

The Colorado Chieftain wants to know "what became of the anti-polygamy plank that Watterson was asked to put into the democratic platform?" It went with the other rotten lumber, like the resolutions of the Salt Lake self-elected central committee and of the great unrecognized Wyoming delegates, into the rubbish pile of things too contemptible to talk about.

It is a question now whether Edison, "the wonderful inventive genius," has ever brought forth anything original. His new ore separator, if not a plagiarism is certainly not unknown to smelting experts, and a correspondent of the Scientific American, after seeing a description of Edison's "invention" in that paper says: "A device absolutely identical with this has been in use for the past ten or fifteen years at the emery works at Chester, Hampden County, Mass. I there saw it in use myself in November, 1876, and was informed, I think by Mr. Ames, that it was not patented, and that no valid patent could be granted upon it by reason of its long continued public use."
