POPULATION OF UNITED STATES.

It is Seventy-Six Millions, Two Hundred and Ninety-Five Thousand, Two Hundred and Twenty.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The official announcement of the total population of the United States for 1900 is 76,255,220, of which 74,827,997 are contained in the forty-five States representing approximately the population to be used for apportionment purposes. There is a total of 134,158 persons not taxed. The total population in 1890 with which the aggregate population of the present census should be compared, was 62,095,756. Taking the 1900 population as a basis there has been a gain in population of 13,225,464 during the last ten years, representing an increase of nearly 21 per cent.

Following is the official announcement of the population of the United States in 1900 by States.

In the figures the first column represents the census for 1900 and the second for 1890, and the third column, when added, represents the number of Indians not taxed.

THE MISSING EXPLOSION VICTIMS

Up to Noon They Number Thirty-Six—Opinions Differ as to Cause of Accident—Pres. Mayn of Tarrant & Co. Says They Had No Benzoin, Collodion, Nitro-Glycerine or Gunpowder.

New York, Oct. 30.—Although 300 men worked all night on the ruins of the property destroyed by the explosion in Tarrant & Company's big house, yesterday, and were relieved by more than a thousand men at daylight, the search had not resulted in the discovery of any dead body up to 12:30 to day, twenty-four hours after the explosion occurred. The list of missing numbers thirty-eight, but it is believed that many of these will be found during the day. Thos. F. Mayn, president of the Tarrant company, said he felt sure that all of his employees, with the possible exception of two, had been saved.

The search for bodies in the ruins of the building occupied by Tarrant & Co. was kept up all night, but without result. Ten of the men reported missing returned to their homes during the night.

The list of missing at noon was as follows:

Armstrong, F. S., employee of J. S. Covart.

Bradley, Mary, employed in printing office of Jos. Carroll.

James, Joseph.

Barber, Frank, egg dealer.

Cruser, John, egg dealer.

Callaghan, Kate, employed on fourth floor of Tarrant & Co.

Cohen, Isaac, truck driver.

Clark, Charles, bookkeeper at 192 Madison street.

Golden, Mollie, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Griffin, Miss, address unknown.

Harriet, Thomas, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Haley, Wm., employed in egg store.

Henney, Patrick, employed in commission store.

Lodges, James, address unknown.

Mullins, Joseph, address unknown.

Monahan, Benj., Montclair, N. J.

Murphy, Julia, employed in Warren street.

Moore, Harry, an errand boy.

Mathews, Hamilton, truck driver.

Mathews, Victor Hugo, of the Mathews Piano company. He was known to have been in the vicinity a few minutes before the explosion took place.

Oppenheim, Jules, employed in Warren street.

Peters, Frederick, employed at Green-street and Park place.

Pottinger, George, gateman elevated railway station, Warren street.

Rusch, Mary, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Smith, E., employed in Chambers street.

Sulzer, George W., egg dealer.

Schulz, August, employed near Tarrant & Co.

Steh, Abraham.

Schuck, George, employed in the Tarrant & Co. building.

Smith, Mary, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Smith, Jennie, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Tate, Lawrence.

Wheeler, James, employee street cleaning department.

Schwartz, Max, porter, employed by Tarrant & Co.

Sanitary Superintendent Roberts said between 120 and 200 tons of grain and other materials were in the ruins and some of the offensive odor ascribed to dead bodies was really caused by decaying vegetable matter.

Seven fire engines were still on the ground this morning.

Superintendent of Buildings Dooner had 1000 men at work as soon as daylight appeared. He declared that a dozen buildings would have to be torn down.

The force of the explosion has impaired many buildings in the vicinity," he said. "I cannot think of letting men work in them while there is a possibility that they may come down. I believe the buildings along the south side of Chambers street from Greenview to Washington street, and on Washington street from Chambers to Warren streets have been made unfit for occupancy. Forty buildings were damaged by the explosion. I place the property loss at $2,000,000.

Dr. Freney, chief inspector of the health department, was at the scene of the explosion today. "This havoc was wrought by benzoin or naphthalin," he said. "I believe it was nitro-glycerine. It is used very largely nowadays by physicians as a heart stimulant and Tarrant & Co., as wholesale druggists, would have had to supply it. If Tarrant & Co. had twenty-five pounds of nitro-glycerine in their place it would have blown a building like theirs into fragments."

