We have been born helrs to the Priest hood, entitled to enjoy the rights and privileges that pertain to the dispensi-tion of the fulness of times. The mis-sion has been assigned to us in this day and time of calling the world to repentance. She has turned from the paths of truth; she has broken the everlasting covenant; she has forgot-ten the isws and ordinances of the Gospel, and God in our time has announced that upon our shoulders rests the work of calling the human family to repentance, to flee from the wrath to come. During the past two days, those who have ministered to us have endeavored to make us realize the responsibility that rests upon our shoulders. We must practice the prin-ciples of righteousness. Outside of this is darkness, unhappiness, misery and woe; but when we are walkers "The oldest inhabitant" declared that it was the severest gale that has yet been felt here. It was not nowever, as the Signal Service office has one record where the velocity of the wind was three times greater per hour. The highest velocity for five consecutive minutes vesterilay afternoon, averaged forty miles per hour. This was for the five minutes closing at 2:45 p.m. At that moment a gust of wind raised the rate to forty-eight miles per hour. This was above the Wasatch building, where all is clear in the streets, and in all is clear. In the streets, and in other parts of the town, where the arrangement of trees, houses, etc., is conducive to "draughts," the velocity was of course greater at times. After the wind had subsided the dust settled down, and the atmosphere became cool. At 7:30 p. m., a slight shower came and laid the dust. While an earnest exhortation to falthfulness. it was raining the sun shone, giving three brilliant and beantiful rainbows on the east side of the valley.

this is darkness, unhappiness, misery and woe; but when we are walkers within the line of the duties that have been marked out for us there is joy, peace and satisfaction to ourselves, to our God, and to Him who was chosen as the Redeemer of the world. May we learn to perform well all our duties; to act well the part that has been assigned unto us; to realize the duties that God has imposed upon us in the holy Priesthood; and though we may have to make sacrifices in accom-plishing our mission, yet may we be true and faithful and be able to say as the Savior said, "Father, the will be done, not mine." ELDER R. C. BADGER 1 At one o'clock this morning a sharp rain storm set in, and in a short time a tenth of an inch had fallen, as registered at the signal service office. In the outlying portions of tewn and beyond the city limits, the rainfall was still greater. The storm was pretty general throughout northern Utah, Idaho and Montana.
