

BREVITIES.

A $30,000,000 embezzlement has just been discovered in the Austrian war office.

Earth closets—a new method of preventing offensive odors from arising from sinks and retiring departments, are at present undergoing examination by a commission of the Engineer Bureau of the United States War Department. It is proposed to substitute the earth closets for water closets at barracks, hospitals and other military establishments of the United States.

A welding mixture, by which cast-steel can be joined to cast-steel, or to ordinary steel, or to iron, is prepared by mixing calcined borax with calcined lime and calcined sal-ammoniac and steel filings. This, when applied to the surfaces to be joined, will promote their union at a cherry-red heat, and consequently, without altering either the quality or shape of the two portions thus joined.

In Meriden, Connecticut, lately, lightning struck the chimney of a tenement house, scattering the bricks. It then divided into four bolts, one of which passed off, but another passed within eighteen inches of a bed where four children were sleeping, cutting two holes in the glass of the window as smooth as if cut by bullets. One bolt went down to a room where there were seven persons, and went through the floor.

The Seymour Times tells of a case wherein bed clothing, infected seventeen years ago, recently communicated small-pox to a whole family. The bed-clothing had been plastered up in a wall, and the wall being recently opened, the family incautiously handled the infected clothing.

The Dubuque Times says: "Yesterday, while passing one of our leading hotels, we noticed a fair female leaning back in a chair with her feet on the window sill, intensely perusing a paper which we judged to be the Revolution. Of course it's all right; it only looks a little odd to an outsider."

Jefferson County is possessed of a madstone. A few days ago the stone was used on a little son of James Donahoe, of Marion County, after the little fellow had been thrown into the most violent convulsions. The effects were instantaneous. The yams were drawn from the boy's system, and in less than two hours he was restored to his usual health."

Some weeks ago, John Jennings, of Arrowsmith, discovered a heap of young rats, which he took home and gave to his wife, who also had a family of young at the time. The cat directed all the rats save one, which directly took to play with the kittens, and soon commenced drawing its lactical nourishment from the motherly cat. It has continued to remain with its feline friends until it is now about full grown.

A Roman ecclesiastic, in reply to whatever question might be proposed, began by saying, "I make a distinction." A certain cardinal having invited him to dine, proposed to devote some amusement for the company from the well-known peculiarity of his guest. Saying that he had an important question to propose, he asked, "Is luncheon any circumstances lawful to baptize in soup?" "I make a distinction," said the priest; "if you ask is it lawful to baptize in soup in general? I say no; if you ask, is it lawful to baptize in your excellency's soup? I say yes; for there is really no difference between it and water."

In the old time, when the planters were so thoughtful for the spiritual than for the corporeal health of their slaves, Col. Ramsey saw his boy Dan (aged forty) going one morning, Bible in hand, to church. Knowing that Dan was not a person of strong literary proclivities, the Colonel said: "What are you doing with that Bible Dan—you can't read it!" "No, massa, can't read it," said Dan, but I can spell 'em out a little. "What's the use of spelling it out? You can't understand it any way." The Bible for instance, says that the very hairs on our head are numbered. Now you haven't a hair on your head—nothing but wool. What do you say to that?" "Yes, massa, I spell dat so; but I spell out one little verse which say dat on dat day de sheep dey will go on one side and de goats de other. Now de sheep has de wool, but de goats dey got no hair, just like white folks; and I spects de sheep's going to be saved—just what I spects."

It is probably known to few readers, says a foreign correspondent of the New York Evening Post, that the Empress Eugenie has German blood in her veins. Gustav Rasch, a German tourist-traveler, who generally manages to scrape up all the piquant and interesting items of gossip in his wanderings, has lately been through Spain. "Irene of his letters to an Austrian paper, he says: 'In Malaga, many years ago, there lived a poor German dealer, who had a very beautiful daughter, to whom the third son of Count Montijo, a wealthy Andalusian, began to make love. The toy dealer's beautiful daughter was as sensible as she was beautiful, however, and repelled the advances of the young Count, saying 'Without marriage no love.' The young Count was, however, really in love with the poor girl, and in spite of the opposition of his father, and his whole family, he married her. The old Count was enraged at this, and withdrew every income from his son; and the marriage life of the young couple was at first very gloomy; but the young Count had fortune; the two older brothers of her husband died, and the latter became the heir to the title and the possessions of his rich father. The daughter of the poor German girl is the Empress of the French, the wife of Louis Napoleon."
