In solution of the Item that appeared n Saturday evening's "News" in regard to a man named William W. ## PASSING OF DR. JOHN R. PARK.

After Many Weary Days of Suffering the Final Summons Comes.

A LIFE OF USEFULNESS.

His Career Ran Parallel With the History of Education in Utah-Goes Down Full of Years and Honors,

Dr. John R. Park, whose life ran parallel with the history of education in Utah, has passed to his everlasting reward, and with him has gone the love of thousands of hearts. The old idiom, likely to be the time and the Assembly Hall the place. The speakers agreed upon thus far are Senator Rawlins, Governor Wells, Dr. Kingsbury and Hon, James Sharp, the latter a regent of the University.

All of the committees have not been appointed yet, but those agreed upon are B. S. Young, Mrs. Dr. Wilcox, Mrs. J. D. Spencer, Mrs. William M. Stewart, nmittee on decorations. Prof. Coray Prof. Roylance, Prof. Cummings, com-mittee on resolutions. The committee on music will probably be named this

A TRIBUTE.

Dr. John R. Park is no more. That tidings will carry with it more sadness than any similar message that has sone forth for many a long day past. Where is there a hamlet in Utah that does not number some one who has in past years been guided to the fount of knowledge by that muster teacher, and imbibed from the cup of learning his hand held out? Dear old doctor! as one of that numerous army whose early steps were guided by your vigitant care, I desire to offer my tribute of gratitude and affection to your memory.

Dr. Park passed almost a quarter of a century of his life at the head of the University. Sad it is to think that almost on the day when that institution home, to realize at last what to Dr. Park and his co-workers of the old days "while there's life there's hope" was conspicuous in the case of Dr. Park, for while his physician said that he could the good he accomplished during that not live, the hopes and wrayers of a busy quarter of a century? The thou-multidde of devoted people hovered sands throughout our State who re-ceived from him the education which over his weary couch. But over that couch hovered another influence. It was the immutable summons of death. Dr. Park's day was fixed and his friends and admirers had to bow to the divine decree. The end came shortly after midnight Sunday morning, in the presence of those who were closest to his Dr. Park was born at Tiffin, Ohio, in and attended the public schools of that place. He was a student from his and was graduated from a of institutions, among them be number ing the Ohio Wesleyan University in Delaware. He subsequently completed a course in medicine in New York but tracticing in his native town for a short time, he yielded to the master impulse of his nature and entered the school room as a teacher. In 1861 he Utah and settled in Draper, He began teaching school there, and awaksuch an ambition for education among the youth of that place that it still lives and will perhaps be transmit-ted from generation to generation for many years to come. In 1869 he was tendered the presidency of the Uni-versity of Deseret, which position he held for nearly 25 years. With paternal love he has shaped the des-tinles of hundreds of Utah's youth, and ing struggling ambition. In 1895 he re-ceived the nomination of State superin-tendent of public instruction at the f the Republican party and was He filled that position, as he did all others, with signal ability, of-tentimes working laboriously when he should have been in bed. lough he was never married, his was a strong paternal nature. Seven children were taken into his household and were raised in an atmosphere of tender affection. His adopted family consisted of, David R. Allen, professor in niversity, John Held and his sis-fortense, Rosa Zender Roylance, wife of Professor Roylance, of the University, and Louis and Eliza Gottlieb. The latter was drowned in City Creek about 14 years of age. His pupits umbered among the most promin dizens in the State of Utah and west. His life was well rounded and measured by the influence he ght upon the youth of Utah, and things that he accomplished, his a career that might well excite the envy of most men much more full of

Kingsbury, President of the University, is chairman of the committee of funeral arrangements. It is not known, exactly when the funeral will be held, but Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock is gave to them the places they hold in life, can best answer. All Dr. Park's University experience was dear to him, but I believe it was generally accepted by those closest to him, that no portion of his life as an educator, was more fondly looked back upon, than that during the late sixtles and the early seventies. The University was a struggling school in those days but its professors and its students alike seemed to thrive on adversity. Never have I witnessed anything like the zeal the love, and the perfect un-derstanding that used to exist between teacher and pupil in that school. I would dearly love to obtain one glimpse of the old roll book from which he used to call our names seated at his red desk in the west end of the upstairs room of the old Council House in those days. Many of the names it contained have been heard in high places since then: two United States Senators, several Apostles of the Church, a governor of a State, at least two high military officials, to say nothing of the crowds of men who lead in commercial and professional pursuits today—their names would be found on that old time record could it be resurrected. Those were the days of the Delta Phi and the Zeta Gamma debating societies, a senior and a junior or ganization in which the doctor took the greatest pride. The boys fairly wor-shiped him, even while they feared him, and a word of praise from him would set the veriest dullard in the school agiow. I love to think of the time when he opened a free library and reading room in the Council House, and turned over his vast accumulation of books without charge, the only condi-tion being that we boys of the Zeta Gamma should officiate, turn about, each evening, as librarians; the scrupulous care and devotion with which the boys accepted the trust, and the delightful evenings spent in handing down those literary treasures from the shelves, keeping up the fires, preserving order in the room, and replacing the works for the night, are among the most cherished memories of my old University days.

Lord, keep my memory green," one Dickens' characters used to pray; Dr. Park's will be kept green in the thousands of hearts that lovingly remember the devotion and care with which he toiled for them; the good that did will not be interred with He leaves behind him the most endur-ing of all heritages, the impress of his own sterling character, stamped upon the thousands of souls that took their inspiration in life from him.
