A "Nolle Prosequi."

WASHINGTON, 29.—In the safe burglary trial to-day, a nolle prosequi was entered in the case of Hayes and he will be used as a witness against his late co-defendants.

Charges Dismissed.

All the charges against Secretary Struve, of Washington Territory, were dismissed to-day and that officer was directed to return to his post of duty, according to the findings of the department of the interior. The principal charge against him was mismanagement of the public printing, and it was clearly shown to have been without any foundation whatever in fact.

The Safe Burglary Case.

In the safe burglary case, to day, the examination of Sirruth was continued. He admitted being arrested a few years ago for rape, but declared that it was a put-up job of Nettleship's. On being asked how he got out of jail on the 20th he said he didn't know, Riddle could tell. Riddle then examined the witness, and asked him if he hadn't made a full confession of the whole matter to a N. Y. Sun correspondent before he came to Washington to give himself up. The question was objected to, and the court decided that it might be asked, if he had made the same statement to any one else, to which he replied in the affirmative. Michael Hays testified that he had been employed by Whiteley since June, '71. On the 6th of April he had an interview with Whiteley in New York, who asked him if he could go to Washington, and receiving an affirmative reply, he directed him to go to the Metropolitan Hotel at Washington, and Nettleship would be there, but he was not to ask for any one. He went there, but not finding Nettleship, he telegraphed Whiteley for instructions; he afterwards found Nettleship, and went to his room in the Owen House, when Nettleship began to talk about blowing open comptroller Green's safe in New York, and abstracting some papers. He asked witness if he knew two good men who would do it. Witness said, "What are you driving at? come to the point." Nettleship gave him fifty dollars, and told him that he would communicate with Whiteley, and see him again. At the second meeting Nettleship told him that the district attorney's office contained a safe that was to be worked, and directed him to a house on 9th St., where he would find a man who would introduce him to old man Demaine. He would know the man on 9th st., by his hawking and coughing. Witness was to slip up to him and ask him if he was the man who had the patent, when the man would know who witness was. Nettleship gave witness some names on a card; one of the names was Columbus Alexander. Witness found the man on 9th St. who was to introduce him to Demaine, and they went to his room. He afterwards found out that his name was Lirruth. Witness reported progress to Nettleship, and received fifty dollars more. The next morning Lirruth failed to meet witness, and the latter sought Nettleship, and was told to go to the district attorney's office and ask for Harrington, and talk with him about a counterfeit money case, and at the same time to look at the safe and observe the entrance to the room. He followed these directions and afterwards went to Lirruth's and Demaine's.

After recess Hayes continued his testimony. Nettleship wanted him to get a man in N. Y. to do the job; such a man would be taken care of, and be given a wardenship in the New Jersey penitentiary. Nettleship told him to get some one to blow up the safe who had served a term in the penitentiary, so that his testimony would be worthless. He went with Demaine to Alexander's, and being introduced to Alexander he made him an offer to furnish him the books and papers of John O. Evans to aid the memorialists, saying that they were in the possession of a friend of his, and he could get them. He asked Alexander how much he would give for them, and the latter replied that he wished it distinctly understood from the start that they had determined to purchase no testimony. Witness said, "I understand my business and this is not purchasing testimony, but it will cost considerable to get the books here and it should be paid." Alexander said he was willing to pay any reasonable expense, but first he must see his counsel. Witness afterwards, by Nettleship's request, took Benton to Alexander and introduced him as the man to bring the books to him. Witness then took Benton and Williams over the routes between the District Attorney's office and Alexander's, and then went with Benton and Williams to Harrington's office, where Williams carefully inspected the safe, and wanted Nettleship to get the combinations of the lock, so that he could open the safe, and then load and blow it up, so that it would appear as if it was blown open; this would save time. It was arranged that Benton was to be arrested after the burglary, as Williams considered his time too valuable for him to be locked up. After completing the arrangements he left for New York, and on Saturday, the 25th, he met Nettleship, who then asked him how the burglary turned out. He replied, "All right, only Alexander didn't get up to receive the books." Afterwards witness was directed by Nettleship to go to a certain place in New York, to meet a man, to whom he should say—"Nettleship sent me," and the man would know him. He went and met a lawyer named Thomas P. Somerville. Witness was about to relate what took place, when the defence objected strongly, and proceeded to argue the point with much warmth, pending which the court adjourned.

The Total Loss.

TERRA HAUTE, Ind., 29.—The total loss by the fire at Greencastle was $385,500; insured for $122,900.

Dead.

BALTIMORE, 29.—Private advices from Rome report the death of the sculptor Wm. H. Bisehart.

A Match Race.

IRA match race to-day, between "American Girl" and "Copper Bottom," for $2,000, "American Girl" won the first and fourth heats, 2:21½; "Copper Bottom" won the second and third in 2:21 and 2:19. Darkness stopped the race, which will be concluded to-morrow.

$100,000 Fire.

PLYMOUTH, Pa., 29.—A fire here to-day destroyed Jessop's hotel, the livery stables of Davenport and Blair, Mullin's shoe store and dwelling, and several stores; total loss $100,000, insurance not over $60,000.

Failed.

NEW YORK, 29.—R. W. Burke, petroleum refinery, failed to-day.

$9,000 Reward.

LOUISVILLE, 29.—Governor Leslie, to-day, issued a proclamation, offering rewards aggregating $9,000, for the capture of the masked ruffians who shot the young negro girl in Shelby county recently; he appends an injunction to local officers to perform their duties unflinchingly, and enjoins citizens to support the law and to discourage criminals, who are so rapidly increasing in the State.

An Attack on Kellogg.

NEW ORLEANS, 29.—About half past 3 p. m. Governor Kellogg, with Judge Attocha, was going home in a cab, when Major Era Burke stopped the cab near the corner of Rampart and Canal Sts., and walked up to it, when Kellogg extended his hand, which Burke took, and at the same time seized the Governor by the wrist with the other hand, and attempted to pull him out of the cab, but the Governor being strong, quickly released himself, and drawing a pistol fired at Burke, the ball grazing him; Burke then drew a revolver and fired three or four shots without effect, the cab driving off. Burke was arrested and taken to the station, but was released afterwards, at the request of Attocha. The difficulty grew from a correspondence in the paper about naturalized citizens.

Woods on Fire.

CINCINNATI, 29.—A passenger by the Pan Handle route, from Steubenville, to this city, arriving at midnight, reports the woods on fire in places, from Denison and east to Columbus, and as far as Morrow, seventy miles southwest. The worst fires are five miles northeast of Columbus and near Frazierville, to east of Newark, between Columbus and Morrow.

WESTERN.

Distinguished Hawaiians.

SAN FRANCISCO, 29.—Among the passengers just arrived from Honolulu is the Hon. Elisha H. Allen, chancellor of the Hawaiian kingdom. Judge Allen is accredited special envoy to Washington, entrusted with power to negotiate a reciprocity treaty between Hawaii and the United States. The Hon. Henry A. P. Carter, a prominent citizen of that country, is also associated with the mission. It is now known that the king will arrive at this port by the Benicia, reaching here about the last of November. He, together with his ambassadors, will spend some time at Washington, and will probably be there upon the opening of the next term of Congress.
