The Brines Recital-One of the most enjoyable events of its class which the season has afforded, was the song recital given by Mr. and Mrs. Brines in the Congregational church last night. A handsome audience was in attendance, and from the beginning there was a sympathetic and nearty under-standing established between perform-ers and listeners which vasily contri-buted to the evening's pleasure. In fact, so informal was the relationship, that when Mr. Brines, toward the close of his arduous program, suffered a lapse of memory, he laughingly told the au-dience he would try it over again. The audience responded with equat laughter and applause, and gave him a big round on the repetition. There were so many charming rendi-tions that it is difficult to single out any one for first mention, but with-out doubt the numbers which were so informal was the relationship, that any one for first mention, but with-out doubt the numbers which wers given with the most artistic feeling were Schubert's "Du bist die Ruh," the "Loch Lomond" ballad, (very tender-ly rendered) the "Irish Kings," and "The Little Irish Girl." He was recalled the the doubt purpher of when obvious ly rendered) the "Irish Kings," and "The Little Irish Girl." He was recalled after the final number, a rare circum-stance in a Salt Lake concert, and also had to repeat the charming "Lockruf" song by Ruckaur. There seem to be as many versions of "My Pretty Jane," as there are tenors rendering it. Mr. Brines' version is a most beautiful one, and he was greatly applauded after it, but we cannot help feeling that his rendition of the last note but one at the end of each verse is something of a liberty. The French song, "O Quand je Dors," is a noble number and it was nobly rendered; the old French dittles were given with characteristic axpression that showed Mr. Brines can be as good as he is a singer when occasion re-quires. The opening number from Messiah "Comfort Ye," a grand old standard, was finely sung, and evidenc-ed that the singer has fine breath control. His lower register too, is full and strong, something rure in a tenor. Generally his numbers were sung in light voice, but his ease and purity of tone were charming to listen to. Not less notable than the vocal num-bers were the plano accompaniments, and the solos rendered by Mes. Brines.

Not less notable than the vocal num-bers were the plano accompaniments, and the solos rendered by Mrs. Brines. She is an artist to the finger tips, and showed it not only in her two selec-tions, but in the exquisite way in which she accompanied the singer. The recital throughout established Mr. Brines firmly as one of the most popular and successful of Salt Lake's musicians.

A Grand Symphony of Color and Hat beauty, fairly brilliant in its translation of Hat Fashions, will break forth in our Millinery Parlor, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 1, 2 and 3. It is our formal fall opening. In practical beauty of conception, it is more than that-it is a perfect, unbroken picture of fashions that will sway millinery for fail and winter.

You will find on show the Masterpieces of every millinery designer. Hats to inspire an artist of brush or pen; hats that milady will adore for their picturesque grace of form, their brilliance of color.

Side by side, rubbing elbows, as it were, are the Hats from our own millinery staff. They rival the foreign beauties in all but prices. The DUOUESNE creations are but $5.00, $6.00, $7.50, $8.50, $9.00, $10.000 and so on; the imported models $25.00 to $100.00. There is so much to see, to learn, to love in the NEW HATS.

The Poke Bonnet of a generation past is plainly the inspiration of the fashionable scoop Hat of the fall. Even the streamers in the back or neath the chin are here to complete the illusion. Hats are large and brims bent down; trimmings flat and swathed .. Wings, flowers, foliage, colored like the flowers; quills nearly a yard long; plumes, paradise birds are the features. Poplin silk, bengaline silk and satin are the coverings for the hats; velvet brims with cord edge are new features,
