PROVO, UTAH, - - DEC. 16, 1896.

Fourth District Court.

Yesterday in the district court Judge Hatch sustained a demurrer to the information in the case of the State vs Joseph E. Crook of Payson, who is charged with procuring an abortion, and defendant was discharged.

The return of the jurors who heard defendant over to await the action of the court, failed to state that the abortion was unlawful, which caused the information to become defective. Crook will have another examination.

The following additional business was transacted:

Martha J. Pemberton vs Talitha J. Piddler et al; stricken from present calendar at cost of plaintiff.

The following cases were set: December 10th — Elizabeth Brereton executrix, vs James K. Pierpont et al; Matilda Malmstrom vs Charles R. Malmstrom. December 21—First National bank of Provo vs North American Agricultural company. January 4—Winnebago National bank of Rockford vs N. B. Ferguson et al; New-Knight vs W. B. Searle. January 5—Joseph Smith vs S. G. W. Railway company; George Q. Cannon et al, vs A. A. Noon et al. January 6—H. C. Jansen vs John A. Brown et al; A. H. Scott vs Utah Consolidated Mining company et al; F. J. Fulkes vs Alfred W. Harper.

The following cases were continued for the term: Provo City vs Benjamin Richmond; John A. Lewis vs R. G. W. Railway company; R. D. Sweet vs F. W. C. Hathenbruck; F. W. C. Hathenbruck et al, vs Thomas Dever, sheriff, et al; Ann E. M. Monroe vs Jane Memmel; Maggie R. Thompson vs W. H. Burt; Henry Scheide vs Hercules Mining company; First National Bank of Winnetago, Kans., vs Chas. Hoch et al; Strawberry Valley Cattle company vs John Ingram and seven other defendants.

Effect of Food on Eggs.

The Rural New Yorker has lately been making inquiries from prominent poultry men in regard to the effect of feeding upon the size of eggs; also whether the size will make any difference in the number which a hen will lay. The varied answers show that even the most experienced feeders are very much in the dark upon this subject. It may be inferred, however, from the answers that the grains have much less effect in increasing the size of eggs than have meats, bran and other nitrogenous foods, but grains fed in excess will make the hen too fat, and her eggs will either be small or be retained until abnormally large. As to the effect on the number of eggs, opinions are about equally divided. Perhaps the answer to either question depends more upon the breed than upon any particular food. The ideal food for laying hens as given by Mr. I. K. Felch is as follows: "The combination of 30 pounds of corn, 15 pounds of oats, 10 pounds of wheat, 10 pounds of barley and 15 pounds of wheat bran, thoroughly mixed, gives the largest number of eggs possible. This is used as the morning soft food, with 20 per cent of meat in the afternoon feed mixed grains."

Milk For Poultry.

It is being discussed as to whether milk will take the place of meat for poultry. Milk is really superior to meat, but the fowls cannot drink enough of it to enable them to substitute it for meat, which is more concentrated. To derive benefit from one pound of solid matter in milk the hens would have to drink about eight pounds of milk, as there is only about 12 per cent of solids in milk. The consumption of such large quantities of fluid is not natural with fowls. They prefer meat and are not milk consuming if they can procure its substitute, being averse to the use of such large supplies of water.

Let All Fare Alike.

Some hens are greedy and seize the food to prevent other hens from scattering their share. It is such hens that become overfat and finally cease to lay. When food is given in a way to allow the hens to eat it without being compelled to scratch or seek for it, the result will always be an unequal distribution of the food among the members of the flock. The proper mode is to scatter the grain over a large surface, so that each hen will be compelled to work and all will fare alike.

OBITUARY.

HENRY HOWELL.

Henry Howell died November 24, 1896, in his sixty-ninth year, at his home in Bear Haven, Bear Lake county, Idaho, from a combination of heart and lung trouble. He was ill for a week previous to his death. Brother Howell leaves a wife, seven children, nineteen grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn his loss. Two sons preceded him to the spirit world, One son, Emanuel J. Howell, is now on a mission to England.

The deceased was born in Essex, England, March 8, 1828. The voice of the Good Shepherd greeted his ears in his native country, and as a consequence he was baptized in the river Thames by his brother James Howell, October 8, 1854. March 20, 1855, he was married to Frances Gobel. Emigrating to Zion, he left Liverpool on the ship Chimborazo, April 12, 1855, in the company numbered by Edward Stevenson; leaving left his father, his mother and all his relatives, except his brother James Howell and family, for the sake of the gospel. Henry emigrated James to America, an act of kindness which the latter never forgot. They arrived in Philadelphia March 22, 1855, where they remained for five years. While there Henry was ordained an Elder. His house was freely opened to the missionary Elders who were laboring in that vicinity, chief among whom was A. P. Welchman. The meetings were held in Henry's house, which was also "headquarters," and he almost invariably led the singing.

On his way to Utah, leaving Florence, he crossed the plains with ox teams, in Captain John Smith's company, arriving in Salt Lake City September, 1862. There he remained until 1864, when he pioneered to Bear Lake County, Idaho, first settling in Paris, where he remained till he moved to Fish Haven, 1885. He was one of the first settlers of this place, and here he resided until his death.

He was ordained a High Priest September 14, 1877, by Elder Wm. Budge. He was second counselor to Bishop Penn and first counselor to Bishop Sessions.

Brother Howell was a very active, energetic member of his ward. It was his lot to lead the singing in the ward meetings up to within a few years of his death, and in the different wards in which he resided—Salt Lake, Paris and Fish Haven—he was alive in officiating in the various offices of the Priesthood.

Brother Howell was a constant subscriber of the DESERET NEWS for at least twenty-five years. He was a sober, hard-working, industrious man. He was strictly honest in his dealings with his fellow beings, wise in his counsel to his friends and relatives, and faithful in serving his Maker, vindicating His doctrine to the last. His example is well worthy the emulation of his sons and daughters and friends.—[Com.
