

FRAGMENTS.

The circus draws upon us to-morrow.

GEORGE MARTIN was admitted to citizenship in the Third District Court to-day.

The grand jury is still busy investigating cases brought before it by the District Attorney.

Such warm days accompanied by such cold nights have rarely been seen in the history of anybody.

The Nationals and a club composed of railway employees are playing a game of baseball on Washington Square this afternoon.

In the Third District Court to-day, the motion for a new trial was overruled in the suit of the Charter Oak Life Insurance Co. vs. M. T. Gibson et al.

In the suit of the Freeman National Bank vs. George Bock, in the Third District Court to-day, the motion to dismiss was allowed; costs to be paid by the defendant.

A. JOHNSON, for a drunk, and another who was so far gone he couldn't talk, were arraigned in the Police Court this morning and pleaded not guilty. Their trial was to commence at 3 this afternoon.

The Home Coal Co. have removed their office to No. 40 Main Street, opposite Z. C. M. I., where their patrons will find them ready to furnish their own Weber, or any other coal in the market. See advt.

DR. MORROW, of New York, who has just made a trip to Alaska and the Coast, made a brief call at this office this morning, accompanied by Mr. Scott, of the W. U. Telegraph office. He took train for the coast.

A number of young men of the city called yesterday afternoon in a surveying expedition for Colorado, supposedly for the new railroad route coming west—the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy. The mechanical and motive force of the expedition consisted of two fine teams and two excellent equipments. The men were engaged only two or three hours before the starting.

LOCAL NEWS.

Programme.—The following is the Teachers' Institute programme for Oct. 2, 1886:

1. What is the best method of having pupils reproduce the instruction given them? D. R. Allen.
2. Song, Miss Clayton.
3. How do you prevent whispering in school? C. C. Crapo.
4. How shall we introduce physiology in the primary department? Miss Rachel Edwards.
5. General discussion, reading circles.

J. H. MORROW, Secretary.

New Road Cart.—Daneelson Brothers, of Richmond, the inventors of the new sulky plow called the "Horse Friend," have just built a light road cart on a new model. It is all iron and steel except the seat, dash board and bottom. The wheels are all iron—round rim so that they do not pick up the dirt like ordinary wheels. The spokes are thin iron rods, adjustable to tighten at the hub. It is a very nice, easy riding cart, is free from jolting and jerking, and can be sold much cheaper than similar imported vehicles.

Runaway.—There was a tolerably exciting runaway on First West Street yesterday evening, in which the buggy drawn by a maddened horse was badly demoralized. The same thing was duplicated shortly after eight o'clock this morning, the crazy beast dragging the wreck of a buggy down Main Street to First South, where he turned east and went a considerable distance before being stopped. These occurrences are altogether too common, and somebody will get fined some day. Let the horse be hitched every time.

Taken In.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the pugilists Slade and McDonald were arrested, the former by Deputy Smith and the latter by Deputy Vandercook, on a warrant issued out of Commissioner McKay's court, the complaint having been sworn to by D. W. Rench and charging the crime of prize fighting. They were taken before the Court and each given bonds in the sum of $500 each to await the action of the grand jury. John A. Fitchette and Mark McKinnis went on McDonald's bonds, Henry Ohle and Dr. Benedict looked the same thing for Slade. The pugilists do not seem to be greatly alarmed.

The Circus Procession.—The route adopted by the circus management for the parade to-morrow morning is as follows: Starting from the northwest corner of Washington Square and proceeding along First East Street to South Temple Street; thence west to West Temple Street; thence south to First South Street; thence east to Fourth South Street; thence east to the place of starting. The procession is to be a half hour, so the head of it will just about reach the show ground on its return as the tail is leaving it. There will be fourteen open cages, and other inside attractions displayed outside, the whole winding up with the inevitable calliope.

"The Cornucopia."—This is the title of a "universal scrap-book" for the family, compiled by W. W. Breece, and for sale by Jos. Hyrum Parry & Co., Salt Lake City. The volume contains a vast amount of valuable and practical information for all classes, and is well worth careful reading and study. Among its departments are: Hints for the Householder, Sketches for Parents and Children, Scientific Information, Anecdotes of Travel and Adventure, Medical Notes, Historical and Biographical Sketches, Humorous and Sentimental Stories, Valuable Recipes, Natural History Notes, etc. The book is of such a varied character as to adapt it to all ages, conditions and temperaments, supplying mental food alike to the scholar and the mere beginner.

Serious Accident.—A shocking accident occurred on South Temple Street about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Moron, an eleven-year-old son of Samuel H. Leaver, of the Seventeenth Ward, was up in a shade tree. He climbed out on a branch and slipped, falling to the ground head foremost. Unfortunately he struck on the left side of his head, breaking his skull. He was taken to his home and Dr. J. S. Richards was summoned, who attended to the injured lad, removing a piece of the skull from above the left ear. The boy remained unconscious for about fifteen hours after the accident occurred, when he aroused slightly. While the wound is a most dangerous one, strong hopes are entertained of his recovery. His condition at present is quite low.

