BANKING MAGAZINES AT STATE PRISON

No More Periodicals Will be Accepted for the Convicts There.

USED TO SMUGGLE MORPHINE.

Drugs Artificially Concealed in Books Cause Warden to Head Off Promiscuous "Donations" of Literature.

No more magazines will be received at the state prison for the use of prisoners. Warden Pratt has found it necessary to make this rule for the following reasons. Whenever a family cleans house, the thrifty housewife is seized with the idea that it would be a good scheme to send all of the old magazines that have been accumulating around the house "for a generation or two" down to the prison for the convicts. Now the warden feels that a number of magazines, sent through the mails to prisoners contained morphine powder concealed between leaves which were glued together, thus forming sacks. So these periodicals will not be received in the future, except the regular publications for which the prison management subscribes, and are sent direct from the publisher to the east. Warden Pratt says the convicts have a fine library from which books may be drawn, all of the more prominent magazines are subscribed for, and most of the state's magazines now allowed in the institution—something that has never obtained before. So it is not necessary for local people to send in any old magazines under the impression that the prisoners will read and appreciate them; and then by their exclusion means of smuggling dope into the prison is cut off.

UTAH WOMAN RANCHER.

Mrs. Agnes M. Hart Refuses $3,500 for Farm on Reservation.

Mrs. Agnes M. Hart of Denver has refused an offer of $3,500 for her ranch near Fort Duchesne, Utah, in the Uintah reservation, says the Denver Post. Mrs. Hart, almost alone and unaided, has made the ranch what it is. In the summer of 1905, when the drawing for homesteaders took place, her name was among the first to come out—the exact number was 123. In a few weeks she went to Vernal, Utah, to file on her claim. She selected a quarter section about seven miles from Fort Duchesne, 12 miles from the new town of Mitten.

For a year and a half Mrs. Hart has resided on the property and improved it. She has built houses and fences, and a well, and the ranch is now in fact, she has performed all the work of a ranch that a man usually does. For several weeks during the winter she was here. Mrs. Hart slept in a tent which she had erected. The ranch is located 150 miles from a railroad and for a year and six months Mrs. Hart never saw a doctor.

Mrs. Hart, who is now in Denver, expects to return to her ranch in a few days. There she will again take up her work of planting and building. Before Mrs. Hart went into the ranching business she was a drummer and she was one of the very few women who are successful as traveling saleswomen.

NORMALS CLASS DAY.

Bid Farewell to Campus With Ceremonies in Typical Student Style.

Placed because the friction between themselves and the college seniors has come to a happy termination, and much more pleased because the end of their work has brought them success, the graduates of the normal department of the University of Utah assembled yesterday afternoon for the ceremony which permeates the formal commencement of day after tomorrow.

The exercises began at 10 o'clock before a large and enthusiastic audience, composed of friends of the young graduates, who cheered their efforts at oratory and laughed heartily at the jokes aimed at class members or at favorite faculty member or some prominent student.

The opening address was made by Alfonso Huntsman, president of the class, and he introduced Joseph W. Benson, who delivered the address. The first number on the program was a violin solo, "Meditation," by Miss Rogawsky. Roswell Beckman then delivered an oration. The class history was given by George Stewart, and a vocal solo was sung by Willard Nison. Rhoda Baxter recited the class poem, and the reading of prayers followed. The faculty attitude was expressed for permanent organization. All the participants acquitted themselves in the most creditable manner.

Later a business meeting was held by the graduates and plans were discussed for permanent organization. The long drawn out clash between the seniors and college faculty has at last ended in a promise from the seniors to come off for commencement and not stay out in the rain on Thursday. The final conference on the matter was held yesterday after the senior exercises, and there were present nearly all members of the class, and members of the faculty committee. It was urged by the faculty that the seniors were precapitating a situation for which the university was not yet ready. In a few years, it was declared, there would be no fourth-year normals or third-year normals to disturb the college atmosphere so ardently sought by the college students, but only fifth-year normals, to rank with college seniors to select their own valedictorian, and of being taken into council on commencement day events.

The question of separate commencement has been growing in importance each year for a number of years, on account of the fact that the college graduates feel that the normals have not entered the college grades, and really are high school graduates with another name.

ELY MEN IN SALT LAKE.

A. G. Corbett, "Father of Ely," Talks Of Conditions at Nevada Camp.

A. G. Corbett, "father of Ely" and H. M. Fullmer, both just from the eastern Nevada mining camp, are in Salt Lake and guests at the Wilson hotel. Mr. Corbett is the founder of Ely townsite, and owner of many properties there while Mr. Fullmer is a member of the firm of Fullmer & Ives, a successful business firm of the rising young camp. The gentlemen are here in the interest of their excursion from Ely to Salt Lake, which leaves Salt Lake on the night of June 7. "That Ely will become a big city is a foregone conclusion," said Mr. Fullmer this morning. "A little over a year ago there were 700 people in the town, and now there are not less than 5,000 people there. I predict that within a year there will be between 15,000 and 20,000 people in Ely, and the prediction is based on conditions as they actually exist, and what is going to take place at Ely during the coming year."

Mr. Corbett said that one of the town's greatest problems is running this fall and that by that time the line of the Western Pacific will be running passenger and freight trains between Ely and Salt Lake. The manager of the Western Pacific gave me his assurance that the line would be completed to Ely by that time, that is, to the connection of the Western Pacific with the Nevada Northern, which runs into Ely at Bova. This will cut off about 75 miles from the present roundabout necessary trip to reach Ely, and will mean a great deal for the people of Salt Lake.

Mr. Corbett further said that the smelter, situated 10 miles out from Ely, would alone give employment to 3,000 people when completed, that an electric railway connecting the smelter with the town was being built and would be completed within six months, and that the town's population would be able to maintain the town.

The smelting plant is being constructed by the united interests of the Cumberland-Ely company and the Consolidated Copper and Silver Company, which is the same interest which controls the Nevada Northern railroad.

PROBLEM FOR BOARD.

Tax Assessment Protests Due From Local Hospitals and Banks.

In all probability the county board of equalization will have a hard problem to solve when the various hospitals in the city enter protest against being taxed. Heretofore all the hospitals have not been assessed as they were classed as strictly charitable institutions but since the supreme court held that the Holy Cross Hospital association, that it was not shown that hospitals are charitable, the county board decided to assess their property and make it subject to taxation. Representatives of the various hospitals will no doubt take the matter up at one of its future meetings and protest against being assessed. What the outcome will be is hard to determine but there is no doubt that there will be a very serious protest on the part of the county officials in this matter.

Some protests are also expected from the banks of the city. Heretofore the banks have been assessed only 20 per cent of their capital stock less the valuation of their real estate, but this year the assessor taxed them for their full capital stock less the value of their real estate. The banks will probably meet with the board at its next meeting on Saturday and protest against this action. The change in the assessment in this respect means several thousands of dollars more to the county and it is expected that the board will have a hard fight on its hands in regard to the matter.

STATE LAND BOARD.

Township in Emery County Turned Back to the Government.

The state land board met in regular session Tuesday. A number of protests were submitted from different parts of the state, regarding the sale and selection of lands, and these were taken under advisement by the board.

At the request of E. W. Senter and Harry Anderson, the state relinquished its right to townships in Emery county, as these gentlemen stated they had clients who wished to file on the land in the townships through the United States land office. The state had the township surveyed, but found that its selection was in the amount of land by the government exclusive of entry upon the township.

The board will continue in session today and tomorrow.
