Dooly cashier of Wells Fargo's bank, and his brother-in-law, gave rise to the report that the control was owned by that gentleman. Mr. Dooly when seen by a 'News" representative this morning however, absolutely denied the report, and said that the man at the helm was Colonel Clayton. He was asked wheththere was any truth in the report that Mr. Menzies, the London capitalist whom he represents, was in any way interested in the stock. His answer was that Mr. Munzies had not the remotest interest of any kind.
