

TO START WORK ON MINIDOKA CANALS.

Chicago Firm to Construct Head-works of the Big Irrigation System

MEN ON THE GROUND BY NOV. 1

A. J. Bates of the Constructing Company Talks Regarding the Big Undertaking in Idaho.

The news printed in the Deseret News last evening to the effect that work was to be started within a few days on the Minidoka branch of the Oregon short line is followed by the statement that men will be put to work on the line on Nov. 1 so that by the end of the month the line will be in operation. The following in this connection comes from Boise:

Edward J. Bates of the Bates & Rogers construction company of Chicago, who has the contract for the construction of the headworks for the Minidoka canal system, has arrived in the city accompanied by P. K. Richter, who is connected with the company.

Mr. Bates stated the site of the proposed works with D. W. Haas, engineer in charge of the reclamation work in this state, and they came on to Boise. He stated the company will begin operations without delay. They will have an office established and some men on the ground by the first of November, the force being increased thereafter as rapidly as additional men can be secured. Mr. Bates said the considerable special equipment which could not be secured in a hurry, this feature causing some delay.

There will probably be 200 men employed on the work when operations begin under full headway. It will be very pleasant to the company, Mr. Bates stated, if good men who shall have taken up homesteads on the tract to be reclaimed shall find employment on the job.

In addition to the offices, it will be necessary to construct a boarding and bunk house, a powder house, a cement house, and some other buildings immediately after beginning operations.

The contract calls for completion of the undertaking in 15 months, but it will probably be 15 months before the camp shall be broken up and the outfit moved away.

After carefully investigating the matter of power, the company has determined to use steam. Electric power and compressed air were both considered, but it was determined that steam would be the most satisfactory, excepting for the drills, which will be driven by compressed air.

There will be two cable lines reaching across the river and the head of the canal. These will be 1,200 feet in length. The rock for the filling of the dam will be taken from the line of the canal on the north side, while the gravel for use on the work will be secured on the opposite side of the stream.

Mr. Bates expresses himself as being pleased to be connected with the reclamation work in this manner. Since taking up the subject, he says, he has become quite an enthusiast on the subject of reclamation and has been telling his friends that there are no such opportunities for workers in the older states as will be afforded on such an undertaking as this. While the worker can get first class wages he may at the same time secure a farm that will be of great value. He may then live in the finest savings bank that could be afforded since the land which he can secure for a song will be worth perhaps $75 an acre so soon as the water shall have been turned on.

SHEEP YARNS.

Stories of Delayed Shipments from Utah To the Market.

There is a good story going the rounds regarding a certain sheepman in southern Utah who sent in an order for cars to handle a shipment of sheep to market a few days ago. After counting his flock he figured out that he would require 30 cars and accordingly the agent wired for them. The cars arrived alright but before the sheep could be loaded an order came from headquarters to the effect that the cars were wanted elsewhere. For nine solid days the woolgrower kept the wires hot before the necessary cars eventually were sidetracked. When he came to load up it was found that the agent had only 27 cars. "What was that the agent got wrong?" "That was that the agent was wrong," he thundered. "Well, the sheep stood around so long waiting for these cars," retorted the irate stockmaster, "that I guess they shrunk."

This story is on a par with that of an old Scotchman at Wasatch who routed his ewes over a certain line and when they were unloaded it was found that his shipment had increased 20 per cent.

ROCKEFELLER VS MORGAN.

Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. to Fight U. S. Steel.

Following the acquisition and development of the iron fields near Cedar City, which is now going on it is asserted by the Denver Post that the Colorado Fuel & Iron company, reorganized and in the control of John D. Rockefeller and George J. Gould, backed by the Rockefeller-Gould railroad interests, is to begin at once a systematic fight on J. Pierpont Morgan's trust, the United States Steel corporation.

Expanded and improved by the expenditure of at least $5,000,000, the Colorado industrial company will be able to compete with its more vigorous eastern rival in the manufacture of steel and wire nails. To do this successfully it is said the Gould interests will make a rate on steel and wire carried east that will forestall all competition and with its increased capacity the Colorado plant will put up the hardest kind of a fight.

