

WAS SHOT DOWN IN COLD BLOOD

Tom Downs, a Wyoming Oil Driller, Killed Fellow Workman At Evanston.

UNDER INFLUENCE OF LIQUOR.

Both Men Were Employers of Salt Lake And Pittsburgh Oil Co.—Thought To Be Woman in Case.

(Special to the "News.")

Evanston, Wyo., Oct. 15.—Tom Downs, an oil driller in the employ of the Salt Lake & Pittsburgh Oil Co., shot and killed Ira Taylor, a fellow worker, yesterday shortly after the noon hour, on the company's works at Spring Valley, a place about 18 miles from here.

Downs recently came from Florence, Colo., to work for the oil company at Spring Valley. He was under the influence of liquor yesterday, and when the men assembled to partake of their midday meal, he seemed to be rather quarrelsome, arguing with the men about politics and other subjects that the others would talk with him about. After the dinner was over, they went to the bunk house, and it was here that Downs shot and killed Taylor, seemingly in cold blood.

DOWN'S DENIES ACT.
Downs claims Taylor killed himself, but everything is against this theory, as a postmortem examination revealed the fact that it was impossible for him to have shot himself.

Downs is in the county jail here awaiting a hearing. There may be a woman in the case and is perhaps the only motive for the killing.

REGARDING RUM SHOPS.

They Must Keep Beyond Three Hundred Feet of School Houses.

Atty. Gen. Breeden, in a letter to County Atty. J. G. Jorgensen, publishes the following opinion to the effect that no barroom can be licensed to sell liquor closer than 300 feet from a schoolhouse.

"In reply to your favor of the 11th inst. you are advised that section 1245, Revised Statutes of 1905, provides that no liquor license shall be granted to any establishment, except a hotel, located within 300 feet of any public school building being used for that purpose. The purpose of this law is to protect and guard the school children from the evil influences surrounding open saloons where men congregate and loiter about and indulge in the evils of the drink habit.

The legislature very wisely prohibits the saloons and the sale of liquor within less than 300 feet of a building used for school purposes. The meaning of this law is, I take it, that no barroom or place where men commonly congregate and drink liquor shall be within less than 300 feet of a school building used for that purpose. I understand that if the only entrance to the bar is beyond 300 feet from a schoolhouse and there is no back or side entrance closer than the distance mentioned, the law is satisfied. It must be distinctly understood, however, that the place where the license authorizes the liquor to be sold and drunk must be fully 300 feet or more from the nearest point of the schoolhouse. The actual barroom used for that purpose is what the law aims at and not at a cellar or warehouse where liquors in original packages are stored and where men do not commonly congregate to drink and loiter about.

NEW REMEDY FOR BURNS.

Dr. Stanley H. Clawson Claims to Have Discovered An Infallible One.

Dr. Stanley H. Clawson has discovered what he claims to be an infallible remedy for burns, and wishing to give the public the benefit of his discovery, he asks that the "News" publish the same.

Dr. Clawson made the discovery by accident. One day while using a soldering iron, he burned his fingers with the hot iron, and rushing upstairs to find some turpentine, took from the shelf by mistake a bottle of eucalyptol, a medical preparation consisting of liquid extracted from the eucalyptus tree. The soothing influence of the liquid on the burn was remarkable and instantaneous, and with a few more applications he was able to use the injured members. The liquid was also used with like healing effect by an electrician who burned the side of his face and neck in a terrible manner, also by other members of Dr. Clawson's family; eucalyptol has now become a household remedy with him, and he strongly advises everyone to have this iron and paste it up where it can be seen in time of need. The fluid is harmless, and the injured parts may be immersed in it without danger. It is used as a germicide in dentistry, and may be had at any drug store.

CHANCES ON "OLD HOSS" SALES.

Buyers of Auction Express Packages Take Considerable Risk.

While the recent old hoss sale of the Pacific Express company was well attended, and the bidding brisk, the receipts fell short of the total of charges checked up against the packages. And then there is a chance of the owners for a number of the packages auctioned off turning up and demanding pay for their goods. The law allows four years for reclamation of lost packages, so the express companies preserve their records for that length of time before destroying them. Whether the auction price of a parcel balances the express charges must be gauged, it depends largely upon the initial point of shipment. Two packages of equal value may be put up for auction, one from New York and the other from Brigham City, sold at the same price, the former would be far behind the charges marked against it, while the other would be a heavy gainer on account of the difference in the distance traveled.

