

a fine Navajo blanket and other contributions.

The notable club feature of the week was the program given at the Ladies' Literary club on Monday, for the teachers of the public schools. A large number of teachers and club members were present to enjoy the interesting affair.

Miss Goddard entertained the College club on Thursday afternoon.

The Cleofan met last Tuesday with Mrs. J. H. Moyle.

The University Social club gave a delightful dancing party at the Ladies' Literary club last night.

The usual social was given by the College club on Tuesday evening at the Ladies' Literary club, the first part of the evening being devoted to a "quiz" contest. Miss Arnold won the first ladies' prize and Miss Burton the consolation. The first gentleman's prize was won by Mr. Rosenbaum, and the consolation was given by Pross, Chas. Berry, and the rest of the evening was devoted to dancing. The next social will be given Dec. 15th.

On Friday the education section meets at the Ladies' Literary club, Miss Colbourne, of Rowland Hall, Mrs. F. J. Fabian and Mrs. C. S. Kinney will utive committee, or has paid the association one dollar and has rendered its equivalent in labor. Any person under fourteen who has paid twenty-five cents or performed work equal to that amount is also eligible. So the organization is a sort of family affair in which every person in the village takes pride. That the first reputation of this association has gone forth is attested by the numerous letters of inquiry which constantly come to it from would-be village "improvers" in every State in the Union.

FEMINE FLOTSAM.

Two Plans for Christmas Eve.

I have heard of so many plans for novel Christmas entertainments; people seem to have grown tired of the conventional tree, even if it is lighted by electric light. Aunt Laura always has a family tree, and this year it is to be all white. She will have the room draped in white cheese-cloth, and wreaths of holly and pine hung over it; the base of the tree will be hidden by cotton-wool to look like snow, and on the tree will be only white ornaments and white candles, crystal and glass, glittering white tinsel will be shown all over.

The idea that Alice Clark has evolved is more original still. Her Christmas entertainment is going to be Japanese in character. For the tree she will have one of the stunted pine-trees that is pretty to take the college colors—black and yellow, Harvard red, Yale blue—or any two colors that go well together. Over a circular piece of cardboard on both sides with ribbon. Then alternating the colors, sew the edges together three-quarters of the way up, point the edges and gather with a draw string of No. 5 ribbon. Sew the other end on to the top. The width of ribbon used must depend upon the size of the ball of twine intended for the bag.

A New Game of Authors.

The hostess may prepare a certain number of blank cards, with the heading on each one "Who and What?" On a second lot of cards she can have pasted the pictures of some noted writers—Thackeray, Dickens, Scott, Dunbar, Tolstoy, Trollope, Browning, George Eliot, Carlyle, Longfellow, Cooper, Emerson, Bryant, Holmes. The pictures of more recent writers will answer her purpose just as well. These pictures can be obtained from illustrated catalogues of books. Of these cards there should be as many as there are guests if the company be a small one, or as many cards as the hostess may desire; a dozen is a very good number.

Supply each guest with one of the blank cards and a pencil and then start into circulation the cards on which are pasted the pictures of the authors. Let the guests pass the cards from one to another, and write down, according to the number on the picture-card, and opposite the corresponding number on their own, the name of each author and some book he has written. This will be found a more difficult task than one imagines, and numerous guesses will doubtless go wide of the mark.

TIME FOR SHOPPING.

Women's Clubs Request that it be Early—Reasons Therefor.

In pursuance of the resolution adopted at the meeting of the Council of Women's clubs last Saturday the following circular has been issued:

The women's clubs of this city, having been appealed to by the employees of business houses of this city to help create a public sentiment which will restore to them their lost Sabbath, take this opportunity, so kindly accorded to them by the press and clergy of this city, to make a brief statement in regard to the conditions which have led to this appeal.

While their testimony is unanimous that their employers have tried to alleviate the situation, both recognizing that the trouble lies deeper and its removal rests with the patrons.

The present time of closing is merely nominal, for the patrons of the store have to be served, and their thoughtlessness entails more than one hour in putting away stock.

When you pause to realize what this means on Saturday, and during the holiday season, shopping as an amusement will cease.

This extra drain on time and strength has led many, who deeply regret it, to gradually abandon church going.

These late sales, accompanied as they usually are, by request to deliver, often keep little boys and delivery men at work long after midnight.

This evil extends to the grocery stores where "something for the Sunday dinner" is ordered after nine o'clock "to be delivered Sunday forenoon."

We have prepared a circular, whose observance we think would in time remedy these evils. Will you help?

It is approved by Bishop Scanlan, Dean Eddie, who will preach at St. Mark's cathedral in its behalf on Sunday evening; Rev. Ellis Bishop, and the united clergy forming the Ministerial association unanimously decided to distribute this circular in all their churches.

The Council of Women's clubs of Salt Lake City request the women of the city as far as possible—

Not to shop or market on Saturday afternoon.

Not to shop or market after 5 o'clock.

Not to insist on packages being delivered on afternoon of purchase.

Not to delay Christmas and Easter shopping until last few days before Christmas and Easter.

By observing these requests the shoppers will relieve employer and employees and abolish the necessity for late hours, overwork and Sunday delivery.

MRS. CARLETON,

President of the Council of Women's Clubs.

Drive Dull Care Away.

Care will kill a cat. But it does worse to a woman. It makes her ugly.

It puckers up according plaits between her eyes and draws funny, scraggy little railroad tracks across her forehead.