Aside from the authorized bond issue of $4,000,000, the increase in common capital stock by $6,200,000, and the provision of $5,000,000 for improvements, one of the most important features of yesterday's stockholders' meeting was the elimination from the treasury of John C. Osgood, the man who laid the foundation upon which the C. F. & I. was built. Thus ends the bitter fight the Goulds have waged against Osgood since they first took an active interest in the company, about two years ago, following John W. Gates' attack on Osgood.

Osgood was one of the original "Iowa crowd," or "big four," who built up the institution. His associates were D. C. Beaman, present general counsel of the company; R. M. Hoes, present chief engineer, and Julian L. Kehler, who is dead. John L. Jerome and A. C. Cass, both dead, were often classed with the Iowa crowd, but they were not Iowa men and came in after the company was organized.

In the reorganization of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company the Rockefeller-Gould combine reaped quite an individual harvest, aside from getting control of the company.

A little over a year ago, when the $15,000,000 realized on the debenture bond issue had been exhausted, to save the company from total collapse Rockefeller and Gould put up $12,921,200. The choicest coal and iron lands of the company were turned over to them as security. These properties were assigned over to the Colorado Industrial company, but Edward V. Carey of New York, a Rockefeller lieutenant, was at the head of it, and through him the combine controlled the destiny of the company. Had not the scheme of reorganization gone through and had the C. F. & I. collapsed, the assets would not have amounted to more than a few thousand dollars for the minority stockholders.

For their millions advanced the Goulds get back $17,000,000 in bonds and $2,400,000 of the new common stock, being about $5,000,000 interest for the use of their money for a year.

The next move in C. F. & I. affairs will be a directors' meeting in New York, Oct. 27, for the election of officers. A split is said to be made already, as follows:

President—Frank J. Hearne.
Vice Presidents—J. F. Welborn and E. Parmelee Prentice.
Treasurer—Albert A. Miller.
Assistant Treasurer—A. D. Moss.
Secretary and General Counsel—D. C. Beaman.
Traffic Director—J. F. Welborn.

The board of directors is made up entirely of Rockefeller-Gould men and includes:

George J. Gould, Fred T. Gates, James H. Hyde, Edwin Hawley, J. D. Rockefeller, Jr., E. Parmelee Prentice, John H. McClelland, E. H. Harriman, F. J. Hearne, E. W. Oglebay, Benjamin Nicoll, D. C. Beaman, Starr J. Murphy.

Mr. Beaman and Mr. Murphy were elected in place of J. C. Osgood, resigned, and J. A. Kehler, deceased.

A WOMAN'S NERVES

A THRILLING INCIDENT IN THE HISTORY OF A HOME.

Health Wrecked by Burden of Anxiety. Ordinary Medicines Did Not Help. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Cured.

Some important facts bearing on an exciting event which occurred in January of 1903, have recently been brought to light. At that time, it will be recalled, an employee was reported to have made an attempt to stab his employer, Mr. J. A. Wyatt. The murderous purpose fortunately failed, and the case disposed of the legal aspects of the case. The public excitement died down, but the matter had other grave results, which for a long time threatened to make it a tragedy. Mrs. Wyatt, who had been prostrated by anxiety for her husband, did not recover from the shock he was shocked by her nervous system, and the doctors in charge of the case exerted themselves in vain to help her.

To a reporter who visited her home at No. 1189 Seventh street, Des Moines, Iowa, Mrs. Wyatt described her condition at this time as follows:

"My solicitude was so great that it affected my heart and then my stomach. I had pain in the region of the heart, palpitation and shortness of breath so that I could not walk very fast. My head ached very badly, and I was finally seized, with vomiting spells whenever I took any food. A doctor was called who pronounced the trouble gastritis, but he gave me no relief. Then I tried a second doctor without benefit. By this time I had become very weak. I could not keep the most delicate broth on my stomach, and at the end of a month I was scarcely more than skin and bone and was really starving to death.

"I don't look now like a woman just ready to die, do I? Well, I owe the recovery of my health to very simple circumstances. One day when I was down-hearted at the failure of everything that had been done for me I recalled how much benefit my sister had got from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I decided to take them in place of the doctor's medicine. They helped me right away. In four days I could take weak tea and crackers. In two weeks I was able to leave my bed. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were the only thing that checked the vomiting, and as soon as that was stopped my other difficulties left me. I have a vigorous appetite now and am able to attend to all the duties of my home."

