

SPECIAL BUSINESS NOTICES.

SEE estray notices, Gardner's Mill, West Jordan, and Nephi, Utah County.

A GENUINE closing out sale of clothing is announced by Siegel Brothers. See advertisement. These merchants intend for the future to devote their attention to the wool and hide business, and therefore wish to dispose of their large stock of clothing, which they intend to clear off by the first of the New Year. They offer special inducements to country traders.

Entirely Satisfactory.
The Charter Oak is as near perfect as we ever expect to find a stove. Entirely satisfactory. In short, a perfect success as a first-class cooking stove. d1t

Gifts Double Extracts, are rich and finest. d29

HARD TO BEAT.

We yesterday dropped into Dunford's, the Practical Hatter and Boot Fitter, and there feasted our eyes on the beautiful lines of Hats and Caps, Boots and Shoes, received for the Fall trade.

Before buying your Boots and shoes, Hats and Caps, Gents' clothes and Ladies' Furs, we advise you, if you want to save money and want fresh and stylish goods, to call on DUNFORD.

In the First Rank.

The just reputation of Dr. Price's Cough Perfumes place them in the first rank of the very best handkerchief extracts that have ever been made. Their odor is truly rich, fresh and flowery. Dr. Price has spent much time and study in perfecting these perfumes.

Help of We Perfection.
This is what neglected teeth will say if they could remove stains from their owners; and mark this, the teeth cannot perish or become black or yellow if the SOZODONT is used daily. d2w

MOTHERS have no excuse for the accumulation of dandruff on the heads of their children while they have the ability and means to apply it. Indeed, if all families were supplied with that antiseptic and disinfectant agent there would be very few diseased children, and certainly none afflicted with the eruptive diseases that are so common where Glenn's Sulphur Soap is used.

Glenn's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c. dead w

FITTED CURED.
Mrs. Mary Ann Walker, adjoining Sugar House Ward, begs to return her most sincere thanks to Dr. E. L. Plant for the cure effected upon her of fits. She has had no attack for upwards of twelve months, although she had been subject to them from childhood. I have also to thank you for the cure of worms effected upon my daughter, 10 years old. She is entirely well now. Again thanking you.

M. A. WALKER.
SALT LAKE CITY.
d29 sw tf Sept. 15, 1878.

Glenn's Cream Yeast, warranted to please.

HIP OR KNEE RUBBER BOOTS AT 2 C. M. I. FOR $4.50 TO $5.00 PER PAIR.
H. S. ELDREDGE, SUP'T.

FURNISHED or Unfurnished rooms to rent, single or in suit, in the Wasatch Building. Terms moderate. Apply to N. Groesbeck & Son, at their office, on the premises. d1t

FOR A FEW DAYS Z. C. M. I. OFFERS SPECIAL BARGAINS IN NEW LINES OF CARPETS, MATTINGS, RUGS, LINOLEUM, AND ALL GRADES OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS. NOW IS THE TIME TO REFURNISH AT A SMALL COST. WE ALSO CALL SPECIAL ATTENTION TO OUR NEW ASSORTMENT OF WALL PAPERS, AND CEILING AND FRESCO DECORATIONS.

H. S. ELDREDGE, SUP'T.

Glenn's Laundry Castle Soap, surpasses all others.

For if you wish to travel by the shortest, quickest, and oldest boat, and safest route between Omaha and Chicago, you must buy your tickets via the Chicago and North-Western Railway. Its fares are as low as the lowest. Pullman Palace Hotel Dining and Sleeping Cars are run on its through express trains. The celebrated Pullman Hotel Cars are run by this line alone, between Omaha and Chicago. All coupon ticket agents sell tickets via this route. Buy by no other route.

WANTED by an aged person of long experience in caring for and driving horses, a situation to take care of a team and carriage, or any other employment in that line, at moderate remuneration. Apply at this office.

Glenn's Laundry Castle Soap, does more washing than any other soap; a trial is a convincing proof.

EVENING NEWS.

Saturday, October 20, 1877.

