MAY YET EXTEND TO SACRAMENTO.

Operating Jurisdiction of the Oregon Short Line May be En reased.

LINEUP OF OFFICIALS TODAY.

Some Changes Which Went Into Effect at Midnight-Railroad News From Far and Near.

At midnight the reorganized operation of the Oregon Short Line went into effect without a hitch with General Manager Bancroft's and General Superintendent Buckingham's jurisdiction extended to take in that portion of the Union Pacific from Green River, Wyo., to Ogden and the Central Pacific from Ogden to Reno, Nev.

It is understood that this change is but temporary and that the legal talent representing the Harriman roads in New York is at present working on a proposition which has as its ultimate end the extension of the Oregon Short Line to take in the entire Central Paci-fic system to Sacramento, Cal. Whether this will be accomplished, however, remains to be seen.

As things are at present the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific as separate corporations will retain their identity. For the benefic of those who have been asking about transportation Union Pacific transportation will be good into Ogden, as will Southern Pa-cific as heretofore. Short Line annuals will not be accepted on the new terri-tory placed under the operating juris-diction of Mr. Bancroft. Reports on earnings will also be forwarded to the auditors at Omaha and San Francisco as heretofore.

The lineup of the new operating offi-cials for the enlarged system is as fol-E. Buckingham, general superintendent Utah division, headquarters at Og. A. B. Forbes, superintendent of telegraph, succeeding Mr. Calvin in Salt

H. J. Roth, trainmaster. Instructions have been issued to conductors and others regarding transportation, yard rules, routing of freight tation, yard rules, routing of freight and passenger traffic and other matters connected with the change.

In Cheyenne, according to the "News" correspondent, these changes are not regarded with a great deal of enthusiasm, for it is feared that the taking away of the western districts from the Union Pacific and merging same with the Oregon Short Line will be with the Oregon Short Line will be followed by other changes which will seriously affect the welfare of certain officials and other employes of the company, and at the same time cause many unsatisfactory changes in business conditions there. He says: "All sorts of rumors are afloat as to what will be done. One report has it that the change at Green River will cause all shop work between Green Liver and Ogden to be sent to Ogden instead of coming to the shops here, and if this is done the force here will, of course, be cut down.

"Another report has it that the offices of Superintendent W. L. Park of the Wyoming division will be moved either to Denv. r or Omaha or be abolished altogether. One thing is certain, how-ever, and that is that there will be some change in this office, for the company will either tack on other divisions to make up for the districts taken away, or else an official in Omaha will look after the entire road from Omaha to

"A majority of those who have discussed the proposition are of the opinion that the Denver Pacific will be added to Superintendent Park's district, and it is believed that pressure will be brought to bear in Denver to have his office moved to that city. If this is done he will probably be made general su-perintendent of the Julesburg branch, Denver Pacific and Wyoming division and that a similar officer in Omaha will look after the main line and branches between Omaha and Cheyenne. "Railroad officials and business men are anxiously awaiting the next move and until it is made there will be a feeling of unrest and uneasiness here,"

O. S. L. RATES.

The grievance of the machinists has nothing to do with their wages. They admit we are paying them as much money as any other road. The trouble is based upon the action the company takes in regard to the employment of its men. It is generally understood when the Santa Fe employs a man no questions are asked as to whether he belongs to a union or not. The ma-chinists have asked us hereafter when men were employed that union men be given the preferenc. This we re-

New York, April 1 .- Employes of the Erle railroad are seeking a readjust-ment of wages. Last year's increases of 6 per cent were made in all departments. The agreement was to last one year. The employes now wish an-other advance and their first committee representing the locomotive drivers has called on General Manager Stewart before whom the matter was placed. No conclusion was reached but meet-ings will be held almost daily until the complaints of all departments have been adjusted. The demands of each class of employes are to be considered separately, and advances or reductions in wages will depend wholly upon the merit of individual cases.

M. P. Wells carries a bowieknife. He has not as yet used it, but hopes to. The height of his ambition will be realized at about the moment he runs across a certain practical-altogether too practical-joker, to whose rank methods he fell a ready victim during last night.

Wells had gone home from his shop in the Progress building in a sickly condition. In fact, his health has not been of the best for several days, and his attendance on business has been irregular. He was pitching and tossing in his bed last night, the hour being near 12 o'clock, when a sharp ringing of the telephone brought him to his feet. With a startled cry, he sprang to the receiver. He remembers hearing some unfamiliar voice connect "Progress-Herald-fire-burn," and then he umped towards the wardrobe. In an instant he was dressed, and running down First street like a maniac. "Great Jehosophat!" he murmured, covering another two leagues, "and there's a thousand dollars worth of stuff in that room.' Seven minutes later Wells arrived at the Progress block, hatless and breathless. Finding the surroundings in normal condition, he slowly made his way upstairs to his establishment. Pinned on the door he found a card, bearing the neat, comforting inscription, "April

Mr. Wells refused to be quoted as to his remarks at this juncture. He merely took a cab home, and the driver, who had no way of escaping the sounds from within, will be taken to Provo in the morning.