SUCCESSFUL TRYOUT.

Rebuilt Pipe Organ at First Congregational Church Gives Satisfaction.

The trustees of the First Congregational church and invited friends were present at the trying of the rebuilt organ, before formal acceptance after its reconstruction. Prof. A. H. Peabody, organist of St. Mark's cathedral, officiated at the console, as Prof. Shepherd could not be present owing to his bereavement in his family. The instrument was found to be even in better condition than when it was built in 1892. The new radial console proved a marked improvement over the old time box, the manuals were easier of manipulation, the response of the organ to the touch of the keyboard was much quicker than before, the various swell pedals and all of the mechanical accessories were in perfect condition, the pipes that had sounded hoarse, were toned down, the tuning was perfect; in fact there was nothing about the organ that did not commend itself to the audience. Mr. Grant of Boston, representing the Hutchinson-Veale Organ company, was congratulated on the thoroughness of his work.

WORK ON S. L. & O.

Completed to Ogden With Exception Of One Big Cut.

Senator Hamberger is very hopeful over the prospects of the Salt Lake & Ogden road. While the road is doing a traffic business only to Layton, the rails are laid to the Weber river, around the cut that is being completed for the permanent track to run through. The cut is 1,000 feet long and 60 feet wide, and is quite an undertaking, but Senator Hamberger, with characteristic energy, is pushing the work along, so that he is confident the Salt Lake & Ogden road will be opened for operation by the first of the year. At that

REPAIRS ON THIRD WEST.

At Intersection of North Temple Great Activity Prevails.

The intersection of Third West and North Temple streets is the center of a good deal of activity. The intersection is being repaired in the first place. Then the Short Line engineers have just completed the rebuilding of the City creek conduit under the street, and cemented the banks between the street and the tracks, to emerge just beyond North Temple street. At the northwest corner of the street intersection, the old Wingard adobe house, said to be 60 years old, is being demolished to make way for the Lynde warehouse. The heavy concrete footings for the warehouse walls are now being laid, operations being facilitated by dumping the concrete from ore cars which are filled at the machine mixer, and then run along on an improvised railway to where the mixer is to be deposited. Close by, a tall mill elevator is being completed.

WOOD DAVIS GOES FREE.

Case of Attempted Grand Larceny Is Dismissed Today.

Wood Davis, arrested some time ago on the charge of attempted grand larceny, will not have to stand trial for the alleged offense. The case was set for tomorrow morning for preliminary hearing, but this morning the matter was dismissed by Judge C. B. Diehl on motion of the prosecuting attorney, who stated that Davis tried to steal from John J. Simpson a diamond stick pin valued at $25.

GREEK LABORERS STRIKE.

Boards of Street Railway Employees Did Not Like New Boss.

Sixty-four Greek laborers, employed by the street railway service in finishing up the Waterloo line improvements, struck at 11 a. m. today, because they did not like their new boss. The one formerly set over them had been laid off because his services were unsatisfactory, and the new one has been unable to get on "the high side" of the men. The open rupture came today, and the strikers picked up their buckets and marched up to the West Temple street main offices where they were paid off and discharged.

It is alleged in the complaint that on March 20, 1907, the defendant bought 500 shares of Mason Valley copper stock at $2.50 per share, and that in order for the stock was received by the defendant, but that he has not paid for the stock.

John K. Culp has filed suit in the Third district court against J. M. Nimick, Joseph Larkin and R. E. Jorgensen, and their wives, and Salt Lake county, seeking to quiet title to a parcel of land in Lake View subdivision.

J. T. Tyler, who was charged by John Ramsey with battery, was discharged by Judge O. G. Armstrong today upon motion of P. J. Daly, based upon an insufficiency of evidence.

TUNNEL MONEY

IS ALL ASSURED

Colorado Anxious to Take Up Bonds for Moffat Road Project.

INVOLVES A SIX-MILE BORE.

Hope Through Continental Divide to Bring Denver Twelve Hours Nearer Salt Lake.