George E. Murray, inspector of combustibles, gave out the following statement: "It is my opinion that the explosion was due to chemical changes which took place during the compounding of drugs. Just what the exact cause was we cannot tell until we can get the formulas used in compounding drugs from the employees on the witness stand before the fire marshal. The company had a permit to store collodion, ether and phosphorus in small quantities, a barrel of alcohol, two gallons of benzoin, one carboy of sulphuric acid and one carboy of nitric acid. If all these should blow up together, I do not think it would make such a terrific explosion. I am of the opinion that the explosion was due to chemical changes."

President Thomas F. Mayn, of Tarrant & Co., said today: "In our own stock we had no ether or at most not more than a few pounds. We had no benzoin or no collodion. When we needed any of these articles to fill orders we bought them from dealers, without the fact that we use a considerable quantity in making our perfumes. We had absolutely no nitro-glycerine and no gunpowder."

Mr. Mayn said in an interview today that Tarrant & Company stored on the third and fourth floors large amounts of collodion, ether and phosphorus.

"Among this," said he, "was much chlorate of potash, and this may have caused the explosion. I'm inclined to think it did. While chlorate of potash is not explosive in itself, it is explosive when connected by fire or other means with other drugs or acids, and is on this very theory that the experts are now working to determine just how the explosions may have been caused."

All our employees but two have been accounted for. We employed twenty men and three women. William Monahan, a shipping clerk, and a boy who was employed on an upper floor, are missing.

The damage to the Ninth Avenue elevated road is largely superficial and can be readily repaired. All but five of the injured who were taken to the Hudson street house of relief, were discharged this morning; those who remained were reported out of danger.

Russia's Reply Received.
London, Oct. 30.—Russia's reply to the Anglo-German agreement was received at the foreign office this evening. It is as generally outlined by the London Times in the dispatch from its St. Petersburg correspondent this morning. The reply was received at the office of the British foreign office. The officials of the British foreign office do not regard the Russian note as adequate treatment of the points raised in the Anglo-German agreement note. They say the Russian reply "lacks the definiteness so desired by Lord Salisbury."

PERJURY IN GOEBEL CASE.
Finley Anderson Makes Affidavit That His Testimony Was False All the Way Through.

Tells How Attorney Campbell and Goebel's Brothers Paid Him Money to Testify.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 30.—The Louisville Evening Post today prints an affidavit of Finley Anderson, the telegraph operator upon whose testimony Caleb Powers was convicted of complicity in the murder of Governor Goebel, in which Anderson swears his story told on the stand at Georgetown was perjured. After telling of a conversation with Attorney Campbell, at Cincinnati in connection with the Goebel case, the affidavit continues:

"I remained in Cincinnati after this conversation with Mr. Campbell and some time after that Mr. Goebel, in his store up stairs on the fourth floor, where I had gone at his request, asked me if Powers had not in my presence at Barbourville in January, said to me in substance these words, referring to William Goebel: 'They say he wears a coat of mail, but it won't do him any good,' or something similar to that. I told Mr. Arthur Goebel that Powers had never said anything of the sort in my presence to the best of my knowledge. He told me to think and see if I could not remember. I could not remember. He then said to me, 'I will take care of you and protect me. I desire now to say that I never had but one conversation with Caleb Powers, and that was in relation to my going to Frankfort with the men on the 25th of January and at no place was the name of William Goebel mentioned or referred to in any way or in any connection with Caleb Powers.'

"I desire furthermore to state that either upon the occasion of the day conversation with Campbell or the day after I received from him $10, in cash and since that conversation I have re-

GOV. ROOSEVELT STARTS EARLY.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The Roosevelt party made an early start westward today. The stops of the day will be numerous, the tour finally ending in Rochester tonight. The general conversation of the party was of the riotous times of last night. Governor Roosevelt said that the first attack on the carriage in which he and Senator Fassett was riding came from small boys.

"I saw the boys 'fire' the vegetables and decayed fruit," said the governor, "and a few sticks also were thrown. It was a body of grown men, however, who pushed up against the carriage and thrust lithographs of Stanchfield in my face. Several times it looked as if it was the intention of the crowd to rush us out of the carriage, but several men on horseback gathered and prevented that. I did not see the fracas in which the men were injured."
