OLD,

TRIED,

AND TRUE.

People are getting acquainted—and those who are not ought to be—with the wonderful merits of that great American Remedy, the

MEXICAN

Mustang Liniment,

FOR MAN AND BEAST

This liniment very naturally originated in America, where Nature provides in her laboratory such surprising antidotes for the maladies of her children. Its fame has been spreading for 25 years, until now it encircles the habitable globe.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment is a matchless remedy for all external ailments of man and beast.

To stock owners and farmers it is invaluable.

A single bottle often saves a human life or restores the usefulness of an excellent horse, ox, cow, or sheep.

It cures foot-rot, hoof-ail, hollow horn, grub, screw-worm, shoulder-rot, fungus, the bites and stings of poisonous reptiles and insects, and every such drawback to stock breeding and bush life.

It cures every external trouble of horses, such as lameness, scratches, swinny, sprains, founder, wind-gall, ring-bone, etc., etc.

The Mexican Mustang Liniment is the quickest cure in the world for accidents occurring in the family, in the absence of a physician, such as burns, scalds, sprains, cuts, etc., and for rheumatism, and stiffness engendered by exposure. Particularly valuable to Miners.

It is the cheapest remedy in the world, for it penetrates to the centre in the bone, and a single application is generally sufficient to cure.

Mexican Mustang Liniment is put up in three sizes of bottles, the larger ones being proportionately much the cheapest. Sold everywhere.

The Potter Investigating Committee.

The following is a portion of the Anderson-Jenks corespondence:

The North American, Philadelphia, March 25th, 1878:

My Dear Mrs. Jenks:—I have been in Washington some days, hence have not answered your last amusing letter. Evidently your visit to Washington caused you to lose your temper. I don't know when I laughed so heartily as I did after reading your letter. Bless your innocent soul! You shouldn't get mad, it don't do a particle of good, and spoils the complexion of women. They do say that Sherman fooled you badly; that you gave him that letter on promises to pay, and that after getting it he told you to whistle for your dingbats. Now, I can imagine a mysterious woman of Louisiana chuck full of damning proofs of conspiracies, etc., and who traveled a hundred miles for the purpose of straightening things generally, whistling in aid for dingbats Jewhillikens! I don't wonder you got mad. Sherman is a sly old coon, who knows the soft side of the gentler sex, and with the visions of sinecures, etc., in prospective, I am not surprised at the old sinner's success. And so you are coming up fortified. You have no idea how my hopes survived when I learned of your decision. Come by all means; send a barrel of dynamite by express, and fortify yourself with a return ticket. You ought to hear M——s tell how you tried to bulldoze him out of a pass.

It is as good as a circus. I enclose you an article from a Chicago paper which you can hand down to your posterity as an heirloom or use—all the same.

Very truly yours,
JAMES R. ANDERSON.

On the same sheet with the foregoing letter is written the following:

"Senator.—I send you Mr. A's letter to me and a copy of my reply thereto; which I mailed yesterday. Please return these to me and oblige.

(Signed) "A. D. JENKS,
Lock box 3559, N. O."

The following also is written on the same sheet;

"Senator Matthews.—May I trouble you to explain that clause in the fellow Anderson's letter in regard to me requesting a pass from you? How did you chance to mention it? Was it necessary that you should do so? Not that I care, but knowing the fellow as you and I do, I must say I am somewhat astonished. I deemed whatever I said to you regarding my own private affairs would at least be inviolate, as it is not often I mention them to any one; but it don't matter, I wish you to write me a definite answer to my first letter to you, mailed the 15th; be it pro or con., I wish to know. Please return these enclosed letters to me. I always keep duplicates of aught I write to such reptiles. They may be of use hereafter.

"Yours,
"A. D. JENKS."

The North American,
Philadelphia, April 10, 1878.

My Dear Mrs. Jenks:—Your last two letters may not have been funny, as you say, still I laughed heartily over them, nevertheless. And so you were not mad? How strange, considering you d—d Hayes, Sherman & Co., and wished them all to the devil. I naturally concluded you were mad. And so you would not take filthy greenbacks from my friends? Well, I distinctly understood you to name $500 as the sum needed to pay off that mortgage, and after receiving it, you would return to New Orleans and forward the documents that would carry consternation generally to the administration. What in Satan's name did you expect to gain by lying in the manner you did, for you did it most damnable? Why, at the very time you were in Washington, trying to sell that document, another party was here who had it in his possession, and he declares you never saw it; that he does not know you, and never heard of you until you gained notoriety by attempting to bulldoze S. U. No wonder the old coon got mad. He knew all about it and knew you knew nothing. I was not aware of the actual state of things until the day I saw you last, and only the production of the paper itself could convince me that you had the hardihood to come on such a fool's errand. There is a building just outside of Jackson to which I think you had better be sent. And so you want to know how M. S. come to speak of the pass, "for many reasons." Well, if you will state your reasons, and they are good ones, I may give you the information; however, I think you had better retire to the shades of private life and meddle no more with politics. I would recommend a shower bath daily. It sometimes cures in mild form. Very truly yours, J. E. A.