PRICE OF GOLD.
Corrected daily by Denver National Bank
SALT LAKE CITY, October 2, 1877.
Buying at $120; Selling at $123.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Thermometer 60 degrees F. in the shade at 1 p.m. to-day. Clear.

Religious Services.—Religious services at the Tabernacle to-morrow afternoon, commencing at two o'clock, and at the several meeting houses in the wards in the evening.

Going North.—Miss Eliza R. Snow leaves for Cache Valley on Monday, for the purpose of visiting the Ladies' Relief and other Societies of that northern locality.

Orders Lost.—Any person who has found an order on the General Tithing Store for $30 and one on Mr. C. R. Savage for $10, will please leave them at this office for the owner.

Bailed.—Young Ash, (not Nash) of Logan, recently committed to jail, to await the action of the grand jury, on a charge against him of larceny, has been released on bail.

Recovered.—Young Penman, of Bountiful, who disappeared from his home a short time ago and was found about a week afterwards, in an exhausted, half-dead condition, from exposure and want of food, has recovered.

From Bear River.—Mr. S. W. Richards is in town, from the Bear River country, where he has been ranching during the past summer. He says it is unsurpassed as a grazing country, and is excellently adapted for the raising of oats, barley and various kinds of vegetables, especially roots.

Logan Temple.—Brother T. O. Angel, Jr., returned from Cache last evening. We learn from him that the building of the northern extension of the Logan Temple is nearly completed. If the weather holds fine a few weeks longer the foundation of the main structure will be above the ground all around. It takes an immense quantity of rock to lay it up, being 6 feet thick at the base, tapering to a thickness of 4 feet at the top.

District Court.—Friday, Oct. 19th. The People, vs. Marshall Bailey, robbery; jury trial; verdict of guilty. The defendant was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, at hard labor.

Saturday, Oct. 20th. J. F. Woodman vs. Wells, Fargo & Co.; jury trial in progress.

The People, vs. John H. Newby, larceny; jury trial; verdict of guilty. The prisoner was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Narrow Escape.—Last night Heber Cutler was driving Cutler Brothers' delivery wagon in the vicinity of the railroad depot. The horse was frightened by the noise of a moving train and backed towards it. The vehicle collided with the end car and was overturned and damaged. Mr. M. Chadd, who was riding in the wagon, jumped out in time to save himself from injury. The driver also escaped unhurt.

A Pigeon Pair.—We find the following birth notice in last evening's Ogden Junction:

Born.—In Ogden, at 12.45 a.m., October 19, to Mary Ann, wife of Thomas Wallace, Esq., a son. At 12.50, same date, same place same person, a daughter.

We congratulate friend Wallace and his wife on this bountiful gift of Providence, and hope they will be able to rear their son and daughter to honorable maturity.

Influence of Sabbath Schools.—"Seamster," writing from Ogden in relation to the Sunday-school Jubilee in that city, says:

"Our own Sunday schools' are institutions which cannot be too highly appreciated. They are conducted by men of God and women of God, whose actions and instructions to the children are inspired by the spirit of God. If the wise men of this generation, who think they can see in the dissolution of the mortal remains of Priest Brigham Young the disintegration and dissolution of the 'Mormon' church, could witness some of these reunions at a public concert, they would very probably change their views on the subject. They would see that the twigs are already bent; that the trees are already in the right direction; that they are being trained up in the way they should go. I believe they would see in these youths and maidens the members of a mighty empire that will ultimately absorb the kingdoms and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heavens, and through their instrumentality these kingdoms will be brought into subjection to the government of the kingdom of God."

Utah Silk.—Frequent testimonials have been received from abroad indicating that Utah silk is unexcelled by any raised elsewhere on this continent. Some time since a few samples were sent by Z. C. M. I. to the Nonotuck Silk Company, of Florence, Mass. The specimens were finished and tested, and the following occurs in a letter from the Company named above:

"We found the silk of good quality and strength and fairly reeled, much better than any samples of American silk we have ever tested."

