EDWARD BRAIN.

was taken up shortly before the noon recess, and a jury impaneled. The indictment alleges that Mr. Brain lived with Mary B. Brain and Anna Peters Brain as his wives, from Jan. 1, 886, to June 1, 1887.

Mrs. Anna Peters Brain was the first witness. Sne testified-I live in Salt Lake City; I have lived with my hus-1886; when I married him he had morthan one wife; I am now his only legal wife; four of his plural wives are now me alone for the last four years. To Mr. Clarke-I know he has not lived with any others, because he has been living with me; I do not know whether he recognizes Mary B. as his company.

The play is not a strong one, but its wife or not; I think he does not; I was married on Feb. 2, 1882; was also married last June; he was sent to the penitentiary in 1885, and remained there till March 5th.

Mrs. Mary B. Brain was next called, married in the fall of 1852; have three Mr. Brain owns the house where I live, and he supported me till August, 1887; he sent means every month, generally by his foreman; he sent the money in envelopes addressed to me as "Mrs. E. Brain;" since Jan. 1, 1886, I have had no conversation with him about a divorce; was married in Salt Lake City in 1852; I knew he had a lawful wife living, and they had agreed to separate: (the last This morning's Tribune contains the part of this answer was ordered stricken out); prior to his marriage to me I saw the agreement to separate, woman of questionable character, with whom Washington had been living for some time past. When within a few miles of the not say he would live with his youngpost, Collins allowed Washington to est wife. (The envelopes in which the ride ahead of him, and while in this defendant had sent the witness money were introduced in evidence.) Since January 1, 1885, I have been known as shot Washington through the head, January I, 1889, I have been about a shot Washington through the right car Mrs. Brain in the community; I do not know whether the defendant knew it or not; I have not written any notes any harm: I offered to take a divorce if he would give me property to pro-vide for me the rest of my life, and he got in his buggy and drove away; he hasn't been there since; I didn't know where my former husband was when I married Mr. Brain; I considered myself free from him; I know he was not Joseph Brain testified-Mrs. Mary Brain is my mother, and defendant is my father; during the past year and a gulity, as the prosecution were unable balf I have taken verbal messages to my mother; I went to him about her allowance of money, $20 per month; he ald that when he had it he would send it, and did so; he said he would not let her want for anything if he bad anything to give her; he always referred to her as my mother.

The case rested with this cvidence. Mr. Clarke in his opening address, said that in cohabitation, personal association was not essential; if a man recognized two women as his wives in the community, that was sufficient to constitute guilt, though he was never in the companyof but one In this case the defendant had acknowledged Mrs. Mary B. Brain as his wife by addressing envelopes to her as"Mrs. E Brain,"and sending her support. At the same time he was living with Mrs. Anna Brain; the supporting alone, Mr. Clarke did Tuesday, the 4th inst. Hirum F. Gartnot consider sufficient, but with the son, an attorney of Tacoma, will deaddressing her as Mrs. Brain, he thought that was abundant evidence. Mr. Moyle argued that the support and recognition were not sufficient; that personal association was absolutely necessary. He considered the absurdity too great that the mere sending of a letter addressed to Mrs. Brain, a polygamous wife, was sufficient to constitute a case of cohabitation, when the parties had neven spoken to or even seen each

Mr. Clarke closed by saying that if he had cohabited with one recognized another as a wife, though she was the plural one, and he had not been in her company at all, he was guity and should be convicted. The Court in the charge to the jury, said that to prove cohabitation with Mary B. Brain, whom the Court held was not the legal wife, it was necessary to show personal association. This had not been done, and the only vidence was that he had called her by his name. That was not sufficient to constitute consbitation with a polygamous wife, though it would with a lawful wife. With a polygamous wife there must be some associating to gether of the parties. In this case the vidence is insufficient to convict, and there is nothing left for the jury but to find a verdict of not guilty p jury did as instructed, and Mr.

Brain was discharged.

