

MAY PARALLEL SALT LAKE ROUTE

Gould Secures Terminals in San Diego, Cal., by Purchase of Small Road.

CHANGE IN ORIGINAL PLANS.

Solution of the Calling Off of Western Pacific Surveyors—Harriman to Save Ogden Route.

The latest Western Pacific story is to the effect that surveying operations will be resumed at an early date and that the real objective point of the Gould western outlet is San Diego. Whether or not Gould and Harriman have arrived at an understanding regarding the projected line from Salt Lake to San Francisco remains to be seen. Despite the fact that the Western Pacific has secured terminals in Oakland, San Francisco and Stockton the story has been freely circulated during the past month to the effect that the Western Pacific will not invade the Southern Pacific territory embraced in the Ogden route.

SOME PATENT INFERENCES.
The recent activity on the part of those in charge of construction on the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake is explained if this story be true. There may also be some significance in the fact that President E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe system, and E. H. Harriman of the Southern Pacific both happen to be in San Francisco today. The fact is in San Pedro is to use the Santa Fe tracks from Daggett west in itself was a circumstance which puzzled many some months ago, and had but one solution—that the Santa Fe and Harriman interests had in a measure combined against a common enemy.

OGDEN ROUTE.
The policy of Harriman since he gained control of the four big systems has been to build up the Ogden route to the detriment of the Sunset Route, at least so claimed the minority stockholders in suits instituted about a year ago. The Ogden route, since the Gould Pacific improvements in Wyoming, Utah, the Ogden-Lucien cut-off and the track changes in Nevada were completed, is the shortest transcontinental line for the rapid handling of freight traffic. The move on the part of the Western Pacific and the Moffat line made it possible for Harriman to have a serious rival in the field.

According to report the promoters of the Western Pacific have been induced to change their original plans with the result that the Ogden route will not be paralleled and the Western Pacific will invade Southern California, as a rival to the Sunset Route or the lesser of two great evils.

GOULD BUYS A ROAD.
The city of San Diego in lower California has one of the finest natural harbors in the world and with the opening of the Panama canal will be one of the great cities of the country. Already the announcement has been made that there will be a huge steel and iron plant erected there which will draw from the mines of iron country. Utah and further that Gould has secured a terminal in that city through the purchase of a road 22 miles in length, running from the harbor to the city. With this announcement comes the solution of the recent activity on the part of the promoters of the Salt Lake Route, the chamber of commerce and other Los Angeles commercial organizations, in the direction of bringing pressure to bear on Congress to complete the work on the San Pedro harbor by appropriating the money for this purpose in a lump sum. The fact that Gould and the Standard Oil interests behind him may induce Congress to abandon the scheme in favor of San Diego, which is a natural harbor, calls for some strenuous handling.

VIA SALINA CUT-OFF.
It is a toss up whether San Diego or San Pedro will be the coaling station for the vessels passing through the Panama canal. If it goes to Gould the Utah Fuel company will have its hands full supplying the necessary fuel.

Briefly summed up, the story is that Gould is going to practically parallel the San Pedro via the Salina cut-off, leaving Salt Lake on the north, the iron and coal fields are to be greatly developed, and for the time being, Harriman has offset the invasion of the Ogden route. It is believed that Gould, having acquired a terminal in San Diego, will endeavor to keep control of the situation.

It is stated, also, that a part of the large scheme is to ultimately build from Ogden to San Francisco, as first intended, and thence down the coast to Los Angeles and San Diego. The present stringency of the money market, coupled with the fact that the Panama canal is not yet built, however, places this important move years in the future.

SHEARING PRICES.

Union Scale Adopted Last August Which Is Causing Trouble.

Owing to the severe storm raging shearing operations have of necessity been abandoned for the time being, consequently the strike of shearers in Wyoming is not drawing much attention. For the benefit of those who are not posted on the scale of prices as adopted at the last convention of the shearers' union at Butte in August, the demands of the men are herewith set forth.

In Montana and Wyoming—Minimum prices for the season of 1904 in the states of Montana and Wyoming shall be as follows:

Eight cents per head straight and board, or 9 cents per head straight

THE ANT.
Facts About One of Nature's Most Indestructible Creatures.

When spring comes with all its signs of opening buds and new flowers, the ant is preparing for a season of profitable industry.

It comes out of its winter quarters and locates a new home where there were none before, during the summer months, the ant is at work on the new winter home.

That the ant is industrious as the ant—but in different ways, are the countless insects which burrow into the soil and eat away at the roots of the plants.

As they burrow away and destroy the roots of the plants, the ant is doing harm.

