The members of the Thirteenth Quorum of Seventies, and the scattered members of the Seventies residing in the 15th and 20th Wards of this city, are requested to meet at the 20th Ward School-house, on Friday, August 31st, 1883, at 7.30 p.m. By order of the Council.

THOS. C. JONES, Clerk.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

NOTICE.

There will be a meeting of the City Council to-night at 8 o'clock, by order of

WILLIAM JENNINGS, Mayor.

Theatre.—The Congress of Curious cases to-night. It is well worth witnessing. Everything to be seen is good and there is nothing in it objectionable. To-night at 8 o'clock will be the last chance.

Petty Stealing.—Yesterday a thief entered a Commercial Street tailor's shop and walked away with a pair of buckskin pants. On the same street the proprietor of a second-hand store lost a couple of pistols by the same process.

The Red Pocket Book.—Mrs. F. M. Bates and Miss Salie Hickney have finally made arrangements with the House Dramatic Club for a grand production of the above play on Friday and Saturday evenings, and Saturday matinee of next week, at the Salt Lake Theatre.

Twenty-first Ward Seminary.—The district school in the 21st Ward will begin its first school term, for the present year, on Monday, Aug. 27th, 1883, with J. H. Ward as principal, assisted by two lady teachers. Under the above management it is expected that they will have a first-class school.

Sugar Manufacture.—Mr. Arthur Haynes, of Farmington, proposes re-commencing the manufacture of sugar on or about next Monday. All necessary preparations are about completed, and a start will be made on forty-five acres of cane averaging at least nine tons to the acre, making an aggregate of over four hundred tons.

Arrangements for Smelting.—Arrangements are being entered into with local smelters to have the ore from the Bullion, Beck and Champion mines, in Tintic District, smelted here, instead of shipping it out of the Territory in its crude form. There is over 100,000 tons of low grade ore in the mine, and 10,000 tons on the dump.

Eighth Quorum of Seventies.—There will be a meeting of the 8th quorum of Seventies held at the 13th Ward Assembly Rooms on Monday the 27th day of August, at 7.30 p.m. All the scattered Seventies living in the 13th and 15th Wards are expected to be present.

ROBERT CAMPBELL, On behalf of the Presidents of the 8th Quorum.

Salt Lake City, Aug. 25, 1883.

The First Phoenix.—On Monday, Jos. Hyrum Parry & Co., will open out in their tasteful, neat new building, next door to the Globe Bakery. They will have a full line of goods in their branch and be ready to do job and other printing. They have shown considerable pluck and enterprise in opening out so soon and handsomely after the fire disaster.

A Big Bear Story.—The bear story that appeared in the columns of our esteemed contemporary the Herald, this morning, is not yet finished. It was a small cinnamon which strayed from Mr. Pitt's place on the State Road. Yesterday a small boy was out hunting it, and on being asked what he would do with him if he caught him, "Lead him home, of course, he's quite gentle." The bear is still at large.

Southern Theatricals.—Mr. J. P. Curran, the experienced theatrical gentleman who has been operating for some time in this part of the country has organized a burlesque and comedy company, accumulated a large amount of beautiful scenery and elegant costumes. With this new theatrical outfit he will start next Monday on a tour through Southern Utah. The entertainment will be novel to that part of the Territory, and doubtless prove a quite an attraction. Mr. Curran is a genial gentleman and wins his way wherever he goes. We hope he will have a successful trip. Mrs. Curran and two children, who are prodigies in their way with take conspicuous parts in the performances.

Furnished by Dogs.—Shortly after ten o'clock last night a man in the northern part of the 20th and 18th Wards had an exhilarating chase and dog show all to himself. How the thing started the residents of the neighborhood do not know, but they are aware of the fact that the person who was the principal figure in the scene was observed rushing through the air, his lower limbs receiving remarkable vigor from the inspiration of terror, his hair streaming in the wind and his coat tails on a tee line behind him, while close on his track were a bevy of howling and savage dogs, who gathered strength as they sped, being joined by canines on the way. The fugitive crossed lots, vaulted fences and as he rushed southward turned and fired a shot at his pursuers. This is no overdrawn picture, but an uncolored fact. The dog nuisance is not diminishing.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY.

