EDITORIAL NOTES.

Such has been the recent damage to the British crops that the current wheat deficiency in the United Kingdom is estimated at 125,000,000 bushels.

The course of a jury in Greensboro, N. C., who in their verdict secured a lawyer for abusing a witness, is highly commendable. The attorney went so far as to call the witness an old lady—a liar. The court was not rebuked by the jury. A judge who will permit a lawyer to insult and assault a witness in open court is a participant in crime, and deserving of as much contempt as the despicable principal in the offense.

The American Register, recently started at Washington, D. C., is an able exponent of the true principles of Democracy. It is published weekly, in the form of the Nation, with sixteen pages, and is full of good, solid readable articles. It takes a dignified position, and is yet vigorous, forcible and emphatic. The Register, if it continues like its opening numbers, will prove a doughty champion of the Democratic cause at the seat of Government, and its influence will be felt throughout the country.

The Scientific American advances the following important information to those who desire to get rid of stumps on their farm: "In the autumn or early winter bore a hole one or two inches in diameter, according to the girth of the stump, and about eighteen inches deep. Put into it one or two ounces of saltpetre, fill the hole with water and plug it close. In the ensuing spring take out the plug and pour in about a gill of kerosene oil and ignite it. The stump will smoulder away without blazing to the very extremity of the roots, leaving nothing but ashes."

The New York Court of Appeals decided lately in case of prosecution for perjury wherein the defendant signed an affidavit without taking an oath, that something must be present to distinguish between the oath and the bare assertion. An act must be done and clothed in such form as to characterize and evidence it. The mere delivery of the written words of an affidavit signed by the accused to the officer for his certificate does not constitute an oath taken, and is not the sufficient equivalent of an express and present declaration that the affiant swears to the truth of the instrument.

In an action against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Co., for damages on the ground of negligence, recently decided by the United States Circuit Court at Kansas City, Mo., Judge McCorty dismissed the action, and in the opinion said: "The railroad company was negligent, but that does not necessarily authorize a verdict for the plaintiff. If there was mutual fault, if both plaintiff and defendant were negligent, then, unless the defendant acted wantonly, there can be no recovery. Both parties were bound to exercise such care as, under ordinary circumstances, would avoid danger; such care as men of common prudence would ordinarily use under the circumstances. The degree of care depends upon the danger."

MORE FALSE PROPHETS.

"And false prophets shall arise and shall deceive many," so said the Savior in regard to the time just preceding "the end." One of the subjects most prolific of false predictions is that great event called the end of the world. Repeated and signal failures do not deter other attempts to fix the date of the great consummation nor prevent the credulous from believing the errors.

A Cincinnati prognosticator has calculated the winding up of the gospel age to occur on the 12th of the present month, when the earth is to come into collision with a comet. Another calculator, making his reckonings in sunny Italy, puts it off three days later than the date of the Porcupine prophet. His prediction is said to be five hundred years old. Its age, however, is very doubtful, and errors are none the better for being antique.

The Italian is quite explicit. According to his prophecy the course of destruction will continue for fifteen days. On the first day the sea will overflow its boundaries, and on the second day will penetrate even to the center of the earth. On the third day all river creatures, and on the fourth day all sea creatures will perish. On the fifth day the birds will die; on the sixth the houses will fall in; on the seventh the rocks will be cleft; on the eighth there will be a great earthquake; on the ninth, all the mountains will fall in; on the tenth, all men will become dumb; on the eleventh, the graves will be opened; on the twelfth, it will rain stars; on the thirteenth, all men will die; on the fourteenth, heaven and earth will be burned; and at last, on the fifteenth, will follow the resurrection and the day of judgment.

According to this, none of us will see another Christmas on this earth. The present month is to be our last. Little time is left for preparation. The destructions foretold are to follow each other in wonderfully rapid succession. But these predictions do not tally with scriptural prophecies, and we feel more inclined to believe the latter than the former. These mathematical seers derive their ideas of the end primarily from the sacred scriptures. Yet they become so engrossed in the notions drawn from their figurings and imaginations, that they pass by the plain and pointed declarations of the inspired writers concerning the things which must be done before the end cometh.

The Latter-day Saints look forward to the great change which is to take place in sublimity, and with watchful interest the fulfillment of the sayings of the Savior and the prophets concerning the last dispensation. They also have a sure word of prophecy concerning these things in the revelations of God given in the present age. And from these they learn that it is vain for man to endeavor by reckonings and guesses, by study and star-gazing, by Biblical interpretations and the mutterings of necromancy, to penetrate into that which God has withheld from human view and to fix the day and the hour which the Eternal has kept within His own bosom.

The end approaches. But there is a work to be done in the earth before that mighty event, which will take some time yet, even in this fast age of steam and electric facilities, to accomplish as the preliminary to the grand transition, when the kingdoms of this world shall pass away and the whole earth be subdued unto Him whose right it is to reign.

WHY HE WAS MADE A PREACHER.

