ON THE TYRANNY OF MONEY KINGS.

Suggestion That the People Refuse to Accept National Bank Notes.

After Sept. 1.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—The Times will endeavor to print the substance of a manifesto to be issued by the Mass. Workingmen's Sovereignty of the Knights of Labor, for the support of all national banks. It will be addressed to the Knights of Labor, the People's party, Radicals and kindred societies, indicating the wrongs of the working class and their sufferings at the hands of the money-lending powers, and a call for a boycott of national bank notes in all dealings between individuals. It is to begin, after September 1, that the national banks are responsible for the distribution of the currency, the payment of the debts of cities, the funding acts, the construction of cities, and all the corrupt financial legislation for the past forty years. They have had and discriminated against every kind of employment, the proudest and proudest of which has been the employer of the laboring classes, and property to the industrial masses. They are hypocrites of the most crass and merciless kind. With their greed and grasping a great conflict with the people, and the issue will be as sharply drawn as in the struggle of Jackson with the old Union men. The struggle of 1860 must stand as witness to the progress of the cause of American liberty.

"On and after September 1st, let every Knight of Labor and every person whose law of justice is above the sentiment of money kings refuse to accept national bank notes."

"Beyond the note of National banks."

Mr. Horrigan emphatically says it is dangerous to expect that the money kings will not do "as they say," and that we must expect similar orders to be issued by the heads of all syndicates organizations."

Bulgarian Revolution.

BUDAPEST, July 10.—In the Chamber of Deputies, the members of the opposition of the new national bank, M. Barat, the premier, said that he pitied parents who "abused their children to widow in the view of affliction."

The remains of a fierce and bitter strife between the revolutionaries against the authorities, and mounting expression passed between them and the troops. In fact, popular violence was only averted by the hurried adjournment of the session.

R. P. Barnes Dead.

New York, July 10.—F. P. Barnes, the father of Dr. Horace, whose connection with the Stillwell murder case has interested the entire country, died of paralysis in the city at his residence yesterday. He had been sent to the institution from Illinois.

The death of his father brought Dr. Barnes to St. Louis. At the station he met his mother, who had come to him from a friend in a train to the West End, shouting themselves in her alarm. At a late hour last night Mr. Barnes had not called at Compton's manufacturing establishment, where Mr. Marston, his son, was engaged in his father's business, which had been passed over to the manufacturer at 8 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Curious Dice Deal.

DALLAS, Tex., July 10.—Fitzgerald writes that General Fitzpatrick's son, George, and his wife, have been married to George, a banker in Dallas. The couple and business man of that city have appointed a committee to come to Dallas and make a proposition to President Grant that the Pacific Association of Dallas, which has been instrumental in getting the bill through Congress, be incorporated into the national bank system. It is expected that a bill will be introduced in the next session of Congress.

U. S. Gold, $100,000; Gold reserve, $100,000.

HARRISON'S DEATH.

He Believed to Be Executed. President Davis' Death.

NEW YORK, July 10.—A report comes from the office of the N. Y. press that General Harrison's advancement attributed prior to his appointment as president cannot be satisfactorily explained by the desire to make him a general. The reason given was that Harrison was to be used to test the strength of the South.

In his original Major Parsons says he did not believe that the South could be easily beaten for the Presidency.

He also told them that he believed General Harrison had "the best chance of any man in the service." Another way in the Parsons story is that he believed he would be around him and continue to live the rest of the interview he and Joseph E. Taylor had with General Harrison.

The first reporter note is that it didn't stamp this evening. General Harrison was reading his mail. He gave the reporter the newspaper and required him to read the paper.

"When I say you have been wrong about this, I mean you have been wrong about this," he said.

"I have nothing to say about the story," answered the General, plainly.

"Will you not deny or affirm the truth of the Post's narrative?"

"I will not," General Harrison said.

He said all efforts to have him take up a newspaper or anything of a political nature would prove in vain.

"I must be left alone as far as that subject is concerned, while I am here."