THE BERGSTROM TRIAL.

District Attorney Dickson called to Account for Badgering Witnesses.

The Defendant Tried to Obey the Law.

The first case taken up in the Third District Court to-day was that of the United States vs. Charles M. Bergstrom, of the 11th Ward, in this city. The indictment accuses the defendant of unlawful cohabitation with three women, Julia Bergstrom, Minnie Ostborn, Bergstrom, and Annie Ohman Bergstrom, from Sept. 1, 1885, to July 31, 1886. The period is divided into five counts, to make the defendant liable for thirty months instead of six, as follows: Sept. 1, 1885, to Oct. 31, 1885; Oct. 1, 1885, to Nov. 30, 1885; Nov. 1, 1885, to Dec. 31, 1885; Jan. 1, 1886, to Feb. 28, 1886; and March 1, 1886, to July 31, 1886.

The names of the witnesses were called and all being present, the following jurors took their seats in the box: Albert Fletcher, J. P. Wilson, R. A. Thompson, Louis Bamberger, George Mallett, S. C. Underhill, James Winchester, M. D. Dorr, Geo. Morrison and Joseph Foster.

Louis Bamberger stated that he always found the defendant in the house of the defendant's wife, and that he saw her cohabitation with her before her trial came on, and was excused. H. Cannon was called to fill the vacancy, and after informing Mr. Dickson that he was neither a relative of the defendant nor a member of the "Mormon" Church, he was accepted, thus completing the panel.

Julia Bergstrom was the first witness called. She had been the defendant's wife; was divorced about 18 months ago, in the Probate Court, before then for several years she lived in the 11th Ward alone; Minnie Ostborn Bergstrom lived in a part of the same house at one time; Minnie was married to the defendant in 1885; she was the second wife; they both lived with defendant as his wives for a long time; they had not lived in the same house for several years; Minnie lived next door; witness had testified before the grand jury.

Mr. Rawlins objected to Mr. Dickson asking what witness had testified before the grand jury. Objection overruled.

Witness, continuing—Never testified that they lived in the same house; the third wife, Annie Ohman Bergstrom, lived in another house on the same lot; she was married to the defendant six years ago, and had two children, the youngest about a year old; Minnie's youngest was married or four years old; it was not born in the same house where witness lived; defendant had not lived with witness for about six years; he did not recognize or speak to her as his wife during that period.

Cross-examined by Mr. Rawlins—Mr. Johnson was the attorney who obtained the divorce, on the ground of desertion. The defendant had lived with Annie for four or five years past. Witness and Minnie lived on witness' property; defendant did not live with Minnie, nor had witness seen him out with her.

To Mr. Dickson—The defendant lived with Minnie for a short time after he married Annie; did not know how long they all lived on the same lot until witness was divorced, but in separate houses.

Minnie Ostborn Bergstrom was called. She was married to defendant over 16 years ago; went to live in the same house with defendant's first wife; they had separate rooms; when the defendant's first wife died, the defendant and Minnie passed defendant told witness he was only going to live with one wife, because of the law; witness had lived in the next house to Julia at that time; the defendant had not visited her for three or four years; her youngest child was over three years old; it was her husband's child; her children bore the defendant's name.

Mr. Rawlins, for the defense, objected to this testimony. Objection overruled.

Witness, continuing—Julia was her eldest child; she was about 16; last saw her this morning; at home; she had lived at home. (Mr. Dickson here asked for subpoenas for witnesses' three eldest children, whom Mr. Dyer and Deputy Sprague went to look up. Witness provided for the self; defendant provided for the children; Mrs. Julia Bergstrom owned the place where they lived; defendant came to see the children when they were sick.

Mr. Rawlins interposed and asked Mr. Dickson to let the witness in the witness stand to see the children; he refused to answer to the question.

Witness, to Mr. Dickson—Did not know when the defendant came to see her; there was a few days ago, to see his boy, who was sick with the typhoid fever; this was last week; witness saw him coming out on several occasions; the boy had been sick a month; witness and defendant did not recognize each other as husband and wife.

Mr. Sheeks objected to Mr. Dickson misrepresenting the testimony which the witness had given, and asked the court to protect the witness.

This raised Mr. Dickson's ire, and in his denial of any misrepresentation he contented himself with the conduct of the witness.

Mr. Rawlins reviewed the testimony, claiming that the method employed by Mr. Dickson was evidently intended to entrap the witness, whom he had badgered and abused without cause, and from whom he light leave a lesson to the jury.

The Court overruled the objection. The defense then objected to the testimony as immaterial. Objection overruled.

Witness, to Mr. Dickson—Defendant had not lived with her for about three years; did not know definitely how long it was; he had been in the house within four years; did not remember last when they separated. It was before the child was born; the defendant spoke to her of the separation less than a year before the trial; the child; she had not sustained the relation of wife since.

was after the passage of the Edmund's bill; it was because of the law that he lived with her alone.

