them voluntarily to acknowledge their kinship with criminals they answered, "We will die first." You will have to learn the difference between representatives of the criminal classes and Irish political prisoners, even if it takes a coroner's jury to announce the distinction.

Attorney General Webster said O'Brien's speech doubtless was animated by some real passion, but it was impossible to doubt there was a good deal of acting about it. At any rate, if not acting, it was neither more nor less than an incitement to violations of the law. It is strange to hear the Parnellites profess approval of the Irish remedial measures after the contempt with which they treated last year the proceedings to defend the administration of the crimes act. Webster said the question was not whether the branches of the league are suppressed, but whether they had ceased to operate. It is certain they did not now expose men to popular odium, as before; in fact, the meeting being held secretly was a great gain for law and order. Webster was interrupted many times by the Parnellites.

Morley next took the floor and commented on regarding O'Brien's charges, though he had risen once to repel them. Amid the loud cheers of the Parnellites, Morley described Thomas Russell, Member of Tyrone, as the spokesman of the Rump Ascendancy party in Ireland, which went about beating an Orange drum in one hand while it plucked at the sleeves of Monsignor Persico with the other. He refuted the statements of Webster regarding the league, and said the Plan of Campaign continued to be a success. Surely it was a strange doctrine to say it was a good thing to increase the tendency of Irishmen toward secret societies which are the bane of the country. He strongly condemned the outrages perpetrated on the dignity of the House last Friday, by the arrest of two members of Parliament. The government professed to be contending against the tyranny of the League. In reality they were contending against the opinion of the country, and by their coercion were driving hundreds of thousands of citizens of the idle classes who hitherto refrained from politics, to rally to the nationalist cause. Irishmen would be loyal when they had institutions worth being loyal to. In congratulating himself upon the success of coercion, Balfour was in the same fool's paradise that Foster and Spencer had been.

The House agreed to Lord Randolph Churchill's amendment asking a special commission to inquire into the board of public works scandals.

THE NEW RULES.

The new parliamentary procedure rules, in the main, meet with approval. The Parnellites will not oppose them. They are confident the new rules can be used in the future to gag the conservatives.

The government's new rules of procedure provide that the Commons shall sit from 3 p.m. until 1 a.m., with a dinner hour; that the cloture rule may be applied if there is a majority of 100, instead of 200, as at present; that the Speaker may suspend for the sitting disorderly members. Other rules greatly increase the Speaker's power.

The new local government bill, in its final form, as unanimously adopted by the cabinet, creates on a purely elective basis, the conditions of suffrage at the election of members of the boards to be the same as at the parliamentary elections. These boards are to have entire control of the police force within their jurisdiction; to issue and annul publican licences. It also provides for the adoption of the principal of local option, accompanied with a provision for the compensation of publicans for the loss of their licenses, unless these privileges be annulled in consequence of violation of the law.

Baron De Worms, on his return from the continent, will be appointed parliamentary under-secretary for the colonial office.

The Daily News, referring to O'Brien's speech, says his wondrous display of magnanimity will certainly appeal with irresistible force to the English people. The Tories will be unable to complain of any bitterness on his part although the occasion would justify bitterness.

It is not thought that the defeat of the government in the Chamber of Deputies will lead to a cabinet crisis. The Chamber, it is believed, will reconsider its vote and settle the points at issue amicably.

The Fisheries Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The fisheries treaty is the subject of much speculation and discussion at the Capitol today. While declining to give any specific information as to its provisions, Secretary Bayard said tonight to an Associated Press reporter that for many years the great contentions among American fishermen had been for the fair and just construction of the treaty of 1818, and that the present treaty had been framed by the American negotiators with a view to meet the needs and necessities of the American fishermen, and he believed that if the treaty is ratified, that end will have been accomplished.

From a trustworthy source it is learned that the American fishermen are secured all the commercial privileges for which they have been contending, with the exception of the right to purchase bait in Canadian waters, which is expressly withheld. Their right to enter Canadian ports for fuel, water and repairs, is conceded. Certain of the bays, which are specified, are to remain under the exclusive jurisdiction of Canada. There is nothing in the provisions of the treaty, it is said, which necessitates the removal of the duty on Canadian fish or in any way changes the American tariff system. In its important features, the treaty, it is stated, is favorable to the United States, and while new and valuable privileges have been acquired, this has been done without any costly sacrifice on the part of the Americans.

Secretary Bayard said tonight that published reports purporting to give the essential features of the treaty were unauthorized and wholly wrong. The American negotiators left for their homes today. Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Chamberlain will remain in Washington a few days longer, the latter expecting to sail for England in about a week.

The syndicate is composed of sixty members, including Bleichroders directors of the Disconto, Gelsellschaft and other leading banks, Prince Hetzfeldt and the Duke of Ujest. An imperial order has been obtained regulating the mining operations. The syndicate's affairs have been managed by a committee located in Berlin.
