THE TRIBUTE OF PIONEER WOMEN.

Daughters of Sturdy Spirits Com memorate Joseph Smith's Birth.

FINE PROCRAM IS RENDERED.

President Joseph F. Smith and Judge W. H. King Are the Speakers -The Proceedings.

A notable affair held in honor of Joseph Smith the Prophet, was that of yesterday when the Society of the Daughters of Utah Ploneers met in Barratt hall and commemorated the 98th birthday anniversary of the great man whose life work resulted in their being today living representatives of those who pioneered the desert valley in the early times.

The program was a memorable one, and worthy of the occasion for which it was planned It began with an invocation by Mrs. Margaret P. Young, followed a paper by Mrs. Maria Young followed a paper by Mrs. Maria Young Dougall, entitled "Brigham the Friend of the Prophet," dealing with the perfect trust and confia acc reposed by Joseph Smith in the man who was to succeed him in the leadership of the Church of which he was the founder. Mrs. Dougall recited numberless incidents connected with the two men, showing that Joseph not only made of Brigham a bosom friend and counselor in his life, but that foreseeing his dwn martyrdom, he himself predicted that upon Brigham's shoulders would fall the responsibility of leadership when his own work should be finished. She gave incidents showing how both in word and deed Brigham loved and reverenced his great leader, and in all reverenced his great leader, and in all things held himself as being responsible to him for the welfare of the Church confided to his direction in Joseph's

Mrs. Dougall was followed by President Joseph F. Smith, who had been asked to speak upon the subject, "Mestaked to speak upon the subject, "Mestaked to speak upon the subject, "Mestaked and the First sengers to the World, and the First Fruits of the Message." President Smith began with a recital of the visits of the heavenly messengers to Joseph in answer to his prayer that he might know which of the then denominations of the world was God's true church, and who declared to him that none of them had divine authority, but that the time had come for the restoration of the true Gospel, and that Joseph should be the instrument to carry out that purpose. A brief outline was given of the various visitations to Joseph of ngers instructing him in his work and the bringing forth of the plates containing the Book of Mormon. The fruits of these were that on April 6, 1830, Joseph, with the two other men to whom the messengers appeared, organized the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and afterward baptized into its fold thousands of beings who accepted its doctrines. These, President Smith said, were not the ignorant, nor visionaries. They were men and women of fine intelli-gence, high character, and strong moral worth. They in their turn went ou into the world and converted thousands to the Church. They endured privation, suffering and persecution, and finally, driven from their homes, crossed the desert, and founded here in the moundesert, and founded here in the mountains, the city wherein we dwell.

Through Joseph's direction missionaries visited every accessible country, and carried their message to the isles of the sea. The fruits of this is that today nearly every nation, tongue and kindred of the habitable world had heard their word, and hundreds of thousands had gathered to dwell as a recoile here in these valleys. The repeople here in these valleys. The result of that gathering and faith we see about us, in our fair city, in our great ecclesiastical, charitable and improvement organizations, in our edifices devoted to its teachings and work. A great and important fruit, the speaker said, has been the work in the temples whereby millions of the dead had had performed for them the vicarious work necessary for their redemtion. This work, together with that for the living. has been stupendous, and makes glorious showing in the results of message received by Joseph Smith. President Smith closed with a prayer that the work might go on and be ful-filled to perfection with all the inhabi-tants of the earth.

JUDGE KING TALKS

Judge W. H. King followed, with brilliant tribute to the memory of Joseph Smith. He dwelt upon his won-derful destiny as a Latter-day prophet, to re-establish God's church upon the earth, his genius, intellect and character and declared him to be one of the greatest men, measured by all standards, that had ever lived on the earth. He saw in him traits that were suggestive of Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln and others of the world's he-roes, whilst his genius for, and expres-sions upon the science of governmental were comparable to those of our greatest statesmen, Clay, Webster and others. In charaçter he was loving, generous and courageous, having the latter two traits to a fault. He never shirked danger of the most threatening shirked danger of the most threatening kind, but was in every place where the needs and peril of his people called him. His work, the speaker declared, was greater than that of any man since Christ. We who believe this now, re-joice to celebrate his memory, and in joice to celebrate his memory, and in time the world itself throughout its length and breadth, will recognize him God's representative on earth. Besides the addresses were two beau. tiful musical numbers, a piano solo by Miss Cecelia Sharp, and a vocal se-lection "The Seer," by Prof. Charles

GENEROUS UNCLE BILL.

A Realistic Romance That Began Back East and Ends in Salt Lake.