THE electric Cheap John, of the Brooklyn Tabernacle, occasionally tells a truth, but his peculiar jerky fashion, and in his recent discourse got off the following in relation to the way in which preachers of religion in modern times are called to the ministry:

"Sometimes the real trouble begins in the home circle as to which is the real child who ought to be consecrated to the ministry. John, a bright boy, sharp at a bargain; he is made a merchant. George has remarkable cerebral development; make him a lawyer. Henry has a large growth of chest and a taste for military things; send him to West Point. Willis is fond of sketching ships; make him a shipbuilder. But Aleck, who is not very well, who has not a very good digestion, who since the last melancholy time has had his spleen enlarged; he has a morbid way of looking at things. He will sit for an hour looking at one figure in his carpet. His manners and language are so mild and soft, so gentle, so effeminate, so heavenly, and he cries so easy. Make him a minister! [Great laughter.]"

Talmage when repeating this to draw the laughter of the worshippers at the Brooklyn shrine must surely have been relating a little of his own experience. For "Aleck" read De Witt, and the whole matter is clear. Perhaps, after all, the poor creature, who has been described by a non-admirer as "like a lobster with the delirium tremens," is more to be pitied than blamed and despised.

Railroad Kings and Stocks.

NEW YORK, 5.—There is a considerable stir in exchange, most of the active stocks. The foreign demand for a continuation of the first class bonds are wanted here and abroad. It is thought that the next call for bonds will be for $5 a well as $6. Of the last call for two millions and nine and a half millions remain outstanding. An important traffic agreement, has been concluded between Huntington and Gould by which a large amount of business coming over the Southern Pacific will become tributary to the Texas Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Wabash lines. The alliance will have an important bearing upon securities of the Chesapeake and Ohio, Wabash, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific and Southern Railway. It is understood that the move for the change in the management of the Erie had its origin abroad. The impression prevails that the Gould and Vanderbilt interests will appear in the board at the approaching election. Jewett is soliciting proxies as Erie director, and said yesterday that an important move was impending. In Northwest preferred, which continues to effect investments of stocks.

Fearful Disaster in the Mississippi.

KEOKUK, 4.—At about 7 o'clock this evening, a terrible and continued whistling at the Keokuk and Hannibal bridge, followed by the ringing of the fire bells, drew hundreds of people to the levee to find a steamboat load of passengers had miraculously escaped from death. The lateral passenger packet War Eagle, in attempting to pass through the draw, was buffeted by eddies and cross currents, and was hurled against the bridge, breaking out one span and entailing a loss of $150,000 to the bridge. Statements appended give particulars of the disaster. Several lives are supposed to have been lost, but names could not be learned.

A Great City Following State.

CAPTAIN JERRY WOOD was in command with Hiram Beadle and W. M. Tibbles, pilots, both being in the pilot house, though it was Beadle's watch. I heard the alarm superannuated went back into the cabin to talk to some ladies with whom I was acquainted, when I heard the whistle blow for the bridge and heard the bells ring to check her headway. Knowing that it was customary to drop inside the Long River, I felt no uneasiness until I heard the alarm whistle blow twice, which meant to back her strongly. About that time Wm. Holmes, third clerk, came through the cabin, which was also deserted, there being only 10 or 12 ladies in the cabin at the time, the remainder being on the outside looking at the bridge. He threw up his hand and passed out of the bridge gateway. I paid no attention to it, knowing that he was alarmed early when passing through the drawbridge, but in a few moments he returned and threw up his hands and said, "She's gone this time." I ran out on the larboard gangway to the larboard gun, forward of the water shop, and saw that we were broadside to the bridge, and that the boat was backing strongly. I instantly ran into the cabin and threw up both hands to give the alarm. I caught hold of one lady and cried out to the rest to follow me, as the boat was going to strike the bridge. We all passed out of the after door on to the starboard guard, reaching the flat as the crash of the collision of the boat against the bridge came. I kept calling to the passengers, who seemed bewildered, to get out on to the hurricane deck. They were not slow to understand. I led the way and they followed, with several ladies clinging to me. As soon as the boat struck the bridge the span gave way, going with a crash, and I felt considerably relieved, knowing well that the chances for saving life would now be much better. I looked forward and saw that she was leaning on the west pier, her stern having cleared the east pier where the break in the bridge occurred, and saw the people climbing from the boat onto the bridge. I took one lady and the rest followed. I told them to come and we would all get onto the bridge. I ran forward on the larboard side down the steps abreast of the smoke stacks and assisted in passing the passengers out upon the bridge, until the boat swung off, one lady, however, refusing to go. Seeing that a greater part of the passengers had escaped and were safe the second clerk, Alex. Robinson, and myself, determined to stay with the boat. In a very short time she swung clear of the bridge and we went down on the lower deck to see if she was making water or not. Some one had been down in the hold and reported that she was making water very fast. I went up stairs and quieted the fears of the remaining ladies on the boat and all forward so that in case the boat went down we could get them out without much trouble. She then floated with the current and rounded off, with her head down the stream, and drifted to a point a few hundred yards below the elevator where, with the aid of one wheel and the assistance of parties who came in a shift and took a line ashore, she was made fast resting on the railroad track which is covered with water, the river on the outside being about fifteen feet deep. The dredge boat, W. D. Smith, came down and held her stern in until she was securely fastened. One wheel being entirely gone, I was afraid if she swung off she would topple over. The steamer Penguin, with Capt. Hutchinson aboard, arrived as soon as they could get up steam, and with a flat took off the baggage. I saw Clay Gillespie in a shift, and he assisted in getting bodies to shore. Dan Leach took a line ashore. Capt. Wood remained on the roof and all the officers, so far as known, stood bravely at their posts. Thomas Connors, first mate, was working manfully at the leak, and remained at his post until all danger was past. The deck crew got to terra firma as soon as they could. Capt. H. M. Hutchinson, the general manager of the St. Louis Packet Co., said it was impossible to estimate the amount of damage done.

