gifted reader of national reputation, to appear before the Salt Lake public next Friday evening in Barratt hall. On the same evening, Prof. A. H. Lund of the Brigham Young university at Provo will present his favorite pupil, Miss Bo-ren, whose singing is said to be of the highest quality. It is claimed that Miss Boren's voice is already equal to that of the leading singers of the state, and that a delightful surprise awaits those who will hear her for the first time on Friday night. Prof. Lund, also, will render a selection or two. The main interest, however, will center upon Miss Nelke, whose good taste in selecting and talent in rendition have caused her to take high rank in this line of work. Miss Nelke is an officer of the national association of elecution-ists, and at the convention last year in Denver was accorded a place on the upport. in Denver was accorded a place on the program. the first notes of the legislative swam song Monday afternoon, by calling a conference committee to book for delaying its report. The offending committee is that appointed by both houses to look into the vexed problem of duplicated studies at the Agricultural college and University of Utah. Upon a sugion from Hollingsworth that the next meeting of the committee go over until Wednesday evening, President Love demurred, and gave as a reason the fact that the end was drawing near, and the report ought to be in the hands of the senate at the earliest possible moment. The date of meeting was changed to tonight.

The session yesterday was a busy one, and in point of bills passed it was the most satisfactory of the season. For the first time in a month the entire body was present, and for the first time since convening Senator Lawrence, chairman of the judiciary committee, found himself standing alone in debate, and voted down upon the floor.

The senate fell apart with Lawrence in a chunk by himself, over Hollings-worth's S. B. 52. The bill had been haid over to a special grder at 3 o'clock, from its third reading on Friday, at the request of Lawrence, and when it was called forth for final action, he be-the request of Lawrence, and when it was called forth for final action, he be-gan an assault upon it, as the result of his studies over the week's end. The broadest ground of objection, he said, was that it opened the way for the gen-eral companies of the state—the mining companies, the public utility companies in general to merge their interests—and hence was in fact enacting a trust. In reply to questions, he stated that under the law the light and power companies after being consolidated could easily reach out into the merchandising busi-ness, the mining business, or in fact any general business not protected by special law. He therefore saw grave dangers ahead in the possibilities of the measure, especially as it placed most of the power of a corporation in the hands of its directors, making only a majority vote of the stock necessary to enact any change in the purposes for which the company was organized. Senator Bamberger followed Lawr-ence with a strong speech for the bill. He deplored the tendency of Utah to drive big corporations into organizing claswhere, by making barriers about the filing of their articles. Upon roli call the senate stood for the bill in a body, except Lawrence and President Love, who joined him in the voting. The srist of other bills that were sent