MARSHAL BURT KILLED AND HIS MURDERER LYNCHED—C. H. WILKINSON WOUNDED.

One of the most horrible and thrilling tragedies ever enacted in this part of the country, took place on the public streets of this city, between one and two o'clock this afternoon, and never have we beheld such tremendous excitement as was caused by it.

At one o'clock F. H. Grice, a colored man who keeps a small restaurant adjacent to the Old Salt Lake House, telephoned to the City Hall for police officers to arrest a man who was making a disturbance, flourishing a pistol, and threatening to shoot. Marshal Andrew Burt and Charles H. Wilkin immediately answered the summons. They walked to Main Street in search of the man who had been complained of. When they got close to the drug store of Mr. Smith, near the old Elephant corner, Grice pointed to a colored man who was standing on the edge of the sidewalk and said: "That is the man, arrest him," or words to the effect.

THE MURDER.

Marshal Burt, then whom a braver man probably never lived, approached Harvey, this being his name, to make the arrest, when he raised a needle-gun to shoot. Mr. Wilkin sprang upon him with the agility of a tiger, but he was too late. The messenger of death left the weapon, the bullet entering the upper part of Marshal Burt's arm passing not only through it, but the entire body, coming out on the other side. He ran into the drug store, fell and expired almost instantly. Mr. Wilkin grappled the murderer by the throat, but before he could prevent him he drew a large revolver and shot that officer through the fleshy part of the left arm, between the shoulder and elbow.

SECURING THE MURDERER.

During this time the coolness, intrepidity and bravery manifested by Mr. Wilkin was admirable, while the cowardice of a crowd of spectators was calculated to inspire a sentiment of another character. They camped away in terror in every direction. Finally Mr. Wilkin threw Harvey into the ditch, and after he was overpowered the crowd returned to the scene to his aid.

The body of Marshal Burt which was in the drug store, was covered with a sheet and blanket, and from thence conveyed to his residence adjacent to the City Hall.

THE LYNCHING.

By this time a tremendous concourse of excited people had gathered at the scene of the tragedy. So dreadful was the state of popular rage that it looked irresistible. As Harvey was being conveyed to the jail, the crowd, raised deafening yells, demanding that the murderer be strung up and lynched. Then commenced a struggle between the officers and the mob, the latter acting as if they would tear him in pieces. Finally the mob tore him away from the officers who had him in charge, procured a rope, and being unable to find a nearer place convenient for their purpose, dragged him into a shed at the rear of the lawn-plot adjacent to the City Hall, and strung the writhing wretch up over the beams that support the roof. This was summary vengeance wreaked on the red-handed murderer.

COMMENDABLE ACTION OF THE MAYOR.

Hundreds gathered around and gazed at the revolting spectacle presented by Harvey's corpse, the face of which was horrible and repulsive beyond description. The sickening sight and the memory of his awful crimes seemed to lash the feelings of the mob into renewed fury, and we never before so vividly realized the terrible frenzy of an unreasonable crowd of enraged people. With a sudden impulse a portion of them rushed up, cut the body down and dragged it along the street, sending the air with angry shouts as they went. Happily Mayor Jennings arrived on the scene and proved himself equal to the occasion. He ordered the mob, and overtook them, commanded them to take the body of Harvey to the City Hall. His direction was obeyed, and he addressed the mob, reasoning with them in such a manner as to allay the storm which had been up to that time raging.

THE DECEASED, ETC.

Marshal Burt, who had the courage of a lion, allied to a heart susceptible of the most tender feelings was beloved by all who were intimate with him, and the weeping in the midst of his family was heart-rending. But the sorrow was not confined to that circle, but extended to nearly the entire community. Scores of his friends were unnerved by the dreadful event and were going about with tears streaming from their eyes. In them was not the spirit of vengeance but of lamenting, for the death by sudden and violent means of a man as true as ever man could be. Honest, incorruptible and truthful we knew him to be, and always found at the post where duty called him.