Mysterious Murder.

OMAHA, 5.—Col. Watson B. Smith, clerk of the United States Circuit Court, was found dead at 2 o'clock this morning, lying outside his office door, where he had been shot by an unknown assassin. There is great public excitement and a mass meeting was called for this afternoon to express horror at the crime and take steps towards the arrest of the assassin. Col. Smith was a highly respected citizen and leaves an estimable family. He served in the war in a Michigan regiment, and has been clerk of the court for 14 years, has been chairman of the committee of citizens to enforce the Missouri liquor license law and very prominent in its aggressive work. Public opinion connects the two things.

Terrible Tripple Tragedy.

IOWA CITY, 5.—This city was thrown into a great excitement this morning by a terrible tripple tragedy. A. Steen, a prominent figure in police circles for several months, cut his wife's throat, chopped up his mother-in-law and killed himself by poison. Steen and wife are dead and the mother-in-law may recover. Jealousy, insanity and liquor are the causes.

FOREIGN.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, 4.—Dublin Castle is at its wit's end regarding the Ladies' Land League. Branches all over the country are suppressed, and yet law officers here can find no grounds on which to deal with the central executive, which met again this afternoon quite openly in the old office of the League.

Two traditional decisions were made to-day, reducing the rent rate in each case about 25 per cent. This being market day there was a large attendance of farmers, all of whom received the announcement of the decision with great delight. Lord Walford's tenantry having paid full rents, and promised not to present him with a petition, the report was recommended to-day and there were large musters.

The sub-Commission of the Land Court at Belfast has given judgment in the cases of fifteen tenants on the estate of Archdeacon Crawford, in all except one case reducing the rent. Thus, a rent of £122 reducing it to £89; another of £71 to £48; another of £89 to £52.

Alarm Drills.

DUBLIN, 5.—The military authorities have inaugurated a system of alarm drills to train the troops to fall rapidly into a defensive position in case of attack. This is a revival of the practice which prevailed during the repeal movement in 1848.

Berlin.

BERLIN, 5.—The Reichstag will open on the 17th inst. The prospects of coalition between the clericals and conservatives are growing daily.

$50,000 Fire.

ST. JOHNS, N.B., 5.—The planing mill of Christie & Co. and adjoining buildings were burned last night. Loss $50,000.

A Promise With a Provision.

LONDON, 5.—A curious plan is adopted in some parts of the west of Ireland, with a view to keeping the "no rent" manifesto before the tenants. It takes the form of a promissory note, which has been circulated among the farmers attending the fair. The note is a promise to pay rent on the day that Parnell, Davitt and other suspects are released. It is intended to be signed by both tenant and landlord.

Comments on Blaine.

The Standard commenting on the alleged protest of Blaine's against any annexation of Peruvin territory by Chile says: Considering the circumstances, it is curious that in South America it would be simply offered a premium for aggressive combination the right of the more powerful. So far, therefore, Blaine is not acted with a vigor which ought to commend itself to the world at large, but if he is not misinterpreted he seems to aim at consulting the United States as the arbiter of the politics of the whole American continent. In view of the great colonial interests of England and other powers, such pretension, if even meant to be seriously advanced, is inadmissible. Nothing is more calculated to excite the susceptibility and pity of the South American republics. The United States and other American governments have, however, the right to protest against any European power gaining further footing on the continent of America.

PUT IT TO PROOF.

At a time when the community is flooded with so many unworthy devices and concoctions, it is refreshing to find one that is beneficial and pure. So conscious are the proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, of the worth of their remedy, that they offer all who desire a trial bottle free of charge. This certainly would be disastrous to them did not the remedy possess the remarkable curative qualities claimed. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption will positively cure Asthma, Bronchitis, Stomach Coughs, Cold, Phthisis, Quinsy, Hoarseness, Croup, or any affection of the throat and lungs. As you value your existence give this wonderful remedy a trial.

If people who are troubled with colds would make use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral before attending church or public lectures, they would avoid coughing, and the comfort of hearers and speaker would be greatly promoted. The Pectoral enables public speakers to speak clearly and without fatigue, having an immediate and wonderful effect in increasing the power and flexibility of the voice.
