LOCAL NEWS.

Violations of the Liquor Law.—Yesterday Michael McLaughlin was arrested for selling liquor on Sunday, August 9th, at his saloon in Sugar House precinct. He was tried before Justice Speltz this afternoon. Garnes & Williams were also placed under arrest yesterday, on a similar charge, the offense having been committed at the Club House, at the race track in Farmer's precinct. Their trial was set for this afternoon.

Primary Fair.—The Primary Associations of this Stake will exhibit their regular biennial fair in the Social Hall on this city on Thursday the 17th inst., and those who have articles to exhibit are requested to bring them to the hall on Tuesday and Wednesday next. The opening will take place at 10 a. m. on Thursday and continue throughout Friday and Saturday also. The admission for adults will be 10 cents each, children 5 cents. It is hoped that there will be a good display.

The Last Company.—By telegram from Elder James H. Hart, The Church Emigration Agent in New York, we learn that of this season's immigrants, which will sail from Liverpool on the 24th of October, per the S. S. Nevada, will be the same as for the former companies this year—that is, all for an adult. Parties in sending money for the immigration of their friends, however, ought really to realize a little more than the bare amount of the passage money—$35 at least, that the immigrants may have something to purchase provisions with between New York and here.

Canal Company.—Secretary Thomas today issued a certificate of incorporation to the Boise Valley Canal Company, organized under the laws of Utah Territory. The board of directors are: Geo. W. Roberts, President, Treasurer and Manager; F. Schoppa, Vice-President; George Little, Secretary; S. L. Haskell, Superintendent. The principal office is in Salt Lake City, with general business office at Caldwell, Idaho. The capital stock of $200,000 is divided into 20,000 shares, and the object of the company is to operate certain canals and water claims in Ada County, Idaho.

Court at Beaver.—We have received the following as a special per Deseret Telegraph line:

BEAVER, Utah, Sept. 10, 1885.

Editor Deseret News:

The deputy marshal who went forth with the open vessel soon scooped in from the stream the first eight men to fill the panel of the grand jury. The questioning of the prosecutor were not tedious, serious because aware of the complicity of the jurors, and the Judge's charge to the jury was very mild when compared with former charges.

The Beaver jail is filled with men accused of murder, rape and larceny, and the jury must be for attending to these cases, the witnesses in town being Territorial. No witnesses have been subpoenaed yet before the grand jury on U. S. cases. The town is quiet.

MOONSHINE.

Washout at Kanab.—We learn by correspondence from Kanab that another freshet lately occurred on the creek, causing serious damage to the irrigation ditches. It will be remembered that two years ago a flood washed a gully 44 feet deep, where the creek, a shallow stream, had formerly been, near that town, and that last year this same gully was cut out by a freshet some 20 to 25 feet deep, causing considerable damage in both instances, especially the first. In consequence of these washouts the people were under the necessity of going to a great expense in constructing ditches to bring the water out for both their city lots and fields from points much higher up the stream than formerly. The cost of making these ditches and keeping them in repair has been so great that the tax upon the city lots, of one and a quarter acres each, for the purposes, during the past three years, has footed up to $100 each. And now a heavy addition is entailed by the recent disaster, for we learn that the only way to obtain water for the fields will be to take it out at the same place where the stream for irrigating the town diverges from the creek and convey it directly through the settlement. Had the people of that place not possessed more than the usual amount of pluck and patience they would have abandoned the task of obtaining water as hopeless before now, and sought homes elsewhere, but they have persevered so far and doubtless will continue to do so. Their crops in the field have been excellent this year, but those of their gardens are poor and the fruit small owing to their ditch not being completed to bring the water to the town in the early part of the season.

JOSEPH MOULTON.

HIS CASE CONTINUED BECAUSE OF A DEPUTY'S BLUNDER.

Of the three arrested at Heber City, Wasatch County, yesterday, charged with unlawful cohabitation with their wives—Joseph Moulton, J. W. Witt and John Duke—and brought to this city last evening by Deputy Marshal Vandercok, the case of Joseph Moulton was first called before Commissioner McKay this morning. District Attorney Dickson asked that the examination be postponed until to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, as there were no witnesses present. The absence of the witnesses subpoenaed is accounted for as follows: Deputy Vandercok took with him as assistant a fellow named Moore, to whom was assigned the duty of residing in the subpoenas. Moore is the same contemptible individual who served for some time at Heber City, and who a few months ago, rushed into print with a lying statement charging that somebody had ill-treated him. He was afterward employed as a guard at the Penitentiary. Yesterday, while in the act of serving subpoenas on women and children, he was so badly scared that he trembled with fear, and in naming the date for the witnesses in the Moulton case to appear before the Commissioner, stammered out that it was the 18th of September—the time they are wanted by the grand jury. On the way he informed the audience that they ought to be at the Commissioner's office to-day. Mr. Moulton sent word back to that effect, and the witnesses will probably arrive this evening.

The case was set for 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and the defendant released on $1,000 bail. David L. Murdoch and John B. Hawkins signing the bonds.

