Improving Manti's Water System-Mr. And Mrs. G. A. Iverson Lose Infant. Special Correspondence.

Manti, Sanpete Co., Oct. 27 .- Manti's water system is being greatly improved under the direction of Mayor L. R. Anlerson. For some years, owing to tha nadequacy of the flow of spring water i the system's sourse, it has been neessary to use a quantity from the anyon creek, a condition which has not been altogether satisfactory. How-ever the work now being done by the city will obviate that as a splendid flow is being had, enough to abund-antly supply the people with the highest quality of pure, spring water,

COUNTY SEAT AGITATION.

The people of Manti are fully awake in the matter of the proposed removal of the county saat to Ephraim. Every precinet in Sanpete county is being visited and sentiment created for its retention at Manti. Several thousand county of an address to the voters and copies of an address to the voters and taxpayers have been sent out, presenting data which will materially add to the enlightenment of the people. There is very little danger of moving the county seat, and it will undoubtedly be found that on election day the action will be overwhelmingly in favor of Manti, the pioneer city of Sanpete valley, and one of the historically interest-ing cities of the state.

-Smithfield, Cache Co., Oct. 26 -- A Smithfield, Cache Lo., Oct. 28. A farewell party was given last evening in the tabernacie in honor of Elder Quince Kimball, who leaves for a mis-sion in Indian territory next Saturday.

A good program was rendered. Miss Nora Cantwell and Mr. Jas, Kirkbridge were married today in the Logan Temple. The bride is the daugh-ter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cantwell, and a very glited young lady. The groom is one of our most successful school teachers and a talented progres-ay in ashes. So speedy ware the flames that only four benches could be saved. The school was well furnished and sup-plied with all sorts of books, charts, alies were placed in the house, and was intended to grads the school this morning and start it off in good shape. The teachers are M. J. Blackburn of Desert Lake, principal, and Miss Ruby Fift of Orangeville as primary ining a nice schoolhouse and took much pains to make it attractive. The children as well as the parents reverenced the house, and all thought it about the only redeeming feature of the little town. It was almost heart-breaking to see the people standing in little provids watching the meeting and schoolhouse burn to the ground and not being able to save searcely a filing. Organ, far-niture, records and all it contained are gone. The children expressed their sorrow in both words and tears, for the oss of their cherished hope of the best school year they had ever seen,

This house gone leaves us without a place to assemble. The people are, however, stout hearted and meet the adversity calmiy, determined to make the best of the situation.

A meeting of the people was called at 2 p. m. where they decided to carry on the school as near to the former plans as possible. The trustees have secured a house in which the school may be held. The lack of books, school suplies and furniture, is the greatest immediate drawback, but teachers as well as students and parents seem will-