But the ant is not all killed, and the results are not all bad.

New York's Herpetologist is the only known remedy which kills the ant.

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES FOR PE-RU-NA.

[Neglected Colds and Spring Catarrh Makes Invalids of More Women at This Season Than All Other Diseases Combined.]

At the Beginning of a Cold Is the Time to Take Pe-ru-na.

Another interesting Letter.

MISS MARGARET PHELPS, No. 4 W. Fourth street, Cincinnati, O., Orator Friday Chatsqua Club, writes:

"I consider Peruna the finest remedy for catarrh on the market. A few months ago I caught a cold from getting my feet wet and being exposed to the weather. This cold settled on my lungs and caused them to be sore and irritated, and every time I coughed it would hurt me and I raised a lot of phlegm. My breath was bad, my appetite poor, and my general condition run down. I began taking Peruna and in a short time I was restored to perfect health."—Miss Margaret Phelps.

"AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN A POUND OF CURE."

How to Protect Yourself Against Catarrh During the Uncertain Weather of April.

"Keep the feet warm and dry."
"Also keep the chest well protected."
"Sleep in a well ventilated room."
"Be sure to go out in the fresh air every day, so as to be accustomed to outdoor air."

HEALTH HINTS FOR APRIL.

The following of these rules will secure to each individual a reasonable guarantee against colds, coughs, catarrh, spring fever, and so forth, in spite of slush, sleet, rain or sudden changes of temperature.

If, however, you are already the victim of a cough, loose or tight catarrh, acute or chronic, the remedy that relieves readily, cures quickly and restores permanently is Peruna.

A few doses of Peruna at the beginning of a cold will change the entire course of events. It operates directly on all the mucous membranes, so that no matter where the cold may have settled, it is bound to be reached by this searching remedy. Peruna absolutely prevents catarrh from fastening itself upon any part of the organism.

Cure a Cold Before It Develops Into Catarrh.

Miss Alice O'Neill, 312 Adams street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I cannot say too much in favor of Peruna. About a year ago I was completely worn out, had a serious cold and a had cough which seemed to be in danger of affecting my lungs. If my system had been in a stronger condition it would have been much easier to throw off this cold, but I could not seem to get any relief until I took Peruna, and I must say that it did the work thoroughly. Within a week I could see a wonderful improvement and I took Peruna four weeks and am in perfect health now."—Miss Alice O'Neill.

Miss Lydia Herziger, Grand Recorder of American Daughters of Independence, writes from Neenah, Wis., as follows:

"I have used Peruna now for four years, each spring and fall, and it keeps me perfectly well and strong. I am able to continue working and do not have to take a three months' rest, as I used to do every year. This is a great comfort to me, as I was not able to afford such a long rest. I find that it is a great preventative for colds and coughs and soon rid the system of all disease and is an admirable medicine."—Lydia Herziger.

Mrs. C. MORRISON.

THE TESTIMONIALS GIVEN HERE ARE ONLY FOUR OF THOUSANDS OF TESTIMONIALS FROM THANKFUL WOMEN.

Mrs. C. Morrison, 1008 S. New Jersey St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes:

"Some months ago I contracted a severe cold returning from the theater. This cold settled in my head and developed into catarrh of the head and nose, and I know of nothing more obnoxious. Every morning when I arose my head was all stopped up, throat dry and parched, and I would have to spray for half an hour before I could clear the head. I noticed that Peruna was advertised as a certain cure for catarrh, so I tried what it would do for me, and found after four weeks' use that it had cleared my head and throat, leaving no trace of catarrh. I therefore wish to add my testimony to the many you have as to the efficacy of Peruna."—Mrs. C. Morrison.

Utah Boys Win In Debate With Colorado.

Victors and Vanquished were Both Cheered, the Latter Almost as Much as the Former, for They Made a Splendid Showing—Many Enthusiastic Listeners Were in Attendance.

Victor E. Keyes.

COLORADO'S ORATORICAL REPRESENTATIVES.

Mark A. Strang.

W. L. Hogg.

Utah wins!

At the announcement last evening in the theater at the conclusion of the first collegiate debate between the Utah university and the Colorado college, a mighty shout went up—half for the victors, and half for the boys who, after a valiant struggle, a magnificent showing, went down to defeat.

T. J. Howells, F. E. Holman and W. H. Soule represented Utah, and to them belong the spoils. They were around today receiving the congratulations of friends for the most excellent work they did. The Colorado team consisted of W. L. Hogg, M. A. Strang and J. E. Keyes.