JOHN W. WITT BOUND OVER. OUTRAGEOUS RULING OF THE COMMISSIONER.

John W. Witt was arraigned, from F. S. Richards appearing as counsel. The complaint charges unlawful cohabitation with Martha Witt, at Heber City, Wasatch County. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty, and Martha Witt, Elizabeth Witt and Wesley Witt were called and sworn as witnesses.

Wesley Witt testified that he was the son of the defendant and Lavina Witt, lived at his mother's house; his mother had thirteen children, ten living; the youngest was three years old. His father lived all the time with his mother; knew Martha Witt; she lived in Heber City about five miles from his mother's house; Martha had lived with witness' mother about five years; she had not lived there in the past ten years; she had three children, 12, 10 and 8 years old; she was his father's wife; had never heard his father call Martha's children his; had not seen the children in his father's presence, nor heard them call him father "dad" or "the old man"; thought they called him Mr. Witt; was not positive what they called him; might have addressed him as father; witness' father had not lived with Martha for six or eight years; he had lived with her home most of the time; did not know of his ever living at Martha's. Martha Jane Witt was called. Defendant was her husband; they were married in 1880; had three children living; one died in infancy; she had been married about ten months; this was her youngest child; had lived in her present home five years; lived at her mother's house four or five years before then; Mr. Witt had lived with her only a small portion of the time within the past ten years; there was no understanding to separate; they had not agreed, and did not live together; there was no agreement between them to live apart; had not lived with her in the last three years; did not come to the house very often; came perhaps once a month; he came often before the last five years; had not stayed all night or taken meals for six or seven years; her children called defendant father; witness recognized defendant as her husband.

Cross-examined by Mr. Richards: Defendant had not slept or eaten at her house during the last six years; his visits were made in the daytime; just to see how they were getting along; she had not lived with him as a wife during the last three years; he had not lived with her in the last three years; had not stayed all night or taken meals for six or seven years; her children called defendant father; witness recognized defendant as her husband.

Re-direct by Mr. Dickson: Had not lived with defendant for six or seven years; the child had been born within that time; had not sustained the relation of husband and wife since that child was born; the relation had been broken off because they did not agree; had not lived in the relation of husband and wife during the last three years; defendant and witness had talked of not living together since the death of the child; did not think it that occasion when the question was first asked; did not remember what was said; the conversation was about defendant's improper treatment of witness; defendant did not promise to do any better; they did not make the quarrel up; she was treating with him now; he had not lived with her since then.

Mr. Dickson: Why have you not sustained the relation of wife to him? Objected to by Mr. Richards.

Commissioner McKay—You may answer the question.

Witness—I have told you I didn't want to treat the children as if they had not lived together since the passage of the Edmunds law; had a conversation then, which just came to her mind; this was three or four years ago.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. Richards—This conversation was one or two months after the passage of the Edmunds law.

Mr. Dickson—You still recognize each other husband and wife? Witness—Yes; I have never had a divorce.

Sarah Elizabeth Witt testified she was the daughter of Lavina Witt; knew Martha Witt; never visited her during the last three years; during the last five or six years or more.

The prosecution rested, and Mr. Dickson asked that the defendant be held to answer to the grand jury.

Mr. Richards asked for a dismissal for the reason that the chief witness for the prosecution had testified that there had been no living together as man and wife.

Mr. Dickson insisted that the witness had not testified frankly, and said her evidence should not be accepted as final. It might be true that the defendant had not lived with the witness, but they regarded each other as husband and wife.

Mr. Richards insisted that the prosecution had no right to infer a misstatement of fact. The witness had given a straightforward evidence, and positively stated that there had been no living together.

The question whether the defendant should be held or discharged was now left to the Commissioner's decision. There was not a shadow of evidence tending to prove cohabitation, even under the most extended construction of the term. But the accused was a "Mormon," and the Commissioner, who does not dare to refuse a request of the District Attorney made in earnest, after a moment's hesitation, rendered a decision more absurd and outrageous than the silly "opportunity" one made by him some months since. He remarked, "I think there is sufficient in the case to call for an explanation on the part of the defendant," and held the defendant under $1,000 bonds to await the action of the packed grand jury. The defendants, J. W. Witt, Jr., and D. L. Murdoch.

The witnesses were placed under $300 bonds to appear before the grand jury, David N. Murdoch and Isaac Cummings being sureties.

and Anna M. Duke were sworn as witnesses.

Anna M. Duke was first called. She was the daughter of John and Martha Duke; lived with her mother at Heber City for seven years; had seven children, the youngest a year and a half old; her father lived in the house with her mother about half the time; lived at another house the balance of the time; Mary Duke also lived in the other house; witness had been at Mary Duke's house; had not seen about ten, the youngest about two years old; thought the children called defendant father.

Elisha Duke testified that he was son of defendant and Mary Duke; lived at home with his mother, who had eleven children, about two or three years old; defendant lived there part of the time, about half, the children called him father. The prosecution rested and John Duke was held in $1,000 bonds to await the action of the grand jury, bail being furnished by David N. Murdoch and Isaac Cummings, who also gave the required surety for the appearance of the witnesses on the 16th instant.