His letter is endorsed by Mrs. Jenks as Anderson's cursing letter, April 10, 1878.

New Orleans, April 15, 1878.

Mr. Anderson:—Permit me to congratulate you on the discovery of your eldorado letter which has so long existed as a bright spot in your imagination. Did you exclaim, "Is that the letter which I see before me?" or "Oh, there are thousands of them if you only knew where to find them;" like the Irishman, "Its many a foine feathers you might get if they had been given to you," but alas, "there's the rub." Nay, I am not mad, and really have the brightest admiration for the administration. I regret to perceive, my good sir, like many of your brother lunatics I have chanced to meet, that you deem others mad and only yourself sane. A common case, but forbear. There's a place in Baton Rouge I deem a suitable residence for you. I imagine the regulation custom thereof would well become your bright, blonde beauty, and in the solemn gloom of that grand old pile you might meditate on the fleeting uncertainty of letters political. Many thanks for your kind and disinterested advice, though I am unable to avail myself of it, from the fact that I so much admire the science of politics. I feel I must bask in their sunshine for a time at least. I think a slight shadow of reason might return to you, if you would only take a trip through the hills of East Feliciana parish, and let the bulldozed get hold of you once more. I imagine your ultimate cure under their tender treatment would be certain, and thereby confer a great favor on your friends. Your ideas seem very much mixed, judging from the wild manner in which you intermingle my private affairs with political matters. Pardon me, I am too good a republican to think of my own interest when I feel that the very life of the republic and well-being of my own party are at stake. Behold in me a true patriot.

N. B.—I would suggest to you to keep that man with the document in sight. Stick closer to him than a brother. "Grabbel him to your soul with hooks of steel." Let your understanding with him be specific enough. Should you get the document, let no man grab it from you, but "hold the fort" with much dignitude.

Hoping you may in time recover from your mental indisposition and regain your usual intellectibility,

I am, with much sympathy,
Yours, A. D. JENKS.

I am not at all interested in aught Senator M. may or may not have said, so don't distress yourself.

Swoop! (After this word follows the representation of a bird in the act of swallowing a fly.)

In a letter to J. R. Sypher, dated New Orleans, April 29th, 1878, Mrs. Jenks says: "I am not aware that I ever offered to sell anything to you for $500, as Mr. A. says. Knowing so well his Munchausen proclivity, I doubt that you ever made such a statement; in fact it was quite impossible that you could have done so."

To this letter Sypher replied as follows.

Philadelphia, May 3, 1878.

My Dear Madam:—Your letter of the 29th inst., is in receipt. Of course, upon the strength of the very pleasant and protracted interview I had with you at Washington, it would have been impossible for me to have named the price at which the letter could have been obtained. No such thing was talked of, and I have never expressed, nor even formed an opinion as to whether you could, if you were ever so willing, produce the letter upon any conditions or for any consideration.

As to that Weber-Anderson letter, I said to you it possessed no special value, and beyond curiosity to know whether it was in existence or whether it had been destroyed, I cared nothing about it."

J. R. SYPHER.

Agnes Jenks was recalled. She said she had not seen Sherman since she came to Washington. Witness failed to identify a certain writing as that of the person who made the first draft of the Sherman letter.

Joseph L. Pearson, printer, Washington, identified certain printed papers of the electorial commission.

Butler said, at the proper time he would show that there was ample punishment for Boulds Baker, who refused to testify whether Congress was sitting or not.

Mrs. Jenks made a personal explanation denying the accuracy of the statement made by a reporter of the Baltimore Gazette concerning a conversation between herself and Anderson. She also denied Glasscock's testimony that she had threatened to make it hot for Secretary Sherman. She denied, in toto, Haley's statement. She never talked with him but once, and that in the presence of Mr. Sypher. She thanked the committee for their unvarying courtesy, and was discharged. Adjourned.

The Police Raid.

ST. LOUIS, 1.—Mayor Bowen, of East St. Louis, says there will be no further force used to get the headquarters of the Metropolitan police quarters. He deplores yesterday's work, but says he was acting legally, while the others were outside of law. Wider, the other leader, maintains that the Metropolitan's decision was expected soon from the supreme court. Both councils meet within 24 hours. The two Metropolitans who did the shooting were examined to-day and held in $1,000 bail each.

Mysterious Robbery.

PAINESVILLE, O., 1.—At 1.30 this afternoon, an express messenger's bag, containing $21,000 was stolen, and as yet no clue as to the money or thieves has been found. The bag was delivered to the messenger at the city office who, with the agent of the American Express company and the driver, all rode together in a wagon to the Painesville and Youngstown railroad, a distance of half a mile. On arriving there the bag and contents were missing.

Wholesale Slaughter.

