list of the Elected Officers on ing purpose. Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not 3 drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and car-ries them out of the system. Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating on-ions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectually clears and im-proves the complexion, it whitens the treath and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic. The State and Legislative MAL QUESTION VERY GRAVE.

There was a time, not so very long ago, when to own a sterling silver toilet set was evidence of extravagance or unusual wealth. Its different now and if a lady does not have a neat silver toilet set on her dressing table its because she has a very unappreciative husband or sweetheart.

The season's productions in silver toilet ware are more modest in design than they have been for some time and comprise either etched, hand engraved, plain polished or bead patterns and relegates to the rear all the cumbersome designs with flowers, scrolls, cupids, birds, etc., stamped in bold relief.

Besides our usual line of choice and exclusive designs in toilet and manicure goods we have secured 25 Sterling silver toilet sets, handsomely etched, consisting of mirror, hair brush, cloth brush, velvet brush and comb (all full size) in a splendid case which we will sell, beginning Monday, at $16.50 each.

These sets would cost regularly as follows:

There are two classes of remedies: those of known quality and which are permanently beneficial in effect, acting gently, in harmony with nature, when nature needs assistance; and another class, composed of preparations of unknown; uncertain and inferior character, acting temporarily, but injuriously, as a result of forcing the natural functions unnecessarily. One of the most exceptional of the remedies of known quality and excellence is the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., which represents the active principles of plants, known to act most beneficially, in a pleasant syrup, in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to contribute their rich, yet delicate, fruity flavor. It is the remedy of all remedies to sweeten and refresh and cleanse the system gently and naturally, and to assist one in overcoming constipation and the many ills resulting therefrom. Its active principles and quality are known to physicians generally, and the remedy has therefore met with their approval, as well as with the favor of many millions of well informed persons who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual experience that it is a most excellent laxative remedy. We do not claim that it will cure all manner of ills, but recommend it for what it really represents, a laxative remedy of known quality and excellence, containing nothing of an objectionable or injurious character.

There are two classes of purchasers: those who are informed as to the quality of what they buy and the reasons for the excellence of articles of exceptional merit, and who do not lack courage to go elsewhere when a dealer offers an imitation of any well known article; but, unfortunately, there are some people who do not know, and who allow themselves to be imposed upon. They cannot expect its beneficial effects if they do not get the genuine remedy.

To the credit of the druggists of the United States be it said that nearly all of them value their reputation for professional integrity and the good will of their customers too highly to offer imitations of the