Change of Field.—We learn from the Millennial Star just received, that Elder Robert Marshall, who for some time past has been laboring in the Newcastle Conference has been transferred to the Irish Mission.

Immigrants Landed.—By telegram from New York we learn that the company of European Saints who sailed on the 29th ult., from Liverpool landed safely in New York yesterday, and took the cars for the west last evening. Elder John W. Thornley, of Kaysville, in charge. They probably arrive here on Tuesday next.

Fire Alarm.—An alarm of fire was given to-day, the cause being the second story of a house at the south end of Commercial Street. A man had been lying on a bed smoking, and the clothing had taken fire. A woman extinguished the blaze with a few buckets of water. The firemen were promptly on hand, but their services were not required.

The Arrests at Heber.—Yesterday morning, at an early hour, U. S. Deputy Marshals Vandercok and Moore, accompanied by Mr. S. S. Richards, of Park City, visited Heber City, Wasatch County, and served warrants of arrest on Joseph Moulton, John Duke and J. W. Witt, they being charged with unlawful cohabitation with their wives. Witnesses were subpoenaed in the cases of Brothers Duke and Witt, but not in that of Brother Moulton. The reason for the omission in the case of the latter was that Moore, who served the warrant, was so agitated that he scarcely knew what he was about. He trembled so that he could not hold the paper sufficiently still to read it. In this predicament he had to call Mr. Shiel, to his assistance. The person who had the most reason to be excited—Brother Moulton—was cool and unflinching.

Moore is a former resident of Heber, and published a lying statement in regard to his being run out of that town, which was subsequently refuted by the facts being exhibited.

The principal object of the visit of the Marshals to Heber was to arrest President George Q. Cannon, whom they imagined to be in that vicinity. They were widely out in their calculation.

Carp Culture.—Brother Wm. D. Johnson, formerly of this city, but now of Johnson, Kane Co., has been experimenting somewhat of late in the culture of carp, and his experience, as we have learned of a gentleman just up from the south, is so interesting and encouraging that we are led to publish it for the benefit of our readers.

He has an artificial pond about forty rods long, and from one to one-and-a-half rods in width, situated at the base of a perpendicular cliff which faces the water for which it is supplied by springs. Two years ago last May he obtained eight carp that had been imported to the Territory, each about the size of one's finger. They belonged to what are known as the mirror variety, a kind of carp that have only a very few scales on them, differing in this particular from the other kinds which are either entirely covered with scales or have none at all. It is impossible to estimate to what extent they have increased in numbers since he obtained them, but the pond is now pretty well stocked with them, and there would doubtless have been many more had it not been for the presence of other worthless kinds of fish in the pond that are supposed to have preyed upon the spawn of the carp. As it is, however, the carp can be seen of all sizes from a half an inch to probably fifteen inches in length. One of the original eight, and not, the largest, was captured the latter part of July and found to weigh about six pounds. The largest, it is thought, would weigh fully seven pounds.

They are so tame that Brother Johnson, who frequently feeds them himself, can stand at the edge of the pond and call them up as near as possible to him by whistling. Almost as soon as he calls them the water can be seen to ripple clear to the farther end of the pond as they swim for what is possible naps for the food. They will not eat other fish nor insects, nor indeed any animal food, but are fond of scraps from the table, grain, lucern, vegetables generally; in fact, almost anything that a horse or cow will eat. A curious characteristic of these fish is that they disappear entirely from view when cold weather comes on the approach of winter, and are not seen any more until warm weather returns. It is supposed that they burrow down in the mud and there hibernate.

Brother Johnson has demonstrated that carp culture can be made very profitable, and he expects to succeed in securing the future that he has done so far, by ridding his pond of all other kinds of fish.

In view of the case with which they can be raised, it is a wonder that more persons in this region who have ponds or possess facilities for making them have not attempted their culture. They do not require a very deep pond; in fact, they seem to prefer shallow water and muddy bottom. The obtaining of flowing wells would be a great many people to construct private fish ponds and enter upon the business of raising brain food instead of hogs.

TERRITORIAL ITEMS. CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

On Sunday night the store of Jas. Lynch at Butte, was burglarized, and the safe blown open and rifled. About $400 was taken.

Two men, Henry Meyers, a soap-maker, and W. Johnson, a traveler, were found dead in their beds at Butte, Montana, on Sunday morning. The coroner's verdict was that Meyers died of heart disease and Johnson of asphyxiation.

Peter Kinney was shot and killed on Thursday, September 3rd, at Spotsylvania, Washington Territory, by a man named Jim Carter. The crime was committed in an opium joint, and was discovered by Kinney, who was in a pool of his own blood just where he had fallen. The row was over a woman. There were four men and the woman in the room at the time. While the two men were quarreling, Carter fired and Kinney turned partially around. Wickwire, one of the men who saw the shooting, sprang up, and Carter asked him to stand back. Wickwire threw up his hands and said "No," and Carter arrested him, placed once or twice, but it is not known whether the murderer was arrested and placed in jail.