Experience with a Bear. Edward Bartlett, of North Ogden, had an interesting, though not at all desirable experience with a big grizzly bear at the head of the North Fork of Ogden River on the 15th ultimo. Mr. Bartlett was out with his four dogs rounding up his sheep, when he sudwas rapidly making towards him. He set the dogs on the animal and they went for him with a will. But the bear was after better prey than dogs, just then, and scattering the animais with one sweep of his enormous paws, bore down quickly upon the man. Bartlett nurriedly approached a quakingasp, and without stopping for prelimin aries commenced to ascend. The bear was close behind him and he saw Bruin grab at his feet. He felt the hold on his shoe, but fortunately the sole parted from the upper, and he succeeded in escaping from his cruel pursuer. But Bartlett was so frightened that he went into a state of un-consciousness. He had fully expected to find himself in the grasp of the bear before reaching the tree, and was not a little surprised to find that his body was still all there when he came

The bear had receded some distance when Mr. Bartlett came down from his retreat. He started for the camp at a rather rapid pace. On the way he fell down several times and also sprained his ankle. He is thankful for his deliverance, and is not particularly anxlous to meet another bear, for a few days, at least.—Oqden Herald, Oct. 2.

The Book of Jasher.

There are a number of books extant claiming the sacred and ancient character accorded to those of the Bible. Among these is the so-called Apocryphal New Testament, a great portion of which is unauthentic and useless. The Book of Jasher is, however, a work of which different editions have been published during the present century, and appears to have ground for claiming to be the record referred o in Joshua x, 13, and 2 Samuel i, 18 There are portions of the text that suggest the work of some interpolating and mutilating hand, but much of the contents of the book is of a character to support the proposition that it is the work missing from, but referred to, in the Old Testament.

Parry & Co. have issued an edition of this curious record, reproduced from a copy which was translated evidently with care and accuracy from a standard edition in the Hebrew. Granted Additional Time. In the case of Miles L. Williams, of Brighton, convicted of unlawful cohabitation, this afternoon, Mr. Watrous asked that the defendant be given fifteen days longer before senteace, as he was a poor man and had sickness in Mr. Peters objected, as the defendant intended to promise to obey the law and sentence might as well be pronounced to-day as fifteen days Judge Zine granted further time to Mr. Williams, who will be sentenced on Tuesday, October 11th.

Sullivan had thrown off the belt, stopping the carriage, but being longer at the work than was expected, he suddenly. to his utter dismay, found that the chain began to move. As it started away over the rollers it caught the foot of the unfortunate man underneath and crushed it utterly, while it hurried him toward the mill. He yelled to the men to stop, but ne was not heard, and in a twinking his body was thrown or the floor of the mill, having comthrough an aperture but eight inchesquare. He was picked up insensible bruised and bleeding, but, strange to say, so far from being dead, his crushed ankie was his most serious in He had thrown his arm straight above him over his bead, an passed through the little aperture with only a few slight cuts and bruises. He was removed to the Fannie Paddock Memorial Hospital.

On the 27th of September last the Boston Herald contained the follow is the table giving the number and ing statement in relation to the Lick observatory of California: "The firm of Messrs. Alvan Clark & Sons, of Cambridge, the world famous telescope manufacturers, received from Europe last Saturday a lens, in the rough, for the telescope which the firm is making for the Lick observatory in California. The lense is one of the largest, if not the largest, ever imported into this country, and it cost, in its present condition, about $4,000. It will probably take two years to finish, and, when it is completed and mounted, it will be the most powerful glass in the world. The order for this telescope was received nearly two years ago, and the glass was almost ready for mounting when the late Alvan Clark, who was at work on i one day, broke it by accident, delaying the custom house free of duty, as it is to be used for scientific purposes.' This will undoubtedly prove a great disappointment to all interested in astronomical pursuits as this telescope is designed to be by far the most powerful yet constructed and it was estimated that when completed and dealy became aware that a big bear trained upon the moon it would bring that satelite for purposes of observation practically willing 240 miles of the observer. This result it seems is now definitely postponed for at least two
