Bolt of Lightning Strikes Party Of Travelers in Zion's Canyon.

ONE IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

Two Shocks Complete Fatal Work i Wilds of Mountains 65 Miles From St. George.

Particulars of a fatal thunderstorm. in Zion canyon, about 65 miles from St. George, are given in a recent is ue of the St. George News. Two persons, Lionel Stout and Thornton Hepworth, Jr., were killed outright and Miss Clarinda Langston was seriously injured. Another young lady pres ent at the time, Miss Eliza Stout, escaped uninjured. Following is the account of the fatality, as furnished to the St. George paper by a special correspondent: "Lionel Stout and I were going from the sawmill over to the top of the land-ing of the steel cable to blast off a rocky point which interfered with the running of the cable (I might her state that the cable is stretched from state that the cable is stretched from the top of a precipice to the bottom of Zion canyon, about 3,000 feet be-low. The cable is used for letting lumber down. Mr. Stout was accom-panied by Misses Eliza Stout and Clarinda Langston and Thornton H worth, Jr., all riding in one wagon, wife and I followed on another wag Hep

As our team was much heavier loade and as I stopped to cut a brake lever we were some 20 or 30 minutes be-hind in reaching the cable landing.

LIGHTNING STRIKES.

'A few hundred yards before reach

"A few hundred yards before reach-ing the landing we were met by Miss Stout who was coming for our assist-ance. Miss Stout stated that the other three were dead, having been struck with lightning. Hurrying on as fast as possible, we met Miss Langston about 50 yeards from the scene of accident. She was in a scrious state of delirium, wandering about not knowing where wandering about, not knowing where the was going. After giving her orief attention and leaving her in care of Miss Stout, we ran to see what might be done for the boys. Gre of arise stout, we take to boys. Gne glance at Mr. Hepworth told us that al' mortal assistance would be in vain. He was lying on his back, stretched out; his face was very dark. Appar-ently he had been knocked backward and had made no strurgle. Mr. Stout was crouched down in somewhat of a sitting position with his back to-ward us, and his head dropped on his breast; only the back of his neck ex-posed to our view. It being of a nat-ural color. I thought there was a ral color, I thought there was chance of life, so I stooped, rushed under the cable, shouted to him, seiz-ed him by the hand and dragged him from under the cable. Seeing there was no prospect of life I dropped him and hurried from danger.

THE SECOND BOLT.

Knowing that the trail down the mountain was almost impassable. I thought it best to have the bodies sent down the cable. After freeing their horses, which were rearing and tearing with fright, we started back for the mill. On our way I learned for the mill. On our way I learned from the girl that the boys, with Miss Langston between them, were stand-ing at the edge of the precipic di-rectly under the wire cable, learning over a plank and viewing the scenery in Zion, Mr. Hepworth was standing straight and the other two were lean-lousness for a considerable time. R. Cardner was knocked down while orking in the field, and the barn of preceded his employment as caretaker of the Johnstone home last December. The family was making ready to go to Europe when he was engaged to do some houseclearing about the premises. He secured the favorable attention of Miss Johnstone and as he was able to give good character references she em-ployed him tho act as caretaker of the Johnstone home during the family's ab-sence.

sence. About that time he secured lodgings at a boarding house at 4373 Sheridan boulevard and there met Miss Sadle Farnum, an attractive young orphan woman 22 years old. She was ill and Warner assisted her in various ways,de-voting some of the proceeds realized from the sale of goods stolen from the Johnstone home to buying dainties for her.

Later he was taken ill and Miss Far-

Later he was taken ill and Miss Far-num administered to his wants. And in that way a close friendship was form-ed between the two. In the meantime Warner continued his daily pilfering of the Johnstone home, selfing to Miss Farnum many trinkeds and teiling her that they were keepsakes from his Tennessee home, which he was compelled to dispose of to meet his living expenses. Then, in the latter part of May, when he learned that the Johnstones would arrive home June 1, he quietly packed his few telongings and went to St. Paul.

Mrs. Cook is the girl wife who of late has been having all kinds of domestic trouble. Her husband ac-cused her of extreme cruelty and sued for divorce. While the case was pend-ing her 4-months-old baby was taken from her and placed in the orphan's home. She was later taken by juvenile court officers from a resort on Comhome. She was later taken by juvenic court officers from a resort on Com-mercial street. The husband secured a divorce and the custody of the child, and Gladys was charged with vagrancy, an attempt being made to return her to the Industrial school. This punish-ment she escapes by going to her par-ents, who live on a ranch.

A fair and ingenious young girl, with a weak brother and a stalwart and wholesome lover, assembled at Monte Carlo, greet the reader on opening this clevers novel. The man is strong and sensible, the woman sweet and winsome, and the tale is told in a charming manner that bespeaks a fu-ture for this talented writer. The de-lineations of character are marvelously strong, and so realistic that one feels Constant of the second last night. "The temptation was too much for me and I helped myself to such things a₃ I could readily dispose of. "The Minneupolls newspapers stated that I hid taken goods valued at $6,000. The total value of the goods was not more than $600 and I did not realize more than $75 from selling and pawn-ing it anesations of character are marvelously strong, and so realistic that one feels as though the actors on the stage were real, and one's own loved friends. The manilness of Heimer, and the simple frankness of Virginia, are ad-mirable.
