A Man Fatally Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

NOT CRUSHED BY A TOWER WHEEL.

Killed by a Stream of Water—Horrible Death of a Little Boy Who "Played Horse."

D. W. Horne, one of Rio Frisco's most prominent stock raisers, was bitten by a rattlesnake on his ranch near Saturday morning, and after suffering untold agony from the poisonous effects of the reptile's fangs, succumbed to the inevitable. Mr. Horne was out on the range when he noticed a rattler coiled for a spring. He was unarmed, but thinking to capture the snake alive, he attempted to grab it by the tail. The snake struck him on the left hand, and before he could get away it struck him again on the left leg. Mr. Horne then succeeded in killing the snake, and started for home, which was about a mile away. He had not gone far when he began to feel the effects of the poison, and was soon unable to walk. He then crawled along on his hands and knees, dragging his left leg after him. He reached home in a terribly exhausted condition. His arm was terribly swollen. The doctor said it was impossible for him to survive.

Robert Lesley, a prominent Fort Bidwell and Rio Frisco resident, left Monday evening from Nine Mile with Jesse Bigelow, who is wanted in Lassen, Nev., on a serious charge in connection with a gambling transaction. Mr. Lesley took him to Salt Lake, Ogden and Evanston, Wyo., after which he returned to Nine Mile, but after riding about seven days' wheel horse to the Fish. He took a wagon back to Nine Mile, where he took the train to Ogden. Bill would not let the title and handed it to Wheel on to Ogden, where he was to go. When Hunt was brought from Fort Bidwell he stood up, though he was carried that day. Hunter had on wheel that and written his father that he intends to ride Hiawatha to Rome or "bust."

A horrible fatality occurred Saturday morning at the Iron Mine tract, nine miles from Bullfrog, Nev. Gilbert, the eleven-year-old son of W. W. McDonald, fell a young pet up to an ore bucket of water. The unfortunate had a long to climb between the tracks, and while it was ascending the boy evidently mistook that he "would ride home, too," and swung on the cross-piece to seek. Just then the tender appeared, which dashed the cage, and jumping back, it threw the lad down. The frightened fire animal shied, and it began to run, dragging the boy after it, and striking him with its hind feet at every jump. The log was dragged about 100 yards, and finally the rope tangled around a bucket in some way. The boy was caught by young McDonald, whose the cord and almost cut his head off, killing him instantly. When McDonald arrived the cage was still standing at the dump and the engine had given way.

PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, JUNE 15, 1896.

Garden City Notes.

Charles Anet, E. W. Grover and P. J. Daly have entered suit against S. B. Dorton and ten others in $5,000 damages by reason of deepened excavating one in the water of that emptied from the Westfield and Northfield Edelstein mining claims in American Fork canyon, which claim plaintiffs allege they own, and that defendants have entered upon the property and committed the trespass complained of under a claim of adverse possession. Plaintiffs ask that defendants be perpetually restrained from interfering with the property in question. Judge Ellis has issued an order requiring defendants to show cause on the 24th inst. at 10 a. m., why a temporary restraining order should not be issued, pending a decision on the merits of the case.

Rockwell and Reid, who were bounded in Tuesday's morning today, are to have and improving. Mr. Rockwell came over from Vernal to Provo, to be married. He says Vernal people have turned from the influence of the late Henry Cannon, and are content to be governed from the county seat hereafter. His opponents were a commanding majority, and he carried the ticket by an unprecedented majority.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Henry came to Provo evening from Nine Mile with John Bigelow, who is wanted in Lassen, Nev., on a serious charge in connection with a gambling transaction. Mr. Henry took him to Salt Lake, Ogden and Evanston, Wyo., after which he returned to Nine Mile, but after riding about seven days' wheel horse to the Fish. He took a wagon back to Nine Mile, where he took the train to Ogden. Bill would not let the title and handed it to Wheel on to Ogden, where he was to go. BattleAx PLUG

Five cents' worth of "BATTLE AX" will serve two chewers just about as long as 5 cents' worth of other brands will serve one man. This is because a 5 cent piece of "BATTLE AX" is almost as large as the 10 cent piece of other high grade brands.