Not only great anxieties but small daily worries up to nervous force, and in multitudes of such cases every organ of the body finally gets out of order, for the nerves supply the vital energy to every part. Cases like these do not yield to ordinary medicines. They are reached and promptly cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, because these marvelous pills act at once on the blood and supply it with nourishing elements that are carried to every nerve in the body.

The way to feel well, and to be well, is to keep the blood pure and rich. The remedy that does that is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, thoroughly and cheaply. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by all druggists.

"MOST WONDERFUL."

Words Used by Father Kittell in Describing the Tabernacle.

An enthusiastic visitor at the Temple grounds this morning was the Rev. Ferdinand Kittell, a Catholic priest of Lorain, Penn. Father Kittell spent 10 years in Europe before entering the ministry studying architecture, and especially church architecture. He was unbounded in his praise of the Temple site as he strolled through the grounds, and when he saw the inside of the Tabernacle, he pronounced it the most wonderful building he had ever seen. "There is nothing to equal it in the whole world," he said, "and the most wonderful thing about it beside the acoustic properties, and unsupported roof, is the manner in which all the interior space of the building is utilized. In most churches the loss of room on account of architectural design is great, but here it seems that every foot of space is utilized."

Father Kittell is touring the country on a vacation. He numbers among his congregation Chas. Schwab, the steel magnate.

DUCK HUNTERS, BEWARE.

Davis County Gun Club is After Trespassers on Lake Front.

It is a hard proposition to convince some of the duck hunters of Davis county that land given up by Great Salt Lake in its shrinkage of area, belongs to the people who held title to the former shore lines. There has been several square miles of such land recently donated by the lake at the mouth of Jordan river, and fronting on the premises of the New State Gun club. Hunters shot over it at will last season and did a great deal of damage to the gun club, by frightening away the birds, and interfering with the club's plans for their protection, except from club members on open days. The result was a battle in the courts some months ago, and the securing of a decision from Judge Rolapp of the Third district court at Ogden, to the effect that the land belonged to their preserve. He issued an injunction against the trespasser in the trial case, and that apparently settled the matter. However, a dozen or more hunters have recently been making free with the new hunting land, and refused to obey the orders to keep off. Now six or eight of the most persistent hunters will be made the defendants in more suits, which are ready for filing in Judge Rolapp's court. The case in the first case were assessed against the plaintiff, but in these cases they will probably be assessed to the defendants, by way of showing them that it is wise to obey an injunction when it is issued. The trespassers are all residents of Ogden and Davis county points.

IRRIGATION IN FAR-OFF EGYPT.

Major Baphati Studying American System for His Country's Benefit.

EMINENT IN HIS PROFESSION.

Will Examine U. S. Lake and See What Has Been Accomplished by Pumping Plant

Major M. K. H. Baphati of Cairo, Egypt, a government engineer, is a guest at the Knutsford. The major is in this country to look into the features of American systems of irrigation, and though in the United States but six weeks, he speaks good English. He called at the office of the reclamation survey this morning, and had a long talk with Prof. Swenson relative to irrigation conditions obtaining in this intermediate country. The professor gave him data and directions as to how to proceed in making investigations, and the visiting official will leave in the morning for Utah lake to examine the pumping plant at the mouth of the lake, and the power plant up Provo canyon, returning to this city by team along the line of the canal through the Narrows and further north. Major Baphati will next proceed to examine the power plants at Ogden, at Logan, and at the Bear river, after which he goes to Idaho to continue his researches there.

The Egyptian engineer made a very favorable impression upon the local irrigation officials, as he seemed to be very well posted in his profession. He knew just what questions to ask in all departments of irrigation engineering, and desired to be especially posted in dam construction, as well as all information possible to be obtained about American reclamation systems. He said the great Aswan dam on the Nile was a pronounced success. The irrigation in Egypt is controlled by the government which furnishes water free, and then takes the lands "under the ditch" upon an estimate of what the land would produce long enough to pay the cost of the water. This tax amounts to $7 per acre as against $1.50 to $3 in this country. But it must be remembered that the Egyptian farmer is able to raise three crops of produce where in the United States only one can be raised. Major Baphati has not been in the country long enough to feel warranted to speak of his own matters of opinion, but he will be able to talk later. He is a diligent student and a good deal of a thinker, and in general a very intelligent man who appreciates clearly the importance of the errand on which he is sent. The major speaks French fluently.
