Some time ago the crew of a ver-sel laden with Java coffer, were seized with a deadly sickness, and it was supposed that the coffee had something to do with the maindy. But medical testimony went against that theory, and the idea was scouted. Now another ship with Java coffee has arrived at New York with a similar affliction among the crew, and the sailors think that the doctors don't know anything about it. Still it is not proven that the affliction proceeds from the coffee, nor that the Java viriety has peculiar unhealthy qualities.