Not only was he a fearless and indomitable officer, but an efficient and active Bishop, who will be greatly missed by the people of the 21st Ward, over whom he presided in that capacity. The funeral services will be held in the Tabernacle at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning. From 9 o'clock until that hour the body will be in the building, when those who desire will have an opportunity of gazing for the last time upon the face of the esteemed dead.

A Reversement.—The hosts of friends of President Joseph F. Smith and wife who deeply sympathize with them in their bereavement, which occurred this morning, in the death of their little boy Albert, as will be seen by a notice in another column. President Smith arrived home this morning, having been summoned by the sad event.

TRIP TO THE NATIONAL PARK.

A PARTY FROM UTAH HAVE AN INTERESTING TOUR.

Brother James F. Wells, editor and proprietor of the Contributor, returned yesterday from a five-weeks tour of the Rocky Mountains, about the head waters of the great rivers flowing to the Pacific and the Gulf of Mexico. The party consisted of Apostle Moses Thatcher, Pres. Wm. S. Preston, Elders W. H. Apperly, Lucius Farr, Bishops Amos Wright and M. L. Greenwell, Moses Thatcher, Jr., Oscar Greenwell and James Brown, (Indian from the Mailed Farm.)

The trip was made through Idaho to Beaver Canyon, thence to the Yellowstone National Park, where over a week was spent viewing the wonders of that wonderland. From the mammoth springs at the northern extremity of the Park, the party proceeded down the Yellowstone River for several days and visited the Crow Indian Agency, arriving on the same day that the Senate committee of Indian Affairs, consisting of Senators Logan, Dawes, Cameron and others reached there. Opportunity was afforded to practically study the system of agencies and learn the methods pursued by the Government in its treatment of the red men.

The Crow Indians are a fine, large race of men, with faces that indicate the possession of much intelligence, and bodies that are sinewy and powerful. There are about 3,500 of them on the reservation, which occupies over three million acres of good grazing country in Southern Montana.

The object of the above committee's visit was to secure the relinquishment of a large portion of the reservation, but the council held by them, it is understood, was very unsatisfactory, resulting in the refusal of the Indians to consent.

The party proceeded by the Bear-tooth and Heart Mountains, ascending along the Shoshone range to the Wind River Indian Agency, where Washakie and the Shoshone Indians are located. They had a very pleasant interview with the second and third chiefs and other leading men of the tribe, Washakie being away at the time to Owl Mountain.

The Presidential party had been to Fort Washakie the week before and the Indians were still in their holiday attire, with which they were decorated for that occasion.

A short distance this side of the Agency at the North Fork of the Popo Agie River, at a blacksmith shop, where the party stopped to have some horse shoes set a rough pine coffin was being made by the wagon maker for the notorious "Bill" Hickman, who died in a log cabin near by, where he had been living for two or three years.

The hunting and fishing was excellent in the many streams and rivers crossed on the route. The mountain-climbing and camping in the open air has given all health and strength and they returned rested and invigorated from the tour.

Brother Wells left the party camped in the hills about South Pass (they will reach Logan in about a week) and took stage and train home in time to close the present volume of the Contributor and make arrangements for issuing volume five, which commences with the October number. In it a series of articles descriptive of the Geyser and other wonders of the Yellowstone Park, and of the Indians and their life on the reservations will be presented, written by Elder Moses Thatcher and the editor, they having made extensive notes of the various objects and incidents of interest on the journey.

A School Matter.—Next Tuesday evening, at half-past seven o'clock the taxpayers of the 51st School District (21st Ward) will meet to consider the advisability of disposing of a portion of the lot, which consists of half a block. The idea of the trustees in calling the meeting is for the purpose of finding out whether the people are willing that one half of this ground should be sold, and the proceeds of the sale be devoted to the erection of a new school house. Should the decision be affirmative it is the intention to erect the building this fall. This plan is deemed the only feasible one at present for accomplishing the object.