Commissioner Wm. McKay was sworn as a witness. He testified that the defendant had been held to await the action of the grand jury; these statements were to the effect that he had not lived with his first wife for five or six years, but had lived most of the time with either the second or the third, and very little of the time with the other.

Mr. Dickson announced that the prosecution rested their case. The defense offered in evidence a decree of divorce between the defendant and his first wife, May 18th, 1885. This closed the case, and Mr. Dickson made the opening address to the jury.

Mr. Rawlins followed for the defense, showing that there had not been one word of testimony indicating that the defendant had lived with more than one wife during the period covered by the indictment. The speaker, after vividly portraying the inhumanity and barbarism of a rule which inhibited a man from providing for his children, or even visiting one of them when ill (the case of the life hung in the balance under an attack of a terrible fever, exclaimed: "Yet such is the sacred and sacred duty extended by the District Attorney who represents the United States Government, that he has dared to appeal to the jury to give the defendant justice by returning a verdict of guilty to him."

Mr. Dickson had not concluded his closing address to the jury when we went to press.

Receiver Released.—In the Third District Court to-day, an order was made approving the accounts of Receiver W. H. Bancroft, of the D. & N. W. to July 29th, and discharging Mr. Bancroft from any further obligations relative thereto. The receiver's term is thus ended, and Mr. Bancroft's bonds exonerated.

Again Heard From.—The following card dated Parowan, Sept. 10, 1886, came to hand this morning:

Editor Deseret News: I have reached here at last. Left Cove Creek yesterday morning and had a pretty good road to Beaver. I proceeded to Parowan. I was told that the road would be good, but it is a very bad one, and I had a hard time getting to Buckhorn Springs. It was some better to Paragonah and Parowan, but had enough of the way. Yours respectfully, L. P. LACK.

For Blasted Cattle.—The following receipt has been handed in for publication:

Take one level teaspoonful of baking soda, one large tablespoonful of salt, and one pint of warm water. Put this into a large bottle (like a beer bottle) and having the cow tied up head rather high, pour it down her throat. Take a stick about two feet long, and round like a broom handle, with a stout string on each side, and placing it across ways in her mouth like a gag, tie it securely around her horns. It is said that after a short time, in cases of bloated cows, the gas will be belched up, and the cow will also have the ground dug away so that the hind feet are lower than the front ones. I have treated four cases of bloated cows in this manner, relieving them in a few minutes, and feel perfectly safe with this remedy. I think that some oil of peppermint added might be as beneficial and comfortable for cows as for human beings in cases of colic. G. W. C.

Home Again.—Our old-time townsman James T. Woods arrived by the train last night, having filled a mission to England. Brother Woods is somewhat journey-worn and fatigued by a seventeen days' sojourn in New York during the "Commissioner's Stop" sensation, which he was an eye-witness and considerable of an ear witness.

He is directly interested in the welfare of those who were so maliciously detained and who suffered in being imprisoned and banished to Ward's Island. He witnessed some of the outrageous, unmanly and abusive examination made on the unsuspecting passengers of the Wyoming, whose misfortune it was to be poor.

Brother Woods left this city May 13, 1885, for England, having been summoned here by proper authority. He left Woodruff, his home in Arizans, March, 1885, where he has spent nine years on a mission, being one of the pioneers to that land in 1876.

The Teachers' Institute.—The regular meeting of the Salt Lake County teachers was held in the Fourteenth Ward Assembly Hall, September 18, 1886, Superintendent Wm. M. Stewart presiding.

After prayer by D. R. Allen, Professor Stephens organized the association into a class and gave an introductory lesson in vocal music.

The superintendent called the attention of the teachers to the necessity of introducing at once into the schools, the study of physiology. He spoke of the great responsibility of the teacher. Live, progressive teachers, not school keepers, were wanted. He cautioned teachers not to forget the true aim of education; while a practical, or business, course is a very important object, there is still something higher. The teacher must instill in the mind of the pupil a love of truth, honesty and integrity.

"How to introduce and use supplementary reading was discussed by Prof. C. P. Wilson. He explained the plan, which is as yet to be adopted, for supplying the schools with suitable matter for supplementary reading to be published at home.

The discussion of reading circles was postponed until next week. Meeting adjourned for two weeks. Benediction was pronounced by A. S. Sedda. C. M. Sorenson, Secretary.

Trip Through Bear Lake Valley. I had quite a pleasant trip on my bicycle through the different settlements of Bear Lake Valley, from Montpelier over to Park, thence through B. C. Thompson, St. Charles, Fish Haven and Garden City to Lake Town, a distance of about 12 miles, returned by way of Meadowville; found the roads there very rough. I found quite a change in the place. There was last fall. Quite a number of the people had moved out on to the new townships, just as the old houses have recently been built. The new location is much healthier place, being on an elevation. Found a splendid smooth road from Garden City, just the thing for a bicycle. The farmers were all hauling and threshing their grain, of which they have very good crops this year.