In a remote hamlet back east lived demure maiden and a bashful young man, who had for some years been living with but one and the same ob-ject in view. They were both hopeless yiethms of "love microbes" that were doing most effectual work under the direction of Cupid himself. At last Harry suddenly "woke up" and decided that procrastination was the thief of ed that procrastination was the thief of time and —bliss—and immediately set about to bring matters to a focus. "Hettie may I-1-1, er-1"—but he took a header over bashfulness—"Again would you-oo-oo, er." This time Hettle came to his rescue with a sweet "Yes, Harry dear, I er-er-I've been trying to say yes all this time and I mean it too, if er you do." and to this day Harry insists that he popped the question. Very soon there was a wedding and it was not much longer before Uncle Bill Taylor of Sait Lake wrote effusively of not much longer before Uncle Bill Tay-lor of Salt Lake wrote effusively of what he termed her "grit" and proposed that if they would locate here he would start them up in life as a Xmas gift. Very soon they began to bid loved ones adieu and were soon speeding in this direction.

When the train pulled in generous Uncle Bill was at the depot to greet and welcome the much elated couple, and after hearty congratulations, conand after hearty congratulations, conducted them straightway to the Knutsford, having previously arranged for a splendid auite with Gus Holmes, the sauve host. It was in the dning room at breakfast next morning that Uncle Bill first unfolded his plans to the appreciative new-comers, obligating himself, first of all, to build and furnish for them an ideal American home.

After breakfast the anxious new-comers, at Uncle Bill's request, ac-comers, at Uncle Bill's request, ac-companied him about town with a view of getting acquainted and arrang-ing in detail all matters incidental to building and furnishing the new home, "and, now for a desirable spot," said Uncle Bill, to build on; let's go in and confer with Brown's in town, 11 East First South, our well-informed and residence site.

Generous Uncle Bill's first gift to his newly married and appreciative niece will be a pretentious new residence, a reminiscense of colonial architecture—a most modern and commodious twelve room house, costing $10,000. The plans were drawn by our favorably known architect, Fred Hale, in the Commercial block, who designed it. Mr. Hale is held in high esteem by the public as an architect of originality and artistic tastes, remarked Uncle Bill, in speaking to the bride about the completeness and to the bride about the completeness and very inviting and splendid appearance of the new home, as they all sat look-ing at the perspective view-from the

Uncle Bill next called on Schraven & Ronan, 624 west First South, one of Sait Lake's best informed, and best facilitated contractors and builders and facilitated contractors and builders and awarded them the contract to build the residence, and incidentally remarked that nobody ever questioned Schraven & Ronan's integrity in fulfilling a contract and to the letter, and on time too, since some of Salt Lake's better buildings are of their production.

"In the matter of plumbing," remarked Uncle, Bill, "we cannot use too much care for both health and comfort depends on good sanitary conditions, and nothing contributes so much to this end as does scientific plumbing, and when as does scientific plumbing, and when coupled with the use of porcelain bath tubs, good sinks and pretty and approand comfort and as well a pleasing in-terior effect. Now, to avoid trouble in after years we'll make a deal with D. W. James, 65 east Second South, my friend, about executing the plumbing friend, about executing the plumbing and heating contracts. Then we will be sure of good workmanship, artistic fixtures and a square deal,"

"Now that our splendid new residence will soon be ready to move into we'll next take steps about furnishing it out in good shape. It will be my aim to have it 'par excellence,'" venaim to have it 'par excellence,' 'ven-tured Uncle Bill, "so if you join me we'll go and talk it over with the Greenwald Furniture company, 33-35-37 west Third South, our staunch and well west Third South, our staunch and well informed house furnishers and diligent exponents of furniture." The trio were courteously received at the store and after the assiduous management had made some suggestions to the anxious bride, she soon selected her parlor, chamber and bed-room suite, carpets, were topestries and the other requirement. rugs, tapestries and the other requi-sites in furnishings for the new home, so enticing were the smart and unique effects comprised in the stock. Hence Uncle Bill ordered the Greenewald Furniture company to furnish it "out and out" from top to bottom, and to have

"Yes, I did promise you a nice watch and a silver service set," quoth Uncle Bill to the bride, emerging from the furniture store, and he directed them to Boyd Park's jewelry store, 170 Main street, where he soon acquitted Main street, where he soon acquitted himself of the obligation, adding to the above a handsome upright grandfather above a handsome upright grandfather clock and some exquisite articles in Bohemian and table ware, while Hettie seemed to be in ecstacy at the thought of so many dainty articles for her new home. "Boyd Park's jewelry house," remarked Uncle Bill, as they entered the street, "always shows artistic and seasonable effects and a varied and comprehensive stock and varied and comprehensive stock and

"In my kitchen, Uncle Bill, I want a 'Van' range. That's the make mama has, and for baking or making pastries it is lovely. Then too, we want a stove, some table cutlery and a manifold list of cooking utensils," Hettle continued. "For these we'll go to the King Hardware company, 168 south Main, where I got the builders hardware the other day," remarked the liberal old man, "There you can fit out your culinary day," remarked the liberal old man, "There you can fit out your culinary department on whatever scale you wish. The collection of utensils and wares is, indeed, cosmopolitan and I know of no better, more reliable or agreeable house to patronize. Its customers come from all points of the compass," Accordingly everything needed for the kitchen was purchased from the King Hardware company.