Such unmistakable evidences of the superior quality of the Utah silk product should not only stimulate sentimentality in this Territory to maintain and increase their efforts in that branch of industry, but should encourage others to engage in it who have not yet done so.

The Nonotuck Company is one of the largest and most reliable houses in the silk line in America.

Horrible Accident.—Last evening, while Mrs. Alonzo Cutler, of Springville, Utah County, who had just arrived from the northern part of the Territory, was standing near the platform of the Utah Northern Railroad. The switch engine of the Utah Central Railroad struck her, knocked her down and the wheels passed over her legs. Both limbs were so mutilated as to necessitate amputation below the knees, besides other injuries about the body, rendering her recovery almost hopeless. She received every attention possible, and late last night a special engine left this City for Springville and conveyed her husband from the latter place to Ogden.

Since the foregoing was in type we learn from Marshall M. Brown, of Ogden, just in from that city, that the horrible incident was purely accidental. The switch engines of the Utah Northern and Utah Central roads were both running up and down the lines at the time, and the unfortunate lady was watching the first named engine, while her back was turned toward that of the Utah Central, the cow-catcher beam of which struck her back, and as she fell her head struck the platform, cutting a gash above the right eye. Her feet projected over the rail to the inside of the track, the wheels passing over both ankles. The amputations were performed by Doctors Condon and Carnahan, assisted by Dr. E. G. Williams and other gentlemen. At four o'clock this morning the patient appeared easy and was doing as well as could be expected. The accident occurred at 4.20 last evening. Mrs. Cutler's husband arrived at Ogden, from Springville, at 2 a.m. to-day. Mrs. Cutler was on her way home from a visit to her relatives at Wellsville.

Mrs. John Frost, Mrs. Wm. Pool and Mrs. Ann Odell, staid with her all night, and Dr. Condon remained in an adjoining room within call.

It appears that no one is to blame for the lamentable occurrence. The engineer blew the whistle, to warn her, and tried to stop the engine before reaching the lady, but his efforts were unavailing.

Lead.—The lead market is very flat just now, there being scarcely any buyers at very low figures. The consumption of the article in various manufactured forms in this Territory is very large. Before it reaches the consumer in those shapes, however, it has to be sent two or three thousand miles from Utah and brought back again, involving not only a large expenditure for the processes of manufacture abroad but also for an exceedingly high railroad tariff. A judicious outlay of capital here could transform the native lead into white lead, red lead, shot, pewter and a wide variety of other articles, of constant consumption. Those branches of manufacture are comparatively simple, and, under the circumstances, would surely prove remunerative. Who will start in first? Don't all speak at once.

Such an enterprise would help all classes. It would keep a large amount of means in the Territory now drained out of it; it would help the miners, by creating a more profitable market for their products, and would cheapen to the general public the article of lead in its manufactured forms.

Broke Her Arm.—Yesterday Mrs. Horne, resident of the 18th Ward, accidentally fell from a chair and broke her left arm, a short distance above the wrist. The limb was set by Dr. Richards.

About the Bulgarians.

The Bulgarians strike me as a people who sit down but little. Such a piece of furniture as a chair is almost unknown among them. The beds in some of the cottages are made of baked earth, arranged in the form of a shelf near a huge window, through which cooling breezes blow; but in winter there is nothing to do but to retreat to a kind of cellar. It is to be hoped that one result of the advance of the civilization of the people in this section. They have many virtues but no vices. The women are industrious beyond praise. If they walk from one village to another they twirl their distaffs all the way, and when their household duties are over and they are talking by the fountains or in the little groves, they are all busily knitting. They are avaricious here, and that which seems most to annoy them is, that they should be asked to yield up some part of their store, although, let it be understood, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend the value of money, and look stupidly at it when it is put into their hands. They have never made any effort to assemble stores for the Russians, to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy. Sometimes, in despair, one feels like comparing them to the water buffaloes. Those noble animals, when they are asked to aid them in any way other than by showing them the roads and warning them of the approach of an enemy, they are always well paid for everything that is taken. Some of them do not comprehend