When it doesn't do that it imparts a hopeless, alone-in-the-world countenance—which is even more dreadful, says Miss Gue Vive in Chicago Herald.

The thing to do is to give care a frosty glare occasionally. Make up your mind that you are not going to be miserable just because something—or other—goes wrong. Whenever you feel the worrying fever coming on, go and borrow somebody's youngster and play circus. Cut out a paper doll, make chocolate fudges. Sit on the floor like a tailor and sing like—like—well sing the best you can, good old-time songs that you used to sing grew on exposed places near the sea. The room will have a background of Japanese screens, the light will come from Japanese lanterns, and all ornaments on the tree will be of Japanese make. The presents will be wrapped in Japanese napkins. Alice will wear a kimono, and have her hair dressed high, in Japanese style, and her little brother, as a wee Jap, will be her attendant and distribute the gifts.—Woman's Home Companion.

Christmas Gifts.

One pretty and inexpensive gift made from ribbon is a case for playing cards. This requires half a yard of ribbon an inch and a half wider than the cards selected. Over hand the seams with silk of the same color, make deep hems, and leave a place for the draw string, which should be a narrow ribbon of the same color, or of a color that makes a pretty contrast. Sew on one side two cards taken from a miniature pack, says Harper's Bazar. Another ribbon trifle is a twine bag. This requires half a yard each of two shades of ribbon. It

DAINTY FLANNEL WAIST.

The flannel waist is lending itself to many schemes of decoration, the most effective of which perhaps is the application of white silk in various conventional designs. This model in rose-colored flannel has the entire front tucked and turned back in revers which are ornamented with the white silk applique. The plain space within has a similar design.

when you were young and foolish and hankering for moonlight boat rides and all that sort of thing.

Just be silly. Relax. Let up the tension. After half an hour of restful foolishness you'll forget half the misery of a winter without a tailor-made or a hat without steam heat or a longed-for something that hasn't materialized and never will.

It is a mistake to take life too seriously. Really it is! Men tell me about their dreadful heartaches and griefs and miseries. Of course these woes exist—we can't deny it, because we all have enough of them to keep us awake nights—but you can get the best of them in time if you'll brace up and laugh a little. At first the laugh will be like the forced and merry cackle of the stage villain, but you'll win out in time. Yes, you will.

When you stop to think that it wasn't such a long time ago that you were going to school, and not such a long time before that when you were toddling around in pinafores you'll be possessed of the notion that life flies along pretty fast, and you'd better be as happy as you can while you're here.

I like trouble proof women. They are sort of human mackintoshes, from which the downpour of life's miseries slip off and away. This does not mean the woman who shirks and lets others endure the anxieties and cares. That's not it. What I am thinking about is the philosophical lady who says: "Well, it's bad. In fact, I ought to fret about it, but I won't."

Let care go on killing cats if it wants to.

Put on a mosquito netting of mental steadfastness and arm yourself with the broomstick of cheerfulness and let care go whizzing.

"Anyhow, don't be a fretter."

—or a human persimmon.

The Young Man's Manners.

Society asks little of a young man except to behave well, says the October Ladies' Home Journal. If he be manly in looks, if he has a good manner, is civil to his elders, if he has any little gift of entertaining—and "parlor tricks"—if he sends a few flowers occasionally, looks pleasant and is polite, his way will be smooth to success—always providing that he is really a gentleman.

He never joins her on a thoroughfare unless the friendship be an established one and only with her permission—nor will he stand and converse with her.

It is provincial to walk "sandwiched" between two women, to stare, or look after any one who has passed.

In public conveyances a man does not pay a woman's fare unless he is her escort, except in an emergency, when he must ask if he may.

Introductions are rarely made in public places or conveyances.

A man precedes a woman when entering a theater or public place. In a church the lady goes first. He may precede her up a public staircase, but in a private house in ascending and descending he follows.

In picture galleries, elevators, in public buildings, hotel and theater corridors, they being thoroughfares, a man remains his hat. In a hotel he removes it if women are present.

If a lady bows to a man in a restaurant he arises slightly from his seat in acknowledgment. When he is with a party, if a lady with her escort stops to speak to his friends he rises and remains standing until she passes on. He also rises if a man is introduced to him when with a stag party.

If a bachelor shows some little hospitality it advances him much in favor. If he has attractive rooms, or has anything to show, he may give an afternoon tea or a chafing-dish supper. Simplicity is in order. A bachelor's entertainment is usually regarded in the light of a frolic and his efforts indulgently considered.

A bachelor may live where he likes without loss of social position, if he belongs to one good club, which he may only use for the address on his cards and note paper.

A Gift to Give.

It is often difficult to decide what to get your friends for holiday gifts. Here is a suggestion:

"Good morning, Jennie, I have brought you a nice present," said Gertrude, as she handed her friend a neatly wrapped package.

The pale, weary-looking girl, who was slowly recovering from severe illness, opened the bundle and held up a large bottle of clear, rich medicine.

"Good! Sarsaparilla!" she exclaimed. "I have been reading about it today and wished I had a bottle."

On New Year's Day Jennie was able to be out on the street, and to her friends who remained how well she was looking, she simply said, "Good! Sarsaparilla!" and every one of them knew it was this great medicine that had given back her health.

An attractive woman thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form grows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. When troubled with a constive habit, she takes a few doses of DEBILINE to cleanse her system of all impurities. Price, 50 cents. Z. C. M. 1, Drug Dept.