"I can't conceive of any one thing that bespeaks so much for the intellectual stamina of refined qualities of ectual stamina of refined qualities of the mistress of the home than to find the mistress of the home than to find there the practise of music," continued Uncle Bill, "we are told that music is the chief pleasure with the angels. A salient requisite to this end is a reliable instrument. This is unquestionably true," interjected the thoughtful listener. "In my parlors I prefer a Fischer Piano. My friends in the East have this make. It is exquisite in tone and a highly finished and beautiful piano. The Fischer is sold here by our conversant and well-known dealer. The Daynes Music Co., 74 Main. "It is a reliable and an agreeable house with reliable and an agreeable house with which to deal and has the favor of a wide acquaintanceship not alone in town but in the country tributary."

There is one more requisite yet, be-fore I'll really consider my home completely furnished," suggested Hit-tie. "And what's that?" demanded Uncle Bill, who thought he's already urranged for everything.

"A sewing machine." "A White."

"Yes yes; that's a fact—but I'll fix about that very soon. My friend, L. E. Hall. 29 west First South, is the man to see for a sewing machine, and he is a pleasant fellow to deal with, too, and pleasant fellow to deal with, too, and knows all about a machine. He sells the universally recognized "White" that is found in half the homes in the civilized world. Of course you know it is the favorite with all intelligent housewives. After lunch you can come with me to the office and see all the late worldle and make your selection. country about." The trio were cordially received and it wasn't long before the sauve Mr. Brown had sold Uncle Bill a pleasant and commodious residence site.

Now for wholesome gro-ceries, provision and toothsome table ceries, provision and toothsome table delicacies I'll escort you over to W. S. Henderson, 267-269 Main St., who conducts a well appointed and completely stocked grocery, where is ever shown a varied assortment of the most tempting good things to eat in town, whose patrons come from every nook and corner hereabouts, and presumably for a reason, perhaps that they appreciate the superior efforts and correct ways that characterize the business dealings of W. S. Henderson, our wide awake and well-versed purveyor to the larder."

Departing from the grocery, Uncle Bill in the lead, they made a beeline for The Hiawatha Bakery, where the young couple were introduced.
"bread is the staff of life," he said,
"and in the production of bread, cakes and pies the successful baker must not and ples the successful baker must not be content with making up staple articles only, but must show originality in order to captivate the public taste. This is the secret of the success achieved by Dean & Sons, who under-stands so well the art of catering in this particular branch, ever offering toothsome and palatable products to

"There's one thing more before dispensing with the larder," articulated Uncle Bill. "Now about good, juicy, fresh and cured meats and kindred articles of food, I will take you up to J. M. Uncle Bill laughed to see the boys handle the cleaver and saw with so much dexterity, but his countenance grew serious when he stated in unmistakable terms that he wanted the chickers to the dillucration. ed the choicest cuts delivered to his home each day.

Since Uncle Bill has tired himself out walking the dusty streets, he seeks an easier and more dignified method of transportation and one more in keeping with his other modes of living—hence with his other modes of hving—hence he at once makes tracks for H. B. Prout's carriage repository, 207-209 State street. Uncle Bill evinced much anxiousness while being shown over the busy and well-ordered premises and was not long in placing an order for a nobby and substantial surrey, fitted with rubber tires and the many modern with rubber tires and the many modern devices that add to the comfort of the up-to-date pleasure vehicle. "Oh, yes, Uncle, you were to take us for a drive." "Yes, yes, I was, and I'll keep my word too. Just then a pair of spirited steeds attached to a substantial and attractive surrey, with fine trappings very apparent, drew up in front of the Knutsford. "That rig came from The Salt Lake Livery and Transfer Co.'s stables" remarked Uncle Bill, as he looked it over, he had just phoned to 211 "our staunch and well-known livery here. It is a well ordered livery, gale and feed stables, commodious with every comfort for 'man's best friend,' where is kept good vehicles for all uses and good horses, too, including some 'high steppers:' it is this kind of business effort that has brought Capt. Sam'l Paul into good standing with the public.

"I see you make some pretensions to dress well yourself," remarked Uncle to Henry, scrutinizing his apparel "now for ready made clothing and men's fur-nishing goods I'll take you to where I trade and introduce you, I refer to Gray Bros. & Co.,154 Main.