Financial preparations in the project covering the driving of a tunnel through Continental divide to shorten the distance between Salt Lake and Denver are assuming satisfactory shape. Pledges for bonds are being received in surprising number and from the eagerness displayed by reliable men for them, preliminary work can be started as soon as necessary papers can be drawn up. The tunnel will be a six-mile affair for the use of the Moffat road and the bonds are to be redeemed in ten years by the Moffat road, which will then own the tunnel. The Moffat road will be surety for the Continental Tunnel company. Charles J. Hughes, attorney for the Moffat road and Attorney James H. Blood for the tunnel company are now drawing up all papers such as contracts, blank forms etc. This is being done rapidly.

CUT TIME IN TWO.

Subscriptions to the tunnel fund will reach $50,000 and the work alone will cost every cent of this big amount. Interest at 6 per cent on the bonds, paid semi-annually will amount to $200,000. To investors they look as good as government bonds. The brains connected with the project are not putting themselves on the pay-roll at exorbitant salaries. They are Denver men and in being such are willing to work for their state and west—and not worry about the salary end of the proposition. The tunnel which will be started at the base of James peak will cut through the divide, cutting out 20 miles running on the one divide and the running time—now 34 hours—between the cities will be cut just in half. This proposition is one of the most important new railroad ventures Salt Lake has to congratulate herself for.

GOULD OFFICIALS RETURN.

Have Seen Outside Progress—Looking Over City Today—Greatly Surprised.

The party of Gould officials to this city for the past three days leaves for the east this evening. It comprises J. M. Johnson, Gould's big traffic man; B. M. Flippin, assistant freight traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific at St. Louis; W. E. Knight of Kansas City and J. H. Horsey, assistant live-stock agent at Kansas City. Each member is an expert in his particular line and make up the strongest traffic party in Salt Lake. Monday, day before yesterday was spent at Brigham and out at Garfield; yesterday out on the Western Pacific and today is being consumed with an auto trip around town. Y. Bernhart, assistant general freight agent in this city has been showing the visitors around. They admit they have been more than surprised by the showing made by Salt Lake and tributary territory. "Brigham and Garfield were revelations," said Mr. Johnson, and the same expression came from each visitor. They explain their visit to one of the highest live-stock nation—it is what? asked their interviewer. "We'll go west boosters of the west," was the answer. There might have been several others as it is believed the officials are here to get ideas for recommendations and suggestions.

BROTHERS WANT INQUEST.

Tremayne Boys Say Brother Was Allowed to Bleed to Death.

An inquest on the death of Fred Tremayne has been requested by the dead man's brothers, A. C. and George Tremayne. Fred was the man run over at Woods Cross Oct. 11, by an O. S. L. train. He died later in the L. D. S. hospital. They allege he was allowed to bleed to death when he could have probably survived being run over had medical attention been obtained at once. Tremayne got off one train to transfer to another. He sat between the tracks and one leg was thrown over the tracks. A freight thundered up, mauling the member terribly. This was a half hour past midnight and it is said Tremayne was kept in a caboose for three hours. It is alleged that a resident of Woods Cross offered to take the young man to the nearest doctor in a buggy but the offer was not accepted. The inquest will be held Friday afternoon in Judge Smith's court.

DOUBTS ANNOUNCEMENT.

Reno Resident Says Western Pacific Can't Be Finished by 1909.

A. A. Hubbard of Reno in an interview printed in the Reno Gazette says 25 steam shovels are now at work between that city and Quincy. Mr. Hubbard, continuing sales in a branch, said at Spring Garden a loop similar to the Tehachapi loop is being constructed to take up the grade. At this place the track comes back at the end of the loop 25 feet lower than it began, being about one mile long. A loop above Spring Garden, on Squaw creek, the east end of the long tunnel is about 2,500 feet and is giving great trouble by the settling character of the soil in the hill. There is talk of building a temporary switch-back from the bottom of the hill to the tunnel to be finished. This tunnel is to connect the road across from the middle fork of the Feather river to Squaw creek, which is a branch, and thus lead the railroad to the north fork of the Feather river. Although the Western Pacific expects to have the trains running through Nevada before 1909, the opinion prevails that the immense work will take a longer time. The line is three and one-half miles north of Quincy at its present point, and the city expects to use until the new line is in the convenient manner it can deliver all material needed without transferring to the narrow gauge cars.