ELMIRA, N. Y., 1.—Col. Alvah Buckbee, a prominent resident of this city, shot his wife and his mother-in-law, and then blew his own brains out, dying instantly. Both women are fatally injured.

A Double Shooting Scrape.

CHICAGO, 1.—Late last night two shooting affairs occurred on the west side, the victims in each case being women.

Peter E. Stephens, who has for some months been living apart from his wife Mamie, aged 17, having as he thought become possessed of proofs of her infidelity, confronted her as she was going into the house of her parents, drew a revolver, and fired two shots, one entering her head and the other her left shoulder. He was taken to the police station and held to the criminal court without bail.

Thos. O'Brien, after having quarrelled with his wife, fired at her with a revolver, wounding her in her breast. He escaped, and has not yet been captured. The physicians say the wounds of both women will prove fatal.

Arrest of Train Wreckers.

WILMINGTON, Del., 1.—Harley Brown, the man arrested on suspicion of having wrecked the express train near Claymont, Del., on Saturday night, by which four lives were lost, has confessed. He accompanied a coroner's jury to the scene of the disaster, and illustrated the manner in which he arranged the ties so as to throw the train off. He was then remanded to jail. Brown was formerly employed on the road, but was discharged. He claims he did not intend to wreck the train, but after causing the obstruction it was his intention to signal and stop whatever trains might come along, and so obtain a situation on the road for what would appear to be a great service. He said he did not know the express was coming, and had calculated only on stopping an accommodation train, which followed it.

WESTERN.

The Indian Troubles.

SAN FRANCISCO, 1.—A Portland dispatch says: A letter just received here from Heppner, Umatilla County, dated June 28th, says: Great excitement prevails in this neighborhood relative to the Indian troubles. News has just been received here that the Indians have made an attack on Camon City. No particulars. Parties have commenced moving their families to places of safety. The Umatilla Indians have put their women and children on the reservation and joined the hostiles. Everybody expects a general uprising and prolonged war.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

The Peace Congress.

LONDON, 1.—A Berlin dispatch says: The congress was in session three hours to-day. The representatives of Roumania were present and made a statement of their claims. It is not expected that their demands will be granted. The congress will acknowledge the independence of Roumania only on the condition that all religions be granted liberty of worship.

It is anticipated that the question of the occupation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria will soon be brought before the congress again and carried to a result. All the European powers have instructed their ambassadors in Constantinople to urge the Porte to yield. It is reported in many quarters, that the Turkish plenipotentiaries have been instructed to offer merely a formal opposition.

The Russian members of the military commission which is now discussing the boundaries of Servia, are in favor of making them include Novi Bazar and Nisch. The Turkish and some other plenipotentiaries oppose this.

The Political Correspondence of Vienna reports that these negotiations continued on Sunday with good prospect of success.

The congress had decided to cede to Russia that portion of Bessarabia which she lost in 1856, extending from the Pruth to the Kilia Valley.

The congress also decided to transfer the Dabruscha to Roumania. The frontier of the new territory is to be advanced so as to run from the neighborhood of Silestria, without including that town, to Mangalia on the Black Sea. Roumania will thus acquire a fertile tract of country and be established on both banks of the Danube.

The congress has recognized the independence of Roumania and Montenegro.

Counts Schouvaloff and Andrassy have arrived at an understanding with regard to the frontiers of Montenegro.

The Montenegrin question was settled at Monday's session of the congress in accordance with the Austrian programme. Montenegro receives a considerable increase of territory on the north and northeast, and acquires, subject to certain restrictions, Antivari and its harbor. She does not obtain the shore south of Antivari, and care is taken to leave about 20 miles between Montenegro and Servia for the contemplated Austrian railway to Salonica. The territory ceded to Montenegro is about half what was allotted to her in the San Stefano treaty.

In discussion of Roumanian questions, Beaconsfield deplored, but contented himself with protesting against Russia's infraction of the treaty.

The chances of Greece have not improved. Russia objects to an extension of Greek influence, except as regards a few frontier districts. It is feared not a single power will defend the cession of Crete to Greece. Much will be attained if the Turks can be induced to accede to a trifling rectification of her frontier. The congress will certainly pay little heed to Turkey's passive resistance to Austrian occupation. The Turkish plenipotentiaries, who neither have nor will receive fresh instructions, will sign the treaty of peace without difficulty.

A Vienna correspondent expresses a similar opinion, and adds that Emperor Francis Joseph is expected to arrive in Vienna on Tuesday. When the military preparations for the occupation of Turkish provinces will commence, but troops will not be ready to march for twelve or sixteen days. A Belgrade dispatch states that the governor of Bosnia is arming the population en masse, to resist the Austrians.

A Berlin correspondent says: It is not thought that any power will support Russia's claim to Batoum, an attempt to enforce which would surely cause bloodshed. The same correspondent asserts that Silestria is ceded to Roumania by the congress. But this is doubtful.
