

THE LARGER OUTSIDE CITIES

OGDEN.

The home of Mrs. William F. Calkins was the scene of a most delightful party given Thursday afternoon by the "Lucky 13" club, in honor of Mrs. Calkins, who departs this month for Los Angeles, to make her future home; her husband, the popular Southern Pacific train agent, having been transferred to that city. There were present at the party besides the members of the club a number of her lady friends. The principal pleasure of the afternoon was the head prize was won by Mrs. Wm. McGraw, the consolation by Mrs. J. S. Suss, assistant superintendent of the Pullman Car company at San Francisco. The tables were prettily decorated with cut flowers. The members' refreshments were served. The members of the club presented Mrs. Calkins with a beautiful gold souvenir spoon, suitably engraved. Mrs. McGraw making a presentation. Mrs. Calkins is a charming hostess, and her many friends, who will regret her departure from here, but will wish her happiness in her new home.

OUR DRESS MAKING PARLORS

Are busy centers these days. Seem like numberless ones are imbued with the spirit of being well prepared for the coming of the new season. Last year, under the management of Madame Cuthorne this division made a very fine reputation for itself, because the garments it produced were distinctive and perfect in every detail. This year the work will be continued under better conditions. Do not wait until the big rush is on. Come now for best attention. The head of this department will deem it a pleasure to accompany you on your tour of inspection and selections for right things.
