

FIFTY-FIRST YEAR

OLD FOLKS ARE AT SALT AIR TODAY

And Enjoying Themselves at the Beautiful Resort This Afternoon—President Snow's Interesting Address.

If anyone doubts this is Old Folks day he should go to Saltair and he will be only too convinced that he will be.

To those who in their hearts hold a reverence for the whitened heads of age, Saltair today certainly presented to them a beautiful picture.

The day was so terribly hot that the old people suffered much from the heat in getting to the depot, but after reaching the resort, the shades and the cool salt breezes revivified them.

The committees who had the excursion in hand showed that they had profited by their experiences of the past by making this the most enjoyable and satisfactory outing the old folks have yet been given.

Several thousand of the old folks availed themselves of the pleasure of the outing. The train that left at 10:20 this morning was loaded to the guards.

A train carrying 14 carloads of old and young folks departed this morning, and when they reached Saltair the crowd at the resort could certainly be called a big one.

The majority of them will return on the old train, after having partaken of two lunches, as well as the most choice viands and best culinary art of Utah could make them.

During the afternoon President Snow visited the beach and mingled with the veterans by whom he was repeatedly acclaimed. The following address, which he had prepared for the occasion, was read in clear and distinct voice by his son, Le Roi C. Snow:

garded as a blessing from the Lord. It is our duty to desire to live long upon the earth, that we may do as much good as we possibly can. I esteem it a great privilege to have the opportunity of living in mortality. The Lord has sent us here "for a wise and glorious purpose," and it should be our business to find out what that purpose is before we are called to leave this world.

He has made this plain to us in these last days. He has shown us the path of exaltation and glory, has pointed out the way by which we can regain His presence, and has invited us to come joyfully and steadfastly thereunto. We who are here today have gladly accepted the invitation, and now we have advanced considerably along this path of exaltation.

GEN. GROSVENOR EXPLAINS. He Says He Was Misrepresented on the Third Term Question.

Kansas City, Mo., July 2.—Gen. Charles H. Grosvenor, of Ohio, speaking to a reporter of the utterances regarding the third term question, imputed to him, said:

"I was misrepresented. The interview published was a distortion of a mere statement of historical facts regarding Washington's reasons for not accepting a third term. I will not say a party of young men. I will not say Mr. McKinley could be elected again, but I do say that in my judgment no man will ever be elected to a third term."

Gen. Grosvenor is en route to Winfield, Kansas, where he will deliver an address on July 4.

Russian Crops Withering. London, July 2.—A dispatch from St. Petersburg says the crops in the province of Saratoff are withering and the grass is scorched, owing to the prolonged heat and drought. The price of corn is climbing up, and the outlook at Saratoff and in the neighboring Volga districts is alarming. The scarcity promises to be as severe as the famine a decade ago.

Water Famine in Huntington, W. Va. Huntington, W. Va., July 2.—This city has a water famine. The pumps at the water station are broken and the reservoirs are empty. Thousands of laborers are unable to work, and the city is unable to run. There is great suffering in consequence of the water famine.

Now, I thank the committee for inviting me to be present today, and it affords me much pleasure to see you all enjoy yourselves. The brethren who compose the general committee are certainly entitled to great praise for their labors in arranging these gatherings. I pray that God will bless them for their goodness of heart and for the love which they manifest in this work; and I pray that He will bless all who are in any manner have contributed towards making us happy this day.

STORM IN CUMBERLAND GAP. Farm Houses Demolished and Some Lives Lost.

BANK CLEARING RECORD SMASHED.

All Previous Records Give Way to Today's Big Total of $2,394,455.67—Figures for the Same Day Last Year Were 629,061.73.

Salt Lake bank clearings have made several new records during the present year but it established another today that will in all probability remain the ton notch mark for a long time, though at the present rate of business increase it, too, may go glimmering with the many new figures recorded the last few months.

BUSINESS AND REALTY. Dun's Review, which came from New York in today's mail, has the following paragraph on Salt Lake business: "Trade conditions in both wholesale and retail lines are fairly satisfactory, though cool weather a portion of the week affected some retail lines."

It is proposed by members of the state board of horticulture, now in session here, to make a southern Utah second California for grape and wine production. The prospect for railroad transportation in that vicinity having brightened the people down there are considering the advisability of opening the wine business for commercial purposes, and their enterprising spirit is receiving the backing and encouragement of members of the board of horticulture.

There are indications of a combination of the milling interests of the state here, to make a southern Utah second California for grape and wine production. The prospect for railroad transportation in that vicinity having brightened the people down there are considering the advisability of opening the wine business for commercial purposes, and their enterprising spirit is receiving the backing and encouragement of members of the board of horticulture.

The Daily Reporter yesterday incorporated with a capital stock of $15,000