The audience was a large one, hundreds of students being in attendance, and they made the house ring with their "various yells." Gov. Wells took the stage amid cheers and announced the subject of the debate as:

"Resolved, that the adjudication of disputes between employer and employee should be made a part of the regular administration of justice."

"Granted, that courts with appropriate rules of procedure may be established if desirable."

"Granted, that labor unions may be made to incorporate if necessary."

The judges, E. M. Allison, the Rev. Elmer I. Goshen and Fisher Harris, then took their places and the rule was announced that each speaker should be allowed 15 minutes for his main effort and five minutes for rebuttal. It was also agreed that the judges should render their verdicts without consultation.

The first speaker was T. J. Howells of Utah, who took the affirmative. He urged the necessity of industrial courts as a solution of the problem, in order that the citizens should not be threatened with violence and terrorized. Strikes and lock-outs were, he said, not only an evil from which employer and employee suffered, but the community as well.

Said the speaker: "Industrial war is horrible. Equal rights are trampled under foot by strife and the public peace is in peril. The enormous price lost by the contending parties. Establish a court where power is given to arbitrate difficulties, the evil will be uprooted and you will have peace preserved, common rights protected, and justice rendered."

The negative side of the question was first taken up by M. A. Strang. His argument was based on the supposition that, on the proposition made by the affirmative, one of the contending parties, at least, would be hauled into court and the right of individual contract would be destroyed. He declared that such a system would be unconstitutional.

"The court would have to make a wage scale for all classes of labor," said he, "and we all know that that can be regulated only by the law of supply and demand. If the wages were raised, the capitalist's profits would be smaller. If the wages were lowered, the profits would be increased. You cannot do it."

The constitutional side of the question was handled for the affirmative by F. E. Holman, who delivered a body blow when he pointed to New Zealand as a country that has been without strikes for 10 years because of laws that force employer and employee to settle their differences in court.

W. L. Hogg replied for Colorado. He exhibited a chart showing the number of strikes in each state and the small percentage settled by arbitration. He recalled the futile attempts at Rome, Germany and England to regulate the wage scale.

H. W. Soule, for Utah, reviewed the recent strike in Colorado, its tremendous cost and all, and pointed out how the courts could have settled the dispute. With the interstate commerce act and the anti-trust law in effect, he declared that the next and most effective step would be the establishment of industrial courts.

"There can be no arbitration where there is compulsion," declared J. E. Keyes, in closing for Colorado. "A court that forces a man to work against his will makes him a slave. It has no more right to say for what price a man shall work than it has to say at what price he shall sell his house."

F. E. Holman was given five minutes in replying.

The judges then handed in their decision. First came the Rev. Goshen, who decided for Utah. Then came a verdict for Colorado from E. M. Allison. It was an even break until this point, when Fisher Harris decided in favor of the local boys.

And then they made Rome howl. Few outbursts of enthusiasm have been heard in the theater to equal that of the cheering for the boys, which had already contributed musical numbers led the singing of "Varsity songs," and the boys were almost carried off their feet by the enthusiastic crowd.

AVOID all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses and heals the membrane. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and cures Catarrh easily and pleasantly. Cold in the head vanishes quickly. Price 50 cents at druggists or by mail.

Catarrh caused difficulty in speaking and to a great extent loss of hearing. By the use of Ely's Cream Balm dropping of mucus has ceased, voice and hearing have greatly improved.—J. W. Davidson, Atty at Law, Monmouth, Ill.

FREE AUTO SHOW

At the Home of The Utah Automobile Co., 57 Market Street.

The Utah Automobile Company has completed arrangements for Utah's first Automobile show. The show will be free to the public and it will be the largest display of automobiles ever seen in the state. Sixteen different types of motor cars will be exhibited. A number of mechanics will be on hand to explain the workings of the different cars, and a large number of circulars and attractive catalogs will be distributed, giving details of construction.

This free show will continue three days, next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 23, 24 and 25. It will be held to celebrate the opening of the new home of the Utah Automobile Company, 57 Market Street, which is one of the finest automobile houses in the country. The building is 45x100 feet, two stories high, and contains every convenience of an automobile garage. In the rear of the main building are a blacksmith shop, brazing and vulcanizing rooms, steam heating plant, and an underground gasoline tank which is connected to the storage room by pipes. The main building contains a complete automobile repair shop, wash rack, large sales and storage rooms, private lockers, store for automobile supplies and sundries, and convenient public and private offices.

An interesting feature of the show will be three daily street parades covering the business part of the city. The building will be decorated and well lighted. An orchestra will render music each afternoon and evening.